DISASTERS STIR CRY FOR BETTER WAR DIRECTION

F. D. R., Churchill Face Rising Storm.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Increasing agitation for a more efficient administration in both Washington and London signalizes the beginning of the fourth month of the war in the Pacific which has been an unrelieved succession of disasters for the American, British and Dutch.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill has been fighting for his political life ever since he returned to London from Washington early in the year. Following the British reverses in Malaya he staved off an overturn of his ministry with a dramatic announcement of the arrival of American troops in North Ireland as a symbol of the vast American expeditionary force relied upon eventually to invade Europe and conquer Hitler.

Foreseeing such a parliamentary crisis Mr. Churchill had asked President Roosevelt for the American troops within an hour after reaching Washington and the President promptly complied.

Churchill Still Under Fire.

After the fall of Singapore the Prime Minister came under hotter fire. In vain he held forth the entrance of the United States into the war [for which, he said, he had hoped and prayed] as a greater gain than all British losses to date. He was compelled to reorganize his cabinet extensively to weather the gale of criticism.

Notwithstanding these concessions, Mr. Churchill finds himself still under fire by an increasing opposition demanding his replacement by a more efficient manager of the war effort. Mentioned as his likeliest successor is Sir Stafford Cripps, who was brought into the cabinet to bolster the government.

Change in Cabinet Urged.

Likewise, the Roosevelt administration is under fire in and out of congress on the score of inefficient conduct of the war. Here, however, because of our form of government the fire is not centered upon our chief of state as it is in England. The British prime minister is removable by a mere vote of the house of commons. Our President is removable only by the long process of impeachment. Our President is not required to defend his administration before congress, as the British prime minister must account to parliament. Our President addresses his defense to the people by radio, as Mr. Roosevelt has done three times since Pearl Harbor.

As a result of this situation the drive in this country for a more efficient conduct of the war is directed chiefly toward inducing Mr. Roosevelt to reorganize his cabinet and the high command of the army and navy, which the Roberts report disclosed were no more alert to a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor than were Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short, who were held immediately responsible for the greatest disaster in our history.

Interventionists Critical.

One of the most significant developments is the increasing number of former interventionists and supporters of Roosevelt war policies before Pearl Harbor who are now manifesting a lack of confidence in the competence of the administration to conduct the war to victory.

There are the former interventionists who complain that the reverses in the Pacific are due to the failure of Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill to perceive that allied defense ought to have been concentrated in the Philippines from which base the entire Japanese drive thru the narrow China sea could have been disrupted.

There are the former interventionists, like Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] who confess their lack of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt as a war strategist and charge him with overruling the strategy of military experts of the war and navy departments. They implore the President to step aside and delegate strategy to some one more experienced in war than he is, such as Gen. Douglas MacArthur whom they would have him withdraw from the Philippines for that purpose.

Delegation of Authority.

There are the old line interventionists, such as Ernest Lindley, Roosevelt intimate and biographer, who

End the Frills, Win the War, Landon Urges

Topeka, Kas., March 8 [Special].—A grim warning that the American people are not going to have anything to say about the peace terms of this war unless they get busy and change the way the war is going was sounded in a radio talk by Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential candidate.

Alf M. Landon.

Landon, a former governor of Kansas, said this will be a long war or a short war, depending on how quickly and how completely we get into it. He criticized the national administration for diluting the war effort by diverting our energies toward changes in the social and economic system and called on all citizens to accept a Spartan existence for the sake of victory.

Calls for End of Frills.

Denouncing the continuation of frills and extravagance in government in the face of the load the nation must carry, Landon pleaded for a concentration of all the power and resources of the nation for the single purpose of winning the war. He took direct issue with President Roosevelt on the President's contention that the American people need amusement.

"What we need is iron handed, two fisted leadership," he asserted. "The time for self-discipline has arrived."

Landon also spoke out against direction of the war strategy by the President.

"Vigilant observers are united in urging the need of a unified military command under the President with the aid of a general staff," he said. "That means the President must refrain from planning the war strategy, which he could not possibly understand."

Capitalism as the Enemy.

Landon declared that by certain members of the administration Hitler is forgotten as the enemy and to them "the wicked capitalistic system" still remains the main enemy.

"We know these is waste and extravagance in Washington," he said. "We know there is bungling leadership. I am convinced that those who continue to push forward new and untried changes in our social and economic system are the real creators of dissension in this country at a time when we should be resolved to only one purpose."

Incidents Stir Public.

Landon asserted that such incidents as Mrs. Roosevelt's participation in the Office of Civilian Defense and congressmen voting themselves pensions may serve a useful purpose by arousing the people to prevailing conditions in government and starting them on the march against such conditions.

"If they keep up the march, they will get the same results in eliminating other frills and furbelows which this administration persists indulging in when we must strip for action," he declared.

"Let us show the world that Americans can fight long and hard, and give up not only luxuries but commonplace things as well, those things which are luxuries in all the rest of the world," he pleaded. "Behind such a Spartan life as I propose we can erect a bulwark behind which to outlast and outfight the axis powers, whether it be for 1 year or for 10 years."

Landon ridiculed present talk about peace terms or the ideologies involved in the war.

"I cannot conceive of anything more futile," he said, "than holding conferences about the terms of peace we are going to write when now we, the mighty republic, and the mightiest nations in the world, are receiving staggering blows from all quarters."

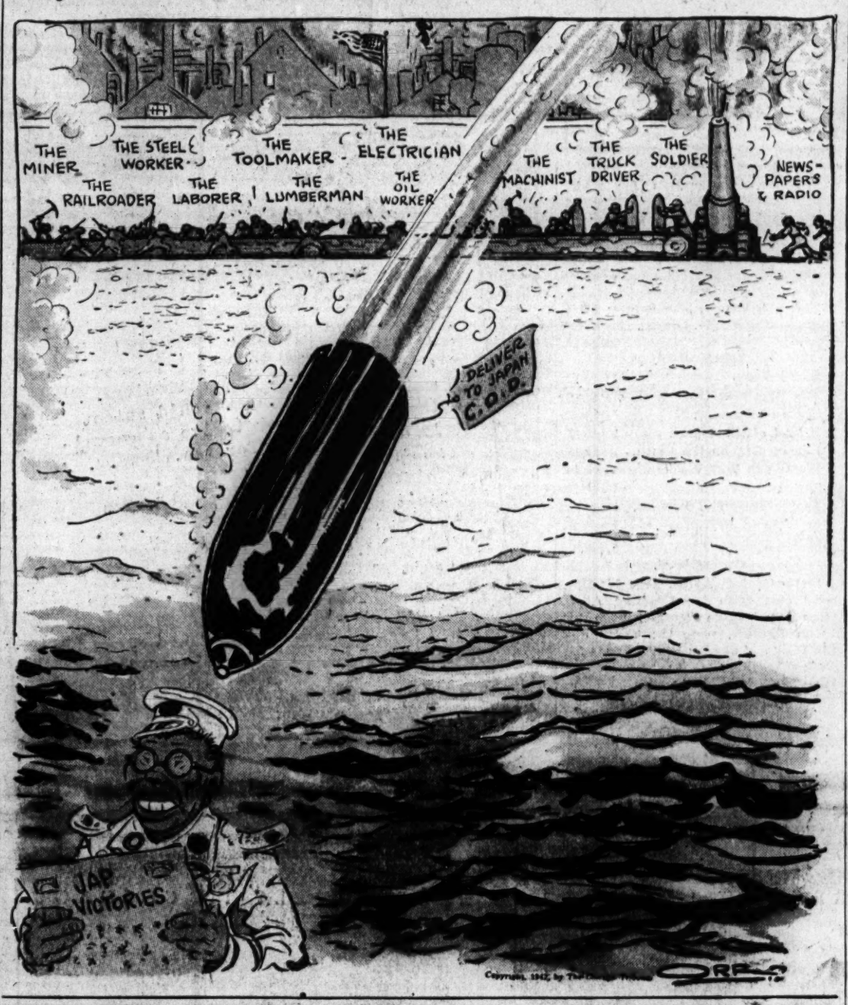
Four Planes Lost, 9 Dead, 9 Missing

AMERICA'S FRONT LINE
The Assembly Line Where Every Man Is a Fighter.



Hold Husband as Estranged Wife Is Slain

Rockford, Ill., March 8 [Special].—Horace Turner, 51 years old, a sewing machine factory worker, was ordered held tonight for further investigation by State's Attorney Max Weston after he was questioned in regard to the shotgun slaying earlier in the evening of Turner's estranged wife, Margaret, 33.

Mrs. Turner was shot and killed by an assailant who fired thru the front window of the William Mitchell home, just west of the city limits, as she was sitting on a davenport with William Mitchell Jr., 29, who was strumming a guitar. Mrs. Turner had been a roomer in the Mitchell home for the last month, according to the state's attorney.

Tracks Outside Window.

Tracks in the mud outside the window were examined closely by the police and plaster casts were made of them at Weston's orders. Weston said several footprints, apparently those of a man, were found under the window, but that due to the continuing snow storm no trail could be found indicating the approach or escape of the slayer.

The shooting occurred about 8:15 p. m., Weston said. Turner was found in his rooming house at 715 Elm street here shortly after 9 p. m. and told authorities, according to Weston, that he had spent the afternoon and early evening at a club and had thereafter visited a shooting gallery and a restaurant before coming home.

Weston said an investigation made by him indicated Turner had left the club about 4:30 p. m. and that he had been seen a few minutes later in the restaurant he claimed to have eaten in between 8 and 9 p. m.

Freed on Inquest Charge.

Turner and his wife had been living apart since Jan. 30, according to Weston. Turner was tried in January on a charge of incest involving one of his daughters and was acquitted by a jury on Jan. 29. Returning to his home, he quarreled the next day with his wife and caused her arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace. Records show she was fined on this charge. She did not return to live with Turner. Children of the couple are in a children's home, authorities said.

William Mitchell Jr., an employe of the Anderson Brass works, lived with his parents and two of his three children, Weston said. He separated about 5 months ago from his wife, Doris, 24, who now lives with her youngest child at the home of her parents at 212 N. Horseman street.

Young Mitchell told authorities that Mrs. Turner saw her husband near the Mitchell home about a week ago and said she was afraid of him. Weston said he has evidence that Turner had several times threatened to harm his wife.

No weapon was located by authorities. Young Mitchell and his wife were allowed to return to their homes after questioning by the state's attorney.

Map of West Indies

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will appear a color enlargement of Carey Orr's cartoon, "Let's Snap Into It, and Get It Over With." This will be found suitable for display as an inspiration to workers on the home front.

HUNGER STRIKER MARY M'SWINEY DIES IN DUBLIN

DUBLIN, March 8 (AP).—Mary MacSwiney, sister of Terence MacSwiney, the mayor of Cork who died in Brixton jail in 1920 while on a hunger strike for Irish freedom, and a stormy figure in her own right, died Saturday, it was announced today.

Mary MacSwiney.

Miss MacSwiney, who gained publicity by her numerous hunger strikes in the '20s, was president of the Sinn Fein executive council in 1926 but was defeated in the Irish elections in 1927. She dropped out of the news after that.

During the civil war Miss MacSwiney, with the late Countess Markievicz and Madam Maud Gonne McBride, was leader of the Cumann-Namban Irish women soldiers. She was credited with an ambition to be Ireland's Joan of Arc.

Payne Murder Jury, Split, 8-4, Is Discharged

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., March 8.—Special Judge Charles B. Staff summoned the jurors trying Caroline Payne for the murder of Charles O. Mattingly at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon—48 hours after they began their deliberations.

"If there is one among you who thinks you can reach a verdict," the judge said, "let him raise his hand."

Foreman Dewey Hudson, Ellettsville storekeeper, arose:

"Your honor," he said, "I think the jury is hopelessly deadlocked."

75-100 Ballots Taken.

"Then I will discharge you."

The jurors said they had taken between 75 and 100 ballots since they began their deliberations Friday afternoon.

Most of the jurors said the final ballot was 8 to 4 for conviction, with seven demanding life imprisonment for the poised dark defendant. Sometimes there were proposals of a compromise, with those insisting on life imprisonment offering to vote for a 2 to 21 year sentence to gain a conviction. But the others, who were holding out for acquittal or a 1 to 10 year sentence on an involuntary manslaughter charge, refused.

Mrs. Payne, who says she is 43 years old, never changed expression when the judge dismissed the jury. She forced a smile to her face later, but her failure to win acquittal was an obvious disappointment.

Widow Is Disappointed.

Mattingly's widow, Mrs. Lurayne Mattingly, 33, was at her home in Indianapolis when the case ended. Reached by telephone, she said:

"I will never be satisfied to let this case drop. I have a baby [Charlayne 2½ months old] and I would never feel safe a moment with Mrs. Payne free."

Plans for a second trial were immediately announced by Prosecuting Attorney Sylvan Tacklitt and his deputy, Robert F. McCrea.

Mrs. Payne was taken back to jail late today. She has been there eight months. Her attorneys, Q. Austin East and J. Frank Regester, said they would seek to have her freed on bail.

DIGEST OF MAJOR ACTIONS ON ALL FIGHTING FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Gen. MacArthur reported yesterday that American artillerymen had ambushed a Japanese convoy of 90 trucks in Bataan peninsula, opened fire on them suddenly and destroyed 29 of the trucks with their occupants. The trucks were carrying a regiment of 2,500 Japs to the front. The Philippines commander also reported that Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, the Japanese commander in the Philippines, was said to have committed hara-kiri because he had not been able to conquer the American forces.

The war was brought closer to Australia when Japanese forces under cover of planes and warships landed at two points on New Guinea, only 400 miles from the nearest point on the Australian continent. The Australian air ministry reported Australian planes scored direct hits on Japanese ships despite enemy anti-aircraft fire. The points invaded were Salamaua and Lae.

Java Defenders Cut Off.

The defenders of Java were cut off from the world for the second day. No news came from the beleaguered Dutch, Australian, British, and American forces. Axis sources broadcast reports that the Dutch had asked for terms of an armistice, but this was vigorously denied by the Dutch government in exile in London. In captured Batavia, the Tokio radio reported, the Japs set up a military rule threatening severe punishment for violations of orders.

Tokio reported the capture of Rangoon, capital of Burma. The capital's fall followed the occupation Saturday of Pegu, a junction city, 40 miles from Rangoon, the Japanese claimed.

Paris Factory Bombed.

Returning to the attack on French factories manufacturing war materials for the Germans, British bombers shattered a motor truck factory at Poissy, a western suburb of Paris. Other planes bombed a power station near Lille, railroad yards at Abbeville, and the submarine base at St. Nazaire. Two Nazi fighter planes and three British craft were destroyed.

On the Russian front the Red army captured Sychevka, on the rail line connecting the two German-held points of Rzhev and Vyazma, and reported wiping out virtually all of the 15,000 men of the German 48th division. Premier Stalin was said to be planning a full scale attack along the whole line to check Hitler's anticipated spring drive. A Berlin dispatch to a Berne newspaper said the Germans now admit a total loss of 1,500,000 soldiers in the Russian campaign.

On the Libya front "Free French" forces reported they took three Italian forts in the raid on the Fezzan desert oasis reported previously. Patrol activities took place between the British and German armies near Tobruk.

AUSSIE PLANES BOMB SHIPS; 2 LANDINGS MADE

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 9 [Monday]—(AP).—Japanese forces have effected landings at two places on the northeast coast of Australian mandated New Guinea under the guns of warships despite strong resistance by Australian warplanes, the air ministry announced today.

Gen. H. G. Bennett.

Direct hits were scored on vessels of the invasion armada, the announcement said, but it was not immediately clear whether any of the ships had been sunk.

Bombers Aid Invaders.

Japanese bombers also were said to have aided in covering the landing operations.

Soon after the Salamaua landing, the air ministry said, Australian warplanes made a daring, low flying attack on the fleet of warships and transports.

"Conditions were difficult, with visibility greatly reduced, but early reports show direct hits despite anti-aircraft fire," the communique added.

Japanese aircraft attempted unsuccessfully to intercept the Australian raiders, all of which returned safely to base after completing their mission, said the announcement.

Settlement on an Island.

Salamaua is a small island settlement separated from the New Guinea mainland by a narrow channel. Its airdrome in peacetime is used principally by commercial companies flying in and out of the gold mining regions of New Guinea. Salamaua has a small harbor, but is not considered a port except for coastwise shipping.

Australia braced for eventual attack on the mainland with hurried military preparations designed to take the offensive against Japanese thrusts.

Maj. Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett, former commander of Australian forces in Malaya who escaped after the fall of Singapore, told his countrymen in a broadcast "We must adopt the offensive not only with the forces but with the whole people."

Bennett predicted the Japanese would first try to capture air bases in northern and northwestern Australia and then drive southward from airdrome to airdrome. But, he added, the Japanese would not find stores of food and sufficient water in northern Australia as they had in Malaya.

Demands Air Support.

He urged Australia to insist on adequate air support.

"We must not allow our cities to be bombed from captured bases in the north," he said. "Our planes must be superior in quality and number to the enemy's.

"Defensive spirit develops a retreat complex. I have seen responsible officers in Malaya ask when a retreat will be made even before they have dug into their positions."

In a similar appeal for action Former Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies said "Attack is the only way in which the allies will be victorious."

"We shall find unity and cohesion when we coöperate for a great attack on our foes," he added.

All Australia is preparing for war, but the degree of readiness exhibited by her cities seems to depend somewhat on their relative distances from the Dutch East Indies. West coast cities in the south are far less war-conscious than those in the north.

Sandbags Everywhere.

In Brisbane sandbags and trenches are everywhere. Most store windows were taped or boarded up. In Sydney and Canberra there is less of such activity, while there is hardly a taped window in Melbourne.

JAVA STILL CUT OFF; SURRENDER HINTED BY AXIS

Dutch in London Scoff at Armistice Claims.

LONDON, March 8 (AP).—Admittedly hard pressed and beleaguered, the defenders of Java were cut off from contact with the world for the second day today while axis agencies broadcast a bewildering assortment of elusive unofficial reports of their surrender which the Netherlands government here emphatically denied.

The statement of the Netherlands government admitted, however, that it was without direct word from its forces in the Netherlands East Indies.

"The royal Netherlands government emphatically denies stories emanating from enemy sources to the effect that Japan has been asked for armistice terms," said the statement issued here thru the Netherlands government information bureau.

Japs Control Communications.

"As the Japanese have at present full control of all channels of communication with the Netherlands East Indies, it is to be expected that similar stories will be put out by various enemy quarters for the purpose of creating confusion. No credence should be attached to any of them."

The British war office, too, was without word from British troops fighting in Java since 12:55 p. m. 16:55 a. m., Chicago war time), Saturday, when the official Java radio at Bandoeng signed off with a farewell message: "Good-by 'til better times. Long live the queen." It was admitted here that the situation in Java was very serious."

"The 'no surrender' order was given to our forces in Java and it is generally being carried out," said Dutch sources. "Here and there a local commander may have been obliged to yield in order to avoid outright useless slaughter, but in the main we are hanging on."

Expect Guerrilla Warfare.

It was recalled that the "no surrender" order specifically called upon Dutch troops to fight on, even if cut off, an order which generally was interpreted as presaging guerrilla warfare if the main centers of Dutch resistance are overrun.

Other Dutch sources said the last information indicated that some protracted resistance would be possible in certain areas of Java, altho they were now unwilling to predict another stand like Gen. MacArthur's in Bataan in the Philippines. "Conditions are not the same," these sources remarked.

Tokio Quotes Lisbon Dispatch.

Reuters news agency in London heard the Tokio radio quoting a Domei dispatch datelined Lisbon telling of an "unconfirmed but reliable" report from the Java front which said that the Dutch command yesterday formally requested cessation of the battle. The dispatch reported that a staff officer bore a white flag to Japanese field headquarters at 11:30 p. m., yesterday (presumably Java time) and presented the request. "The Japanese reply is not yet revealed," it said.

The Berlin radio later sent out a similar account and the Paris radio contributed the statement that official word from Tokio said that the Dutch government had asked for cessation of hostilities on all fronts.

RANGOON FALLS TO JAP FORCES, TOKIO REPORTS

Burma Capital Occupied After Pegu's Capture.

TOKIO, March 9 [Monday]—[From Japanese Broadcasts]—(AP).—Imperial headquarters announced today the fall of Rangoon, capital of Burma, to the Japanese.

A communique said Japanese army forces completed occupation of the important port at 10 a. m. yesterday after destroying the main defense forces in the neighborhood of the capital.

The announcement also said that Pegu, 40 miles north of Rangoon, was captured Saturday afternoon.

Main Objective Reached.

"With the fall of Rangoon," imperial headquarters said, "the main objective of Japanese operations on the Burma front has been attained."

[Rangoon was the port of entry for war material and other supplies transported thru Burma and into China over the Burma road for the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

[The Japanese advance into Burma from Thailand already had destroyed the usefulness of this supply line for the Chinese before Japanese land forces even were threatening the capture of Rangoon itself.

[The end of the life line already had been anticipated some weeks ago in the plans of the united nations and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek made a special trip to India in which arrangements for alternative supply routes thru India to China were made.]

Drive Across Ricefields.

RANGOON, Burma, March 8 (AP).—Reënforced Japanese finally have driven across the dry rice fields of lower Burma and placed themselves astride the rail section of the Burma road, abandoned many days ago as a supply line to China, the British acknowledged today.

Despite the activities of British tank units, which made their first appearance in the Burma fighting a few days ago, the Japanese reached Payagyi, 10 miles north of Pegu, and established a road block at Pyinbongyi, 18 mines north of Pegu, said a communique issued here.

Pegu is at the junction of the railway from Moulmein and the line running from Rangoon to Mandalay, and is only about 40 miles from the outskirts of Rangoon.

About 45 miles west of Pegu is another railway which runs northward from Rangoon to Prome. Once this line is cut the British would have but one line of north and south railway communication left in lower Burma.

Don't Give Up the Slip

Remember those dainty handmades you reveled in . . . filmy bits of froth and lace that fit like a dream . . . and cost like a nightmare? Back before restrictions . . . and rationing . . . and high taxes . . . you'd select three, or six, or twelve as casually as you'd stop for tea. Now . . . you're hankering for more . . . but think you can't afford them. You can't at those other prices . . . but you can at Mandel's prices (only $3.50—imagine). No . . . don't give up your slip . . . give yourself the pleasure of shopping at Mandel's, where slips and shoes and hats and dresses are victoriously priced for restricted budgets.

BRITAIN PONDERS: ROB AUSTRALIA TO DEFEND INDIA?

Fate of Asia in Balance; U. S. Role Studied.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 8.—The defense of Australia and India, on which may hang the defense of Asia, constitutes the most crucial of the problems occupying the British war cabinet. Those responsible for the conduct of the war are confronted with a terrible choice—which "Peter" to rob in order to pay which "Paul."

Ever since Dunkirk, this choice has compelled the weakening of one front to bolster another. The greatest example of this was the halting of the first overwhelming attack of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell in Libya to send reënforcements to Greece.

The result was not only a major defeat in the loss of both Greece and Crete and numerous warships and transports, but prevention of the successful conclusion of the North African campaign.

Cut Russian Supply Line.

Indeed the Balkan campaign immeasurably weakened British mastery of the Mediterranean, and by giving Germans bases in Greece and the Greek islands, cut off the most valuable supply line to Russia—thru the Dardanelles.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill himself also admitted that the Singapore defense not only weakened the British navy thru loss of the great battleships Prince of Wales and Repulse, but deprived the British armies of men and equipment urgently needed at points from which they were sent to Malaya.

The defense of India, as every one knows, presents a political problem even more urgent than the military, as military defense itself is dependent upon the wholehearted support of the people of India.

Cripps Gives Assurance.

Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal and leader of the house of commons, already has assured commons that the government is acutely alive to the necessity of making moves toward Indian independence which would satisfy Indian leaders that it would be overwhelmingly to their interest to support Britain in the war against Japan.

Churchill himself is expected to make a statement on the new British offer at the next sitting of commons. Twenty-nine members of parliament are supporting a motion demanding that India immediately be given self-government without any strings tied to the offer.

The debate in the house of lords last week stressed the opinion that the military defense of India hinges on the fate of Burma.

Need Great Air Strength.

The need, therefore, for strong reenforcements, vast quantities of equipment and an overwhelming air force for India is paramount.

The Australian defense may fall right into the lap of the United States, while Britain attempts to concentrate on the defense of India.

"The fate of all Asia may be decided this week—by the British government," writes the political commentator, Hannen Swaffer, in the weekly Labor organ, People, adding that "at long last—after many years of political stupidity that may yet lose us half a continent—Churchill is to announce our concessions to the Indian people.

"Upon the degree of their acceptance may well depend the future of all we still own east of Aden. Indifferent and unarmed India may, like Malaya, be lost by stupidity. Armed and free, she may unite, like China, and become unconquerable."

Jap Threat Moves Closer to Australia

fades into a so-called "brownout," with faint street lights and dimmers on automobile and street car headlights, but officials say that arrangements for a complete blackout have been made.

There are signs everywhere of the nearness of war, yet life is strangely unchanged.

The theaters draw crowds, stores are busy, and hotels are so jammed that many serve meals only to their residents, who occasionally wait an hour for service.

Women are serving as street car conductors and truck drivers, and few men of military age are in civilian dress.

Gasoline rationing has made the greatest impact upon most civilians. Rations of two to four gallons a month have driven most of the automobiles from the highways.

Many motorists have installed bulky charcoal burning gas producers, which reduce power and necessitate racing the engine, but do serve in the place of gasoline.

Fruits and dairy products are plentiful, but there is a shortage of blankets and shoe leather. Shortage in beef is anticipated, but mutton is cheaper than it has been in years.

British General, Honored as Libya Hero, Dies in Auto

CAIRO, Egypt, March 8 (AP).—Brigadier John C. [Jock] Campbell, decorated last month with the Victoria Cross for exceptional bravery in Libya, has been killed in an automobile accident, official sources disclosed today. Gen. Campbell, 48 years old, replaced one of his wounded gunners and kept on firing even after being wounded himself during fighting with axis troops last November in the Rezegh sector of the Libyan front.

U. S. AND BRITAIN HIT BY AUSTRALIANS FOR FEEBLE AID TO DUTCH

SYDNEY, Australia, March 8 (AP).—Britain and the United States failed to send sufficient help to beleaguered Dutch troops in Java and "defensive plans failed disastrously," the Sydney Morning Herald said editorially today.

"The Dutch loyally carried out their part of such plans as existed for the common defense of the ABDA area [American, British, Dutch, and Australian] but did not receive the help they deserved and they were promised," the paper said.

"Aid sent was insufficient to affect the ultimate issue. The United States and Britain were unable to make up their minds that a real—not token—effort should be made to hold Java.

"Once again united nations strategy is having to be recast. Surely it is time to try to wrest the initiative from Japan."

HART, EX-NAVAL CHIEF IN INDIES, RETURNS TO U. S.

New York, March 8 [Special].—Adm. Thomas C. Hart, who resigned recently as allied naval chief in the southwest Pacific, was a surprise arrival today aboard a Pan American Clipper which also brought John C. Winant, American ambassador to Great Britain, home for his first visit since America entered the war.

Adm. Hart said he planned to spend the night at his home in Sharon, Conn., and would report to Washington, D. C., tomorrow or Tuesday. He said that "in a sort of legalistic way" he is still chief of the Asiatic fleet, but that he is unable to say what his future assignment will be.

Ambassador Winant, who was met by his wife, planned to go to Washington at once to confer with President Roosevelt. He said he intends to return to his post in London as soon as possible. He said reverses suffered by British forces in the western Pacific have increased the determination of the British people to fight.

TEAR GAS BREAKS UP VOTE DISPUTE IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, March 8 (AP).—A post-election dispute which threatened national repercussions developed in Entre Rios province today among Conservatives and Radicals over returns which gave a majority to congressional candidates of Acting President Ramon S. Castillo, exponent of Argentine isolationism.

The Radicals protested that final results favoring Castillo's ticket by a count of 76,191 to 58,516 "do not represent the will of the people," and that they are reserving the right to carry the case to congress. The Conservatives attempted to stage a victory celebration but were dispersed by police with tear gas. The Conservatives immediately sent a protest to Buenos Aires.

Final results from Entre Rios, reversing those of the 1940 election, showed that the voters there had chosen two Conservatives and one Radical for the national chamber of deputies. With the vote counting suspended over the week-end, Castillo's supporters had control of the chamber almost within their grasp.

JAPS ESTABLISH MILITARY RULE IN CAPITAL OF JAVA

Batavia Mayor Is Handed 6 Point Proclamation.

TOKIO, March 8 [From Japanese Broadcasts]—(AP).—Japanese army authorities have informed the Dutch of the establishment of a "military administration in the Netherlands East Indies," a war front dispatch to Domei news agency from Batavia said today.

A six point proclamation to the mayor of Batavia and other local officials was delivered yesterday afternoon, the dispatch said.

At the same time, Japanese imperial headquarters said all of southern Sumatra had been conquered by the occupation of Djambi, 140 miles northwest of Palembang.

Pledge "Respect of Lives."

The Japanese proclamation at Batavia embodied these points, the Domei report said:

1. The Japanese commander will replace the Dutch governor-general.
2. Local laws and law-enforcing bodies will continue their functions insofar as they do not interfere with the military administration.
3. Japanese authorities will respect the lives, religion and property of the people who must reciprocate.
4. Violations will result in severe punishment.
5. Currency in the war zone will be Dutch guilders and the Japanese military notes.

Co-Prosperity Promised.

"The military administration is aimed at the rapid restoration of peace and order and normal conditions in the Netherlands East Indies on the principles of co-existence and co-prosperity for all," the proclamation concluded.

The military order, which became effective immediately, was posted thruout the Batavia region in Dutch, Malay, and Japanese.

LONDON PAPER SEES CRIPPS AS PRIME MINISTER

LONDON, March 8 (AP).—The Sunday Pictorial suggested today that Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, might become Britain's prime minister and asked: "Is there a politician rash enough to deny his chances of becoming leader of Britain and the empire in this, its darkest hour?"

Urging sacrifices by the people, the paper said "it is the earnest desire of millions that there should arise a government bold enough to exact these sacrifices."

"Whether as prime minister or as leader of the house of commons, in the view of the ordinary man and woman, Sir Stafford Cripps will fight."

CIVILIAN DEFENSE FORCE OF 10,000 CREATED IN INDIA

NEW DELHI, India, March 8 (AP).—A government ordinance today authorized formation of a new civil pioneer force officered by Indians for civil defense and maintenance of public order and safety.

Limited to 10,000 persons at present, the duties of the force include: Construction or demolition of buildings, clearing away of debris, salvage of property, and rescue of persons; construction work on roads, buildings, docks, airdromes; loading and unloading of transport vehicles and vessels; performance of work in factories, shops, and shipyards; rendering such other services as are required for securing the defense of British India, maintaining public safety and order and maintaining supplies and services essential to community life.

JAP INVASIONS CUT OFF INDIA'S RICE IMPORTS

Washington, D. C., March 8 [Special].—The Japanese occupation of Indo-China and Thailand [Siam] and the partial occupation of Burma, the three leading rice surplus producing regions of the world, will force British India to depend this year almost entirely on its own crop for its 1942 rice requirements, the department of agriculture said today.

The 1941-'42 rice crop in British India, harvesting of which was just completed, amounted to 57,270,000,000 pounds. This, the office of foreign agricultural relations said, is the largest crop of the last four years.

Next to China, India is the world's largest rice producer. In addition it has been the world's largest importer of rice. During the last five years, imports have averaged 3,000,000,000 pounds annually.

FALL ON SIDEWALK FATAL.

Opens Sunday

One of the most unusual displays at the National Flower and Garden show opening Sunday in the International amphitheater will be the Arizona spoon flower, a horticultural mystery, discovered growing in desert wilds by the Indians.

The spoon flower resembles a long waxed ivory spoon with a green handle. It is about four inches long and stands from a stem two feet long. It is believed to be a root of a cactus plant which has reversed its growth, and not a flower.

The display will be made my Meyer Epstein of Tucson, Ariz., who grows the spoon flower on a large scale.

Uruguay President Names Group to Replace Congress

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, March 8 (AP).—President Alfredo Baldomir appointed 28 citizens, including former President José Serrato, as a council of state tonight to replace the congress he dissolved Feb. 21 in an anti-axis coup. The group includes 16 Independents, 6 members of the Baldomirista wing of the dominant Colorado party and 6 members of the Battlista wing of the Colorado party. In it are Gen. Francisco Borques, former commander in chief of the army, and Gen. Alfredo Campos, former minister of national defense.

EXPECT TURKEY TO SHUN BID TO AXIS PARLEY

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

ANKARA, Turkey, March 7 [Delayed]—Unconfirmed reports from foreign intelligence sources tonight indicated German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, and the Japanese ambassador to Berlin will go to Sofia, Bulgaria, shortly for a conference. The purpose of the reported parley is not known.

It is also reported that the Turkish Foreign Minister Shugru Saracoglu has been invited to participate in the Sofia conference.

Foreign diplomatic sources in Ankara believe the Turkish foreign minister will refuse to go to the conference, for he is known to have repeatedly told intimates that he would not go outside Turkey for conferences concerning Turkish interests.

YANKS AMBUSH A JAP REGIMENT; BLAST 29 TRUCKS

Report Jap Commander Takes Own Life.

Washington, D. C., March 8 [Special].—The successful ambush of an entire regiment of Japanese infantry on Bataan peninsula was reported by the war department in a communique today.

Gen. Masaharu Homma.

A p proximately one-third of the enemy force of 2,500 men together with the vehicles in which which they were being transported were destroyed, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

The Japanese regiment was moving to the front north of Abucay in Bataan in 90 trucks. American artillery, opening fire from concealed positions, apparently took the enemy force completely by surprise. Twenty-nine of the trucks, "with most of their occupants," were destroyed. The Japanese are said to have suffered "heavy casualties."

Commander Reported Suicide.

The war department also said persistent rumors indicated the suicide of Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, commander of the enemy's Philippine forces.

The sources from which these reports emanate, the war department pointed out, have hitherto been regarded as reliable. The Japanese general according to these reports, committed hara-kiri because of his inability, with numerically superior forces, to destroy the defenders of Bataan and Corregidor.

Gen. Homma is said to have taken his life in the same suite of the Manila hotel which Gen. MacArthur occupied prior to the evacuation of the capital. Funeral rites are said to have been held in Manila on Feb. 26. Personal representatives of Emperor Hirohito attended the funeral services. Gen. Homma's ashes, it is believed, were flown to Japan for interment at an appropriate shrine.

Gen. MacArthur, the war department says, is continuing his efforts to determine whether the reports of Gen. Homma's suicide are true.

Airdrome Bombed, Says Berlin.

BERLIN, March 8 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German dispatches from Shanghai said a United States airdrome at Limay on Bataan peninsula was attacked by three waves of Japanese bombers today and that two Curtiss planes and 40 other pursuit planes were destroyed on the ground.

A number of direct hits were scored on hangars at the airfield, the dispatches declared.

[The German report is the only one that ever has mentioned an airdrome with hangars on Bataan peninsula.]

CEILING ON RENTS IN CITY IS SOUGHT BY NEGRO GROUP

A resolution demanding Chicago be made a defense area and ceilings be put on rents was passed at a meeting of more than 3,000 Negroes at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Parkway, yesterday. The request was sent to President Roosevelt and Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

Speakers at the meeting included Dr. D. V. Jemison, president of the national Baptist convention, and Ald. Benjamin A. Grant [3d].

The resolution pointed out that South Bend, Ind., had been designated a defense area where a population of thousands is involved while Chicago, where hundreds of thousands are involved, has not been declared a defense area. Copies of the resolution also were sent to Mayor Kelly, all members of the city council, the regional director of OPA, and senators and congressmen from Illinois.

MEXICAN TROOPS STREAM TO POSTS ON WEST COAST

Guard Key Points of Lower California.

BY WILLIAM D. PATTERSON.

NAVAL BASE, Magdalena Bay, Lower California, March 8 (AP).—Mexican troops and fighting material are streaming constantly into strategic posts on the west coast guarding the United States' left flank and Gen. Lazzaro Cardenas, the commander in chief in this vital area, declared tonight Mexico would make the utmost sacrifice to help beat the axis powers.

In a reconnaissance flight the length of this peninsula south of California I saw emphatic proof that the Mexican army and navy forces are keeping a careful watch and are ready for any fight that comes.

Well armed forces in high spirits are stationed at all points from Ensenada to this important harbor, guarding the mountainous stretches where a Japanese expeditionary force might possibly land. The navy is patroling closely.

Nothing Suspicious Apparent.

In the two east-west crossings of Lower California nothing suspicious was seen nor was there a single inch of ground where the enemy could take foot unchallenged.

Cardenas, president of Mexico until last year, said any axis attempt to invade the United States thru Mexico would meet the resistance of a united nation, ready for any event.

The power of the American fleet, Cardenas added, made the possibility of an invasion remote but he forecast a hard struggle in Asia.

Will Prevent Seizure of Bases.

The general declared that the Avila Camacho government was devoting itself sincerely to preventing any enemy from making Mexico a base for operations against the United States or any Western Hemisphere nation.

"It would hurt us deeply," he said, "if the peoples of the United States and the rest of the continent did not fully realize the efforts we are making to comply with our obligations to the utmost sacrifice. We want to show that we are a people of good faith.

"There is a greater feeling of friendship with the American people than before the United States entered the war. There were then opinions against the United States, but now the Mexican people have made the cause for which the American people are fighting their own."

A fifth column cannot exist in Mexico because the people are strongly opposed to the axis, he said. Enemy aliens have been expelled from Lower California and the west coast.

The general said he was collaborating amply with the United States Pacific defense forces. American and Mexican forces are in constant communication thru liaison officers, and Cardenas said he was maintaining cordial relations with Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt, United States Pacific commander.

MEXICAN STATE GOVERNOR DIES OF FIGHT WOUNDS

TOLUCA, Mexico, March 8 (AP).—Gov. Alfredo Zarate Albarran, governor of the state of Mexico, died today from bullet wounds inflicted Thursday night at a party in this state capital.

The governor's private secretary, Carlos Mercado, on Friday signed an official bulletin of the state government stating that Gov. Zarate was wounded during a quarrel and after "considerable drinking" by State Legislator Fernando Ortiz Rubio, 30 year old son of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, former president of Mexico.

Ortiz Rubio, however, denied having taken part in the shooting and federal police said that paraffin tests on his hands indicated he had not fired a gun. No formal warrant was issued and no charge made. Ortiz Rubio heads a permanent commission of the state legislature which has the responsibility of electing a governor in event of the death of the incumbent.

RUSSIANS DRIVE WEDGE BETWEEN 2 NAZI POCKETS

Capture Rail Line Town West of Moscow.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, March 9 [Monday]—(AP).—Adolph Hitler has arrived in the Ukraine with key staff generals to supervise preparations for a spring offensive against the Caucasus, according to Stockholm dispatches to London newspapers. A dispatch to the Sunday Express said Hitler had arrived in Kiev, accompanied by Col. Gen. Franz Halder, chief of the German general staff, and Gen. Alfred Jodl, artillery expert.

MOSCOW, March 8 (AP).—The Red army has captured Sychevka, central front town on the Rzhev-Vyazma railroad following a fierce two-day battle in which virtually all of the 15,000 men of the German 48th division were wiped out, dispatches from the front said tonight.

Sychevka is midway between Rzhev and Vyazma on the 70-mile north-south rail line connecting these two German held pockets and its capture leaves a gap of only 35 miles to be closed on the heavily garrisoned Nazi strongpoints.

The soviet command said Hitler had drawn heavily upon reserves from "the deep rear" of his lines and was throwing them into the fighting west of Moscow in a vain effort to halt the soviet advance.

Stalin Plans Wider Drives.

Premier Josef Stalin, who recently has devoted considerable attention to the central front, was declared now to be personally planning wider countermeasures along the entire length of the front to check Hitler's anticipated spring drive.

On the front below Leningrad, tonight's soviet communique said, Red ski forces tightening a ring of steel about the trapped 16th German army at Staraya Russa had captured two more villages.

Nine other places were liberated, the official announcement said, on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow where German losses were placed at hundreds of dead.

Admit Nazi Toll 1,500,000.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 8 (AP).—Official Berlin circles acknowledged total losses of 1,500,000 German soldiers in the Russian campaign but described these losses as "absolutely bearable," a Berlin dispatch to the Berne newspaper Der Bund said today.

The figure of 1,500,000 soldiers, killed, wounded, or counted missing since last June 22, was credited to German military circles.

The military circles quoted by Der Bund placed the average daily German losses between June 22 and Nov. 30, 1941, at 1,000 dead, 200 missing, and 3,600 wounded. For the 162 days of the war up to Nov. 30, 1941, covered in this estimate, German losses thus would have been 162,000 dead, 32,400 missing, and 583,200 wounded.

Germans Take Offensive.

BERLIN, March 8 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German troops and elite guards have taken the offensive on an undesignated sector of the eastern front and recaptured several positions from the soviets, the high command said today.

[It was the first time in weeks the communique had mentioned offensive operations by the Germans.]

Helsingfors Raided Again.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 8 (AP).—For the second successive day, Russian planes bombed today Helsingfors today, dropping 10 small bombs within the city.

REDS CLEAN UP ANOTHER FRONT IN WAR ON DIRT

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, March 8 (AP).—The soviet rear guard launched a "war against dirt" on the home front today.

Virtually the entire population of Kuibyshev, numbering more than 500,000, turned out in response to a call of the city soviet and worked for six hours, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., clearing away refuse, and cleaning snow and chopping ice from the sidewalks and streets.

Similar action was undertaken in other cities of the interior. The campaign is to maintain sanitary conditions and prevent spread of disease in districts to which refugees have swarmed from the war front.

The majority of the workers were women. The work coincided with observance of International Women's day.

DIES OF SLEEP POWDER OVERDOSE.

Irving Levinson, 38 years old, 4636 Drexel boulevard, a clothing salesman, died in Michael Reese hospital yesterday from an overdose of sleep powders.

RUSSIA SEEKING TRUCE, RUMORS IN SWEDEN SAY

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 8.—There are persistent rumors in Stockholm about negotiations between the soviet and German governments which may lead to a truce on the eastern front.

Fighting Engenders Respect.

Altho these rumors are categorically denied by persons connected with the German and soviet legations in Stockholm, it is recalled that it was in Stockholm that the representatives of Moscow and Berlin met in December, 1938, and reached an economic agreement. This later became a political agreement signed in Moscow just before the outbreak of the German-Polish war, when a combined English-French military mission was in the soviet capital attempting to persuade the soviet government to join them against Germany.

The present negotiations are said to be just as involved as the discussions which preceded the war. There is a complete lack of faith on both sides, together with a mutual understanding of the advantages which both have to offer for a temporary truce. There is also a mutual respect developed by eight months of ferocious fighting.

Initiated by Russia.

The soviet government was the first to make the advances now said to be under discussion. The chief reason for Moscow's proposals is said to be the desire to influence the British and American governments into undertaking an attack on the continent which will relieve the pressure on the soviet union.

Moscow is reported dissatisfied with the project of an expeditionary force, largely composed of Americans, landing in the near future at Murmansk. Soviet military experts say this is insufficient help, and Russia can only obtain effective relief by a large scale invasion of Europe.

but it cost me $3,000 to learn they were "tenants in common"

Now I know why it's important to get a Title Guarantee Policy when buying real estate

Ferdinand Hoyt and his wife owned the two-flat I was living in, and when she died and Hoyt wanted to sell, I jumped at the chance. According to Hoyt, he and his wife had owned the property in joint tenancy and he became the sole owner upon her death—so the deal was quickly arranged.

Then last month I got a shock. The Hoyts didn't own the property in joint tenancy, but as "tenants in common." This meant that Mrs. Hoyt's share of the property didn't go entirely to her husband, but in part to a son by a former marriage. And the son is now suing me for a $3,000 settlement of his claim.

My attorney tells me that if I had received a Title Guarantee Policy with the property, guaranteeing a clear title, I would have been fully protected against this loss! Next time I buy property, believe me I'll get a Title Guarantee Policy.

Whenever you buy property, a Title Guarantee Policy should be part of the transaction. It helps you to safeguard what is rightly yours.

BRITISH BOMB 2D FACTORY IN PARIS AREA FOR NAZI AID

Smash War Industries on Wide French Front.

LONDON, March 8 (AP).—Smashing at German industries in the Paris region for the second time in six days, the RAF bombed a motor truck factory at Poissy today and heavily attacked other industrial targets in occupied northern France.

Scene of Factory Bombing.

The air ministry announced that bombs fell squarely on the Matford plant at Poissy, eight miles west of Paris, where the British said 20 trucks had been turned out daily for the Nazi war machine. Hits also were scored on an adjoining truck yard.

[An official announcement from Vichy, France, said "there were some victims" in the British raid on Poissy. It gave no other details.]

Participating pilots said that Frenchmen waved cheery greetings from many villages they passed over en route to Poissy.

Shoot Down Enemy Planes.

They found the plant easily in the bright sunlight and one rear gunner related that flames and dust from explosions shot higher than the altitude of his plane. Not a German fighter rose to the challenge, the pilots said, until the British had unloaded their bombs and were on their way home. And then only three Messerschmitts took out after them.

This daylight raid followed the destructive two hour attack upon factories along the Seine in the Paris industrial belt last Tuesday night when, the French at Vichy said, 325 persons were killed.

It fulfilled the promise by "Col. Britton," the mystery voice of the V for Victory campaign, who warned Frenchmen last Friday that "the royal air force is coming again more and more often."

Warns French to Keep Clear.

The colonel coupled that warning with the exhortation to French workers to "keep away from any work that is helping the Germans."

While the RAF raiders were winging toward Poissy other fighter escorted formations attacked a power station at Comines, near Lille, and railroad yards at Abbeville. The British destroyed two Nazi fighters in the day's operations and lost three of their own craft, a bomber and two fighters.

Western Germany Bombed.

BERLIN, March 9 [Monday]—[From German broadcasts]—(AP).—British bombers attacked a number of places in western Germany during the night, DNB reported today. The news agency said "there were civilian casualties but no military damage."

COOKS TRAINING FOR ARMY BAKE FOR HOSPITALS

Springfield, Ill., March 8 (AP).—Soldiers in training to become army cooks will bake 3,100 loaves of bread daily for the Chicago State hospital and the Manteno State hospital, Gov. Green's office announced today. Because the army cooks must learn to cook in great volume, the surplus bread at the Chicago training school can be purchased economically and will replace day old bread formerly served in the institutions, the governor's statement said.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.

What is the most interesting "follow that cab" call you have ever had?

[Asked of cab drivers.]

WHERE ASKED.

Yellow Cab garage, 640 West Fulton street.

THE ANSWERS.

Dominic Romano, 2734 Lexington street—When Katharine Hepburn left the Erlanger theater in a cab and my two passengers, newspaper reporters, asked me to catch up with her cab, it was a real challenge. I never drove on a faster or wilder chase. We caught up with her and the boys got their story.

A. J. Klooster, 2044 Orleans street—I've been in a chase but I wasn't the chaser. My passenger, a pretty little girl, jumped into my cab and told me to drive any place and in a hurry. She wanted to get away from her friend. He followed us in his car, so finally she said if I'd drive her home she'd have her mother help her get rid of him.

Joseph Grabbe, 2422 North Lockwood avenue—First, I drove a man to a city parking lot and waited at the entrance for his wife's car. As he had anticipated, she wasn't alone. We followed them to a country club. Later, the husband went in to get the man's name and address. He said that was sufficient for his purposes.

Edward Fischer, 2611 North Fairfield avenue—A woman had been struck by a hit and run driver. He was still in sight when one of the spectators asked me to go after him. He went thru stop lights and around corners on two wheels. I drove beside him and crowded him off the street. I wrecked both cars, but we got our man.

Robert Perry, 1244 North Dearborn street—A woman and her husband were about to step into my cab when a man snatched her purse and jumped into a waiting car. He drove away quickly but we were right behind him and his companion. In the chase a police squad car stopped us. It didn't take the police long to resume the chase and catch the thief.

Charles Neiburger, 4435 North Lawndale avenue—A young woman asked me to drive her to the entrance of a department store and to follow a car that was waiting there. As soon as a girl entered the car, the man at the wheel drove away and we lost them. Later, they drove up beside us and asked if we had enjoyed the chase.

CLAIM OASIS RAID BY 'FREE FRENCH' WRECKS 3 POSTS

Italians Taken Prisoners; Weapons Captured.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 8 (AP).—"Free French" forces wrought havoc on three fortified Italian positions in the great Fezzan desert oasis yesterday after a 1,200 mile journey from the Lake Chad region, it was confirmed here today.

The raiders captured the Italian posts, less than 500 miles south of the chief axis supply base of Tripoli, before turning back with Italian prisoners and a quantity of captured weapons.

Axis Planes More Frequent.

At the main battle front 80 miles west of Tobruk desert patrols in the sandy no-man's land between the main British and German Libyan armies engaged in inconclusive skirmishes.

Axis planes were more numerous as the sandstorms abated and the British acknowledged "light casualties" inflicted by planes in the forward areas of Cirenaica. The RAF intercepted some formations and continued to bomb Tripoli and Bengazi, chief axis supply ports. A vessel at Bengazi was blown up.

Frequent Raids on Malta.

VALETTA, Malta, March 8 (AP).—Axis bombers and fighter planes appeared frequently over Malta during a day-long alarm which began shortly after dawn. An RAF communique reported that some bombs had fallen. The raiders were attacked by fighters and anti-aircraft guns. There were nine alarms last night.

SHIP SUNK AT TOBRUK.

The German high command said both sides engaged in "lively patrol activities" and that their dive bombers sank a 3,000 ton freighter and three lighters at Tobruk.

The Germans also claimed they made low level attacks on the west Egyptian railway cutting it in several places.

British motor vehicles were bombed from low level south of Ain el Gazala, the Italian high command said, claiming "a great number" were damaged or destroyed.

LONDON, March 8.—Dr. Chaim Weizman, president of the world Zionist organization, denounced the Palestine administration and the Turkish government as being responsible for the death of most of the 766 Jewish refugees who were drowned when the ship Struma sank in the Black sea recently. Palestine is administered by Britain under a mandate.

Weizman explained to the Zionist federation meeting here how the ship, altho unseaworthy, managed to carry its human cargo to Istanbul, Turkey, where it stayed for some weeks pending issuance of permits for these people to enter Palestine.

Palestinian authorities refused this permission, he said, and altho Turkish authorities knew the ship to be unseaworthy, they ordered it to leave when it was learned that the ship would not be permitted to proceed to its destination.

He said Palestinian authorities gave a permit for 70 children to enter Palestine, but the permit came too late, so the children were drowned with the others.

"This horrible fact is enough to throw a glare of light on the treatment of us by the Palestine administration, and, to some extent, by those responsible for Palestine affairs at Whitehall," Weizman said.

"One is horrified at the sort of people who rule the destinies of Palestine; people without understanding, compassion, pity."

He said the Jewish agency had weeded out all undesirable elements, so that the argument that there might be fifth columnists among them was no excuse.

The conference passed a resolution declaring that the attitude of the Palestine administration toward the Jewish refugees was inimicable to the best interests of the allied cause, and calling on Viscount Cranborne, secretary of state for the colonies, to make changes in the Palestine administration and the colonial office. The colonial secretary was asked that fundamental alterations in the policy regarding Jewish immigration into Palestine be made.

WATERS OF WEST INDIES TROUBLED BY WAR STORMS

Caribbean Map in Color Shows Danger Zones.

With axis submarines becoming increasingly active in the Caribbean sea and contiguous waters, THE TRIBUNE presents on its back page today, as a war feature of timely interest, a large scale color map of the West Indies.

Shown in the map are three insular republics that have declared war on the axis, Cuba, Haiti, and the Dominican Republic; the large islands of Jamaica and Puerto Rico, and numerous lesser islands. Locations of American and foreign naval bases are indicated, and air line distances between certain ports and points in the outside world are shown.

In one of the two inset maps presented with the main map are delineated the French islands of Guadeloupe, Marie Galante, and Martinique, and the British islands of Dominica and St. Lucia, the nast named providing the site for an American naval base. This is one of the sites acquired from Great Britain by the United States. These French and British islands lie in the Leeward and Windward chains of islands that screen the eastern approach to the Caribbean.

Dutch Islands Shown.

In the other inset map are shown the Dutch islands of Curacao, Aruba, and Bonaire, now of particular interest from the fact that enemy U-boats have been raiding their waters in an effort to isolate them as a source of allied oil supplies.

When the Netherlands became involved in the war in May, 1940, French marines and British soldiers were landed in Curacao and Aruba to protect Dutch interests. The United States held that this was no infringement of the Monroe Doctrine. The United States itself put a small force into Dutch Guiana [Surinam], on the South American mainland, last November to guard the bauxite mines there. In January American air forces were dispatched to Curacao and Aruba, and early in February other American troops were sent there. On Feb. 19 an axis submarine shelled some of the oil refining plants located on the shores of Aruba.

As recently as March 4 it was announced from London that main offices and foreign assets of the Dutch in the East Indies were being moved from Batavia, Java, to the Dutch possessions in the West Indies.

Curacao, Aruba, and Bonaire, with three lesser Dutch islands in Caribbean waters—Saba, St. Eustatius, and St. Martin [southern portion only]—form the colony of Curacao. This colony and Dutch Guiana together form the Netherlands West Indies.

Life Dominated by Oil.

The entire area of the colony of Curacao is 403 square miles, and the population is about 100,000. The island of Curacao, from which the colony takes its name, lies about 40 miles off the coast of Venezuela, between Aruba and Bonaire. It is about 40 miles long, has an average width of 10 miles, contains 212 square miles of land, and has a population in excess of 68,000. Its principal city, Willemstad, capital of the colony, has approximately 30,000 inhabitants.

Aruba and Bonaire are considerably smaller than Curacao, and the three other Dutch islands of the colony are very small. Chief products of these Dutch possessions are corn, phosphate of lime, salt, and cattle.

Oil refining is the main industry. This is centralized in Curacao and Aruba. The crude petroleum does not come from the Dutch islands but from Venezuela and Colombia. In 1916, during the first World war, the Royal Dutch Shell Oil company founded a large refinery on Curacao. In 1925 the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey followed with a similar installation on Aruba.

SEEKS TO VOID NO-DRAFT VOW IN CANADA VOTE

Calls Plebiscite on "Moral Issue."

OTTAWA, Ont., March 8 [Wide World].—Canada's 67 year old prime minister, William Lyon Mackenzie King, is holding a $1,500,000 national plebiscite to keep a campaign promise. The plebiscite, he says, is not legally necessary, but he made a moral commitment from which he wishes to be released.

W. L. Mackenzie King.

Early in 1940, during the "phony war" period before the Nazis smashed the Low Countries and France, King promised the Canadian people that his government, if reëlected, never would conscript manpower for overseas military service.

The King administration was reelected. Now the prime minister, tho he does not concede that conscription is yet necessary, is taking a course without precedent in Canadian history to obtain release from that 1940 promise.

Wording of Plebiscite.

In early May the voters will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" to this question:

"Are you in favor of releasing the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

If the answer of the voters is "yes," that will mean merely that the government is relieved of its promise and may, when and if it desires, institute universal conscription.

No Effect on Air Force.

The Royal Canadian Air force already is more than 100,000 strong and fights in war theaters around the world. The army—a volunteer army to fight anywhere it is sent—totals 260,000 officers and men. More than half this force is in Britain, where it is described by its commander, Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, as the most highly mechanized fighting force in the world. The Royal Canadian navy fights mostly in the Atlantic. Its personnel numbers 27,600.

The plebiscite could have no effect on the air force, navy, or the present regular army.

Canada as a whole has never agreed that conscription is the best method to raise its armies in wartime. Late in 1916, when the Canadian corps in France was suffering great losses, Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden decided the time had come to appeal to the people for conscription for the first time. With a union government Borden was successful. But it was significant that the French-Canadian province of Quebec returned 62 anticonscriptionist supporters to three Borden supporters.

The conscription act was passed in 1917. Its enforcement led to rioting in Quebec city, where troops were sent to preserve order.

Training Facilities Crowded.

Only recently Defense Minister J. L. Ralston told the house of commons that volunteer recruiting for the army was so successful the nation's training facilities were crowded.

King said the power would not be needed for the present. "Nevertheless," he added, "as long as that commitment is there, we are being represented to the people of our own and other countries as a government unwilling to go to the lengths other countries are willing to go even should necessity for it become manifest in every way."

Canada's conscription in this war is limited to home defense. Under an act passed in June, 1940, unmarried men 19 to 45 years old, may be called up by age classes, starting at 21. So far no one over 24 has been called.

In the first few months of this plan 87,000 men were given 30 days' training and 20,000 of them volunteered for overseas service. The rest returned to civilian life. In February, 1941, the training period was increased to four months and last July these draftees for home defense were conscripted for the duration.

Quebec people are suspicious, but the eight other provinces are expected to vote "yes" by large majorities.

Canadian Overseas Army Chief to Confer with F.D.R.

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—The commander of the Canadian overseas army, Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. MacNaughton, came to Washington today to begin a series of conferences with United States officials, including President Roosevelt. It was understood that in addition to the talk with Mr. Roosevelt, the time for which was not announced, the Canadian officer would meet with Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff and officials of the War Production board.

DAIRY FARMERS TO OPEN ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

Methods of meeting the 1942 milk production goals in the face of labor shortages and production limits on farm machinery will be discussed. The association is the marketing organization for 13,000 milk producers in the Chicago area. Speakers will include A. W. Colebank, Chicago federal order market administrator.

Mrs. Ethel A. Martin, nutritionist for the national dairy council, will address the monthly meeting of the Chicago Dairy Technology society, also at the Sherman tomorrow.

NAVY EXPLAINS 'LONDON SCOOP' ON U. S. CONVOYS

Correspondent Accused of Falsifying Dateline.

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—The navy reported today that a London Daily Mail dispatch telling of American-Japanese naval fighting and the movement of American convoys to Australia was dispatched from Honolulu, rather than from a ship at sea, as its dateline indicated.

Walter Farr.

The navy's report on the dispatch, credited to Walter Farr, Daily Mail correspondent, was in the form of a note to editors made available for publication if desired. It said:

"Late information reaching Washington now locates Farr's filing at Honolulu, where he arrived March 2 direct from California.

Filed at Honolulu.

"The 'speeding thru the southwest Pacific' story was filed by Farr in person ashore in Honolulu after review by a public relations officer of the Pacific fleet.

"Further analysis of the story in the light of now known circumstances suggests that it contains no factual information about the movements to Australia which has not been published by the American press prior to the London Daily Mail."

Farr's dispatch, datelined "at sea Friday," described the movement of "great convoys" of American troops, pilots, planes, tanks, and guns in a steady stream to Australia.

"Vindicated," Says Paper.

LONDON, March 8 (AP).—The London Daily Mail cited the United States navy department's statement today regarding the Mail's story of "great convoys" of American troops in the Pacific as "complete vindication" and said "protests of the noisier newspapers forced official revelation of the one real military secret involved—the position of the convoy concerned at the time the message was sent. It was to conceal this that the dateline 'at sea,' was used. The dispatch was, of course, actually written at sea."

Subdued

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

John Mizera being carried out of home at 4449 South Francisco avenue by inhalator squad early today after he had stood off policemen for three hours.

John Mizera, 25 years old, a dental student, chased his family out of the house by hurling knives at them, stood off 10 policemen for nearly three hours, and finally was subdued early today and taken to Psychopathic hospital.

His family told police that young Mizera came home early last evening with a young man friend after spending the afternoon drinking. He demanded money from his father, Peter Mizera, 52 years old, and was refused. He then went to the kitchen of the flat at 4449 South Francisco avenue and returned with several knives of assorted types which he began to throw at his father, his mother, Mary; his sisters, Bernice, Helen, and Irene, ranging in ages from 22 to 17, and at a brother.

One of them called the New City police and Patrolmen Norman Ade and Spencer Samuels came over. More knives came their way, and Mizera barricaded himself in the kitchen. A squad of police, William Berglund, John Danforth, and Edward Kosiak, appeared, only to be driven out by more knives hurled around the edge of the kitchen door.

Then squad 17 arrived from the detective bureau with tear gas bombs. Mizera stood off the first few by soaking towels and wrapping them around his face. He turned on all the gas jets and made for the bedroom. More bombs thru the bedroom window finally caused him to collapse. Inhalator Squad No. 9 brought him around in half an hour or so.

There was a bottle of iodine in his pocket and stains on his lips, but doctors at the hospital said he would live.

DISASTERS STIR CRY FOR GREATER WAR EFFICIENCY

F. D. R., Churchill Face Rising Agitation.

suggest that Mr. Roosevelt would do a better job as strategist and administrator of the war effort if he would divest himself of some of the duties and responsibilities that bow him down, sap his energies, and vitiate his otherwise unapproachable capacity to handle vast undertakings.

Then there are those whose views are voiced most effectively by Walter Lippmann, who attributes our war fiasco up to date to a senile cabinet, average age 62, compared with the Wilson cabinet of the first World war, average age 54. They cannot understand why Mr. Roosevelt does not appreciate that the demand for a younger and more efficient cabinet reflects the awakening of the people to the task of making the war their only business in life, cannot understand why the old men of the cabinet do not see that their highest duty is to give way to new blood.

Knox, Stimson Main Targets.

Naturally, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Secretary of War Henry Stimson find themselves the chief targets of the assault on the superannuated cabinet. Stimson is in his 75th, Knox in his 68th year. Both were appointed to their posts, not for qualifications to administer the departments of national defense but for the reason that they were Republicans who were willing to abet Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to make it appear that his third term candidacy on an intervention platform had impressive Republican support.

Knox has been an increasing liability to the administration. It was he who boasted on the eve of the Pearl Harbor disaster that the navy was ready to meet any attack. It was he who said in a speech that Hitler is the enemy we must dispose of first after which the axis will collapse and Japan can be crushed at our convenience. The devastating effect on China of that speech was such that Mr. Roosevelt felt impelled to make a half billion dollar loan to bolster Chinese credit. Knox was hailed as the author of the most expensive speech on record and shortly thereafter was compelled to retract his statements, explaining that he had been misunderstood.

Then the Normandie.

Then came the Normandie disaster, due either to sabotage or carelessness, the news of which interrupted a game of golf Knox was playing at Pinehurst. The responsibility of the navy department for this catastrophe is now under investigation by a joint committee of congress.

Two months ago Knox was boasting that the virtual cessation of torpedoing of merchantmen in the vicinity of the British Isles was due to the fact that the American navy had driven German submarines from the Atlantic. Since that time axis submarines have attacked 122 merchant ships, sinking 30, and sunk an American navy destroyer, the Jacob Jones, off our shores.

The latest incident illuminated the state of confusion prevailing at the top in the war and navy departments. An air raid alarm was sounded one night recently in Los Angeles. The anti-aircraft guns let loose pretty generally, bringing down no planes. Several persons were killed in traffic during the resulting blackout. Secretary Knox said it was all a false alarm. Secretary Stimson said 15 enemy planes flew over Los Angeles, probably commercial planes hired by Japanese fifth columnists, he thought, to test out air defense. He was unable to explain why American detector planes did not take to the air to give battle to the enemy planes.

Replacement Predicted.

Many administration leaders are predicting privately that the President will be obliged at no distant date to replace Knox and Stimson with more capable men in an effort to restore public confidence. He resisted the same sort of pressure for more than a year to delegate full power of war production to one man and finally yielded and named Donald Nelson in a hasty move to forestall an exposure by the Truman committee of the chaotic conditions prevailing and a speech by Wendell Willkie proposing a production czar.

The reorganization of the war department that goes into effect tomorrow is recognized as a step in the direction of the efficiency demanded for successful conduct of the war. According to critics of the administration the navy department is even more in need of a drastic reorganization.

SENATORS PROBE KNOX REJECTION OF 'SEA OTTER'

Seek Facts on New Type of Small Cargo Vessel.

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—A group of senators, unconvinced that the "sea otter" is impractical, has launched an inquiry into what tests were given this revolutionary type small cargo vessel once heralded as the answer to submarine warfare. Chairman Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa) disclosed today that a three man senate naval subcommittee already had heard numerous shipping experts in closed door testimony and said the group would "develop all the facts before we get thru."

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told a recent press conference that tests of a sea otter type ship had proved "very disappointing" to both President Roosevelt and himself, and indicated that the idea of mass production of them had been abandoned.

Enthusiastic at First.

Last September, the navy had reported enthusiastically on the possibilities of this type of ship, saying tests of a small scale model indicated "success is virtually a foregone conclusion."

The design, as reported by the navy, was for a ship 270 feet long of about 1,500 tons driven by 16 gasoline engines geared to a vertical shaft turning a six foot propeller located amidships.

Of low silhouette, the ships would be difficult for submarines to sight and the word was that they could be built so cheaply that they could be sent to England with a cargo and then scrapped. A government corporation was projected to turn them out by the hundreds.

Model Privately Financed.

Gillette said that Roland L. Russell, a New York attorney, and the Chrysler Automobile company, advanced funds for an original 90 foot model that proved quite successful in usual trials. President Roosevelt then overrode opposition of some navy and maritime veterans to order a full size test "otter" constructed.

When finished the revolutionary boat was moved to Charleston, S. C., navy yard for trial.

Results of these tests were disputed before closed hearings of the senate group. One report was that British officials, for whom the boats were to be built with lend-lease funds, rejected the "sea-otter" without even a test run.

Gillette said the senate group would call J. W. Powell, former Bethlehem Ship company executive and more recently an adviser to Secretary Knox, and E. B. Germain, president of Ships, Inc., for testimony at executive sessions.

It is hard to swim against the stream—

SO SPOKE AN OLD NETHERLANDER, aware that though it is always easier to float with the current, there are times when men must swim against it.

Today is such a time. For a century, Americans have used life insurance to help them swim against their streams of personal and family adversity.

Now, in the path of a heavier, barbaric current, we look to our life insurance not only for the courage that family security brings, but as a source of funds for the war production that will carry us upstream to victory.

how to get maximum service from your clothing

Clothes need a rest. Wool is a resilient* fabric and has great recuperative powers. Wrinkles hang out. If you wear a suit several days in succession, you aren't taking advantage of wool's come-back ability. Alternate your suits frequently—whether your wardrobe consists of two or twenty. There is economy in maintaining the most complete wardrobe you can afford. Naturally, the larger your wardrobe, the more rest you can give any one suit.

Get out of your business clothes in the evening. If you're not dressing for dinner or gala evening affair, get into a pair of slacks.

While you relax, let your clothes relax, too.

Use a special long-bristled brush  on tweeds and other deep-textured woolens.

Be on guard against moths. Invest in effective preventives . . . and when you buy new clothes, we believe that, now more than ever, it is important to buy the best quality you can afford.

BUILD $600,000 Q AND A BOOTH IN WASHINGTON

Senate Refuses Funds, but It Goes Up.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Despite fancy speeches by government officials for concentration on the war effort, the nation's capital is witnessing the construction of what critics charge is one of the New Deal's biggest boondoggling projects. It is a $600,000 deluxe "information center" covering most of a city block on Pennsylvania avenue, in the heart of the capital.

Lowell Mellett.

The two story building will be staffed with attractive, uniformed young ladies who will attempt to answer questions of harried business men seeking their way thru the labyrinth of government bureaus.

Senate Refused Funds.

The project is getting under way despite disapproval by a senate appropriations subcommittee which denied $285,000 in funds for its operation after a specific request from Lowell Mellett, the New Deal's chief propagandist. Officially, Mellett is director of the Office of Government Reports [OGR], in which capacity he scans the nation's press and radio facilities and renders reports thereon to his immediate superior, the President.

The information center, which will duplicate the myriad of similar information offices in every department and agency of the government, is Mellett's pet project. It is said that Mellett even has planned the mural decorations and the uniforms of the girl attendants who will preside along an 80 foot oval counter.

Ask for "Blank Check."

Armed with specific authority from Mr. Roosevelt for the oversized information booth—covering 70,000 square feet—Mellett appeared before the senate subcommittee to request removal of the $800,000 limitation on spending from the President's blank check funds for the OGR. He wanted no limit on the amount of pocket funds so spent. Mellett said he needed $285,000 more to equip and staff the building, a veritable temple of wisdom. Mellett didn't need to request funds for construction. He obtained this $600,000 from the 25 millions in pocket funds voted the public buildings administration for temporary war buildings.

Senators denounced the plan as unnecessary and the senate committee refused the funds. But within a few weeks after this denial the steam shovels were excavating. The OGR is expected to request a supplemental appropriation for operating expenses after the building is completed.

Defend, Condemn Scheme.

Mellett tonight defended the project as "the President's plan" and declared his intention to move the OGR offices into the new edifice, leaving his old quarters for some other agency. Commented Rep. John Taber [R., N. Y.] of the house appropriations committee:

"It is very evidently another scheme of the New Deal to fill up a building with a lot of WPA graduates and political derelicts. We ought to get rid of 99 per cent of information outfits. They are impeding the defense effort and are a liability."

Some congressmen complained it is their function to guide constituents around town and Mellett is trying to kidnap them. Rep. Joseph W. Martin [R., Mass.], house minority leader, said it is "just another illustration of the way the President has usurped the power of the purse."

How It's Supposed to Work.

The girls behind the counter are supposed to answer 80 per cent of the queries, according to Mellett's blueprint plans. A question in the other 20 per cent class will be referred to an OGR "staff specialist" who will analyze the problem. When the specialist gets stumped the visitor will be relayed to a representative of the agency that deals directly with the problem. If this liaison representative, who will maintain offices in the new building, is unable to answer the question, the visitor will be referred to some one in the agency concerned.

Of course, this all might take considerable time, which could be saved by the business man going directly to the department or agency.

CHICAGO GIRL WRITES TO TAR FOR 5 YEARS; FINALLY MEETS HIM

New York, March 8 [Special].—Shirley Steffey of 1950 Berwyn avenue, Chicago, and Dan Stucky of his majesty's navy, were both 19 years old when they started to correspond and both were 24 when they met for the first time here yesterday after exchanging "a hatbox full of letters."

Over a chocolate soda on the highest level of the observatory at Radio City the couple discussed how the war, which had broken up earlier plans to meet, had finally brought them together. Steffey, a radio man, has a few days leave here.

"We're not engaged," Stucky said, and Shirley agreed, "just good friends." Both expressed the hope they would meet again, however. Shirley said she would return to Chicago tomorrow.

U. OF C. ARMY GOES TO WAR, BUT ENDS UP IN HOT DEBATE

Tired Troops Can't Agree on Who Got Killed.

BY KERMIT HOLT.

About 1,000 frowzy, frazzled men limped out of the mire and briars of the Palos Hills forest preserve late yesterday after almost turning what was scheduled as a sham battle into the real thing.

They were mud spattered and ill tempered. Their feet were wet. Their legs and hands were torn by thistles. Their clothes were ripped. Their muscles ached. They were mighty tired.

A few hours before they were grinning business and professional men and college students bent on playing war as part of their course in the University of Chicago institute of military studies.

Camps Three Miles Apart.

Now they were bickering over who killed whom with their wooden rifles and hand grenades made of sawdust filled paper bags.

Five hundred men to a side—the Whites and the Blacks—they started out at noon from camps three miles apart. When the warriors spied an enemy within 100 yards a yell, "I've got you covered!" was as good as a bullet thru the heart. An umpire for each 36 men was on hand to verify the dead.

"I've got you . . ." a White would start to yell.

"The hell you have," the Black would snap back. "I've got you covered."

Personal Battles Rage.

All along the two mile front the personal battles waged. Usually reserved business men waved wooden rifles in each other's face and demanded that the other fall dead.

A clerk peered over a ravine and tossed a "hand grenade" into a group of Black soldiers.

"You're all dead," he screamed. "There's sawdust all over your coats."

"Not me," an answer came back. "I just killed you. That's dandruff on my coat!" And another quarrel began.

The battle was called off at 2:30 p. m., just as the umpires were ready to give up. An authoritative source stated last night that casualties probably never would be known.

Attend Classes Nine Weeks.

For the last nine weeks the "soldiers" have been attending classes every week at the University of Chicago. Final sessions will be held next week. The curriculum includes military drill, rifle marksmanship, cartography, manual of arms, first aid, gas protection, and motor convoy movement.

From PEACE to WAR via RAILROAD

THAT'S A BIG JOB—turning a railroad from the uses of peace into an instrument of war. Yet all of us who work for the Illinois Central are thankful that, when war came, we had a railroad fit for duty, ready and willing to play its essential role.

Here are some of the adjustments made in the transfer from peace to war:

Already in the armed forces are more than eight hundred members of our Illinois Central family—and no telling how many sons and brothers and husbands of Illinois Central workers.

During the past year we moved 295,607 military passengers on duty—a job that took 8,592 cars and 686 special trains.

The Illinois Central is the primary agency of transportation for eighty-two camps and war industries on or near our rails. Of these seventeen were new in 1941.

For the operation of war establishments the Illinois Central last year furnished the government 298 freight cars and 26,880 tons of rail. In addition, we released 87,041 tons of scrap for war production.

To prepare for increased traffic, we laid 319 miles of new rail, rebuilt 165 locomotives and added 3,103 freight cars in the course of 1941.

The Illinois Central Traffic Department has been converted to a service department for the duration.

These are just a few of the adjustments from peace to war. There will be more before the signal light of victory beckons us all into the home terminal of peace.

J. L. Beven

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM

Wake Up America—

It's Late! . . . An Editorial

THE nation needs to awaken to the full gravity of the peril that confronts it.

It needs to appreciate how badly we have been defeated in three months of war.

It needs to understand that it is possible for the United Nations and the United States to lose this war and suffer the fate of France—and that this possibility may become a probability if the present tide does not change.

It needs to realize that there is grave chance of the Japanese pushing through India and the Germans driving through the Near East, to join their armies and resources in an almost unbeatable combination.

It needs to get away, once and for all, from the comforting feeling that while we may lose at the start we are bound to win in the end.

Only when fully aware of existing perils will the United States do its utmost. Pray God that awareness will not come too late, as it did in France!

Production Director Donald Nelson appeals for vastly increased industrial output on a 24-hour, seven-day basis—168 hours a week. Maximum production, in short.

Can we get it?

Not until we quit thinking in terms of less work for more money.

Not while there is greater concern about overtime pay than overtime production.

Not while government bureaus—created to meet a depression emergency that is ended—continue to grab for themselves money needed for armaments.

Not while an army of federal press agents clamors to promote and perpetuate activities that have no present need or value.

Not while Congressmen try to put over useless canals and river schemes and take up the time of defense officials clamoring for factories and contracts as if war were a great gravy train.

Not while WPA, despite a shortage of labor, seeks to carry on projects which it doesn't have the men to perform or the need for performing.

Not while CCC and NYA stretch greedy hands for funds to pamper young men who ought to be in the armed forces or the war plants.

Not while strikes hamper war production, despite a solemn promise that they would stop.

Not while the life-and-death need for uninterrupted production is used as a weapon to put over the closed shop.

Not while double time is demanded for Sunday work which is only part of a 40-hour week.

Not while a man can't be employed on an army project or in a war plant until he pays $20 to $50 or more to a labor racketeer.

Not while criminal gangs control employment and allocation of men to work on the Normandie and the other ships along New York's vast waterfront.

Not while fifth columnists are pampered and enemy aliens move freely in defense areas.

Not while the grim job of preparing our home communities against air raids and sabotage is gummed up with a lot of highfalutin, boon-doggling, social service activity.

Not while pressure blocs clamor for higher benefits, bounties and pensions.

We will not get maximum production, in short, unless, first, we fully realize our awful peril; and, second, get over the gimmes of recent years.

Gimme shorter hours, gimme higher wages, gimme bigger profits, gimme more overtime, gimme less work, gimme more pensions, gimme greater crop benefits, gimme more appropriations and patronage, gimme plants for my Congressional district, gimme fees and dues to work for Uncle Sam, gimme ham 'n' eggs, gimme share-the-wealth, gimme $30 every Thursday.

France had the gimmes, too—had them till the Germans were close to Paris. Then everybody went frantically to work—too late.

France has no gimmes today—except gimme food for my baby, gimme a place to lay my head, gimme death.

GUARD WRECKAGE OF TROOP TRAIN; INQUIRIES START

Chicagoans Among Dead and Injured Listed.

Granby, Mo., March 8 [Special].—Military police today guarded the scene of yesterday's head on crash between a special troop train and a fast Frisco passenger train, while officials of the line sought to determine the cause of the wreck. Seven persons, four of them soldiers, were killed, and 27 others injured, including 20 soldiers, 6 trainmen and a woman passenger.

Private Frank Barry, injured Tribune employé.

Besides the railroad's investigation, the army named a board of inquiry and Dr. J. R. Reynolds, Newton county coroner, swore in a jury to hold an inquest.

James Hilton, assistant to the general manager of the road, said he would make no comment pending an investigation. Other officials blamed a mixup in signals.

Leo Ary, engineer of the troop train, a special carrying 230 recruits from Camp Grant, Ill., told newsmen he had brought his train to a stop before the collision and that the other train came toward him at 60 miles an hour. Ary is in a hospital at Neosho.

Frank Reed, engineer of the passenger train, the eastbound Will Rogers, insisted he had brought his train almost to a stop at the time of the crash.

The collision took place on a trestle about 200 yards west of the Granby depot. Both locomotives remained upright, pinned together in a mass of wreckage on the trestle.

EXPECT F. D. R. TO FIGHT FARM BLOC OVER AIR

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt and two high administration aids are expected to challenge, in nation-wide addresses tomorrow night, the effort of the congressional farm bloc to prevent the sale of government owned surplus crops at below-parity prices.

Informed persons predict this newest turn in the controversy arising out of the government effort to hold down food prices will come in scheduled radio talks to a series of community farm dinners by the President, Vice President Wallace, and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

The scheduled talks [at 8:45 p. m., central war time] tomorrow come in the midst of the controversy in the house over the parity measure. The farm bloc seeks to put the ban against sales of surplus crops below parity into a $695,000,000 agricultural appropriation bill. The amendment is expected to be debated on the house floor tomorrow.

An effort to compromise the quarrel has been made, with a proposal from some farm members to permit the sale of surplus crops below parity for use in livestock feeding only. Parity is a price calculated to give a farm commodity the same purchasing power it had in a base period, usually 1909-'14.

In addition to the prospective house fight over the parity question, the controversy over the efforts to trim down the appropriation bill will continue. One group in the house endeavored for four days last week to pare away millions from the total, but at the week-end had succeeded in getting only a tentative reduction of slightly more than $600,000.

When the house has cleared the farm bill, the leaders hope to get quick passage of legislation asked by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to increase the federal debt limit from 65 to 125 billion dollars. Morgenthau has said the increase is necessary to permit financing of the war.

CHICAGO CZECHS HONOR MASARYK, FIRST PRESIDENT

More than 1,000 persons of Czecho-Slovakian origin last night participated in a massmeeting at the Morton High school, Cicero, in honor of the birthday of the late Thomas Masaryk, first president of the Czecho-Slovakian republic. Several speakers did homage in their native tongue to Masaryk, who was born in 1850 and died in 1937. A group of eight men and eight young women performed folk dances.

BROOKS IS VOTED 2 INDORSEMENTS FOR RE-ELECTION

Sen. Wayland Brooks' candidacy for renomination was doubly indorsed yesterday at a meeting in the auditorium of Du Sable High school.

Two sets of resolutions were adopted. One was approved by the meeting, which was a patriotic demonstration. The second was adopted by the 3d ward regular Republican organization, which was present in its entirety under the leadership of Committeeman Oscar De Priest.

The two resolutions, similar in text, recited that by his conduct in the senate Brooks has strengthened American faith in popular government and that his voting record has been in strict conformity with the Republican national, state, and county platforms of 1940. The senator, introduced by George W. Lennon, was enthusiastically received.

ORDNANCE BLAST DEATHS NOW 20, 2 MORE MISSING

Burlington, Ia., March 8 [Special].—The death toll from Wednesday night's explosion at the Iowa ordnance plant near here was increased to 20 today with the recovery of two more bodies from the ruins of melt line No. 3.

One of the bodies was identified as that of Henry Hummell of Monmouth, Ill., while the other body was too badly burned to identify. Two men are still missing. Several of the more than 50 injured are in a critical condition.

Some of the members of the war department's board of inquiry were at the plant today, but it could not be learned whether a session of the board was held. At sessions yesterday witnesses were required to take a pledge of secrecy before testifying.

PARENTS CLAIM 17 CHILDREN ON 2 'BABY FARMS'

Seven of 18 children taken into protective custody by police Saturday in raids on two unlicensed "baby farms" in Kenwood remained in the Juvenile home, and one in the St. Vincent orphanage, yesterday.

The raids were in two squalid homes operated by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dayton at 960 East 40th street and 4035 Lake Park avenue. The Daytons are charged with running the baby farms without a license and will be tried before Judge Justin McCarthy this morning in domestic relations court.

Nine mothers visited the intake department of the Juvenile home yesterday where 16 of the children were taken after the raids. They expressed surprise concerning the insanitary condition of the homes which was revealed by investigators of the state public welfare department.

The child in the orphanage yesterday was the 2 year old daughter of Mrs. Mildred Evers, who was seized with the Daytons in the raid on the home at 960 East 40th street.

DIES WHILE SHOVELING SNOW.

Gus Randau, 55 years old, 6037 North Wolcott avenue, died of a heart attack yesterday while shoveling snow in front of the building at 6346 Kenmore avenue.

PRICE SUPPORTS FREE CRITICISM OF WAR CONDUCT

Says Censorship Is Aimed Only at Enemy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Government censorship will operate only to keep information from the enemy and not to curb expressions of opinion or criticism, federal officials told the nation tonight.

These assurances came from Byron Price, director of the Office of Censorship, and James Lawrence Fly, chairman of the federal communications commission, who participated in a discussion of "Free Speech and Censorship in Wartime" by the American Forum of the Air, broadcast nation-wide tonight by the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Praises Coöperation.

Price praised the nation's publishers and broadcasters for their splendid coöperation in making voluntary censorship effective during the war.

"To Americans free speech means the right to criticize, to protest, to express opinions freely," said Price. "It does not mean, and never has meant, the right to play fast and loose with information, as distinguished from opinion. It does not mean the right to indulge in libel, or slander, or obscenity. Nor does it mean the right to give information to the enemy.

"The Office of Censorship is attempting, at the request of the President, to administer domestic censorship of information on a basis of voluntary and patriotic coöperation. This process does not curtail free speech in that it places no restriction whatever upon expressions of opinion. It seeks only to keep information from the enemy.

Warns Mistakes Costly.

"I should like to say to the credit of the publishing industry and the broadcasting industry that the response, by and large, has been excellent. There have been some oversights and some mistakes. We have to expect that, but I think it is pertinent now to remind publishers and broadcasters that in wartime mistakes can be extremely costly.

"We have found no instance where any publisher or any broadcaster has shown evidence of a deliberate attempt to sabotage this experiment of self-discipline, and I am encouraged to believe that no such instance will develop. I say this with fervent hope, because I know that if voluntary censorship fails, dark hours may be ahead for free speech in the United States."

Fly said that the task of censorship in a wartime democracy is "to ban effectively, judiciously, and uniformly anything which will give aid to the enemy; and beyond that to keep the channels of information open for complete and honest news reports, fair criticism, and well rounded discussion of public issues."

Professional Skill Used.

He said this calls for expert handling and he believed Price's office is developing "a skilled professional unit, unflagging in its vigilance and exact in its distinction between what is dangerous and what is merely disagreeable to the censor."

Dwight Marvin, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said that censorship must be imposed from below and not from above. "It should be largely a voluntary system," he said. "It must be limited to the duration of the emergency. Above all, it must go only so far as necessity demands, and no farther."

APPEAL FOR 200,000 WAR RADIO STUDENTS WINS WIDE RESPONSE

The nation-wide appeal for 200,000 men to enroll for training as radio engineers and technicians for the war effort is meeting with an exceptional response. The four Chicago technical institutions conducting the four month courses in coöperation with the United States department of education, have reported an enrollment of 1,311. The first sessions were held last week.

More than 400 men have been selected for the training in 11 other Illinois cities where the courses will be conducted by the University of Illinois and Bradley Polytechnic institute.

Requirements for admission are high school diplomas with two years of credit in mathematics and one in physics.

The Chicago training centers are: Illinois Institute of Technology, where 605 are enrolled; Northwestern university's technological institute, 316; University of Chicago, 240, and De Paul university, 150. Information about the training may be obtained by addressing the Defense Training committee, Illinois Institute of Technology, 3300 Federal street, Chicago.

Downstate residents should address H. C. Rountree, supervisor of engineering extension, University of Illinois, Urbana.

DRASTIC REVISION OF RULES OF WAR URGED IN REPORT

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—The American Council on Public Affairs suggested today that the belligerents in the present world conflict should agree on drastic revision of the rules of warfare lest all international law collapse.

A report prepared for the private organization by Dr. William E. S. Flory of Princeton, N. J., questioned whether it was any longer justifiable to retain the distinction made in international law between prisoners of war and interned aliens. He asked, too, whether prisoners should enjoy housing, food and privileges superior to those which the detaining state grants its own civilians.

Dr. Flory noted that the treatment of American prisoners of war by Japan is not governed by the latest regulations as expressed in the code of 1929. Every major power except Japan approved them.

German treatment of French and other nationals in Nazi-occupied countries is beyond restraint of international law, the report added, since "the obligations of a state cease when its adversary has been incorporated as a part of its dominion."

MRS. ROOSEVELT RAPS ECONOMY PLANS FOR FSA

Asserts Activity Will Increase Food.

Washington, D. C., March 8 [Special].—Defending the activities of the Farm Security administration in her weekly sponsored broadcast tonight, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt assailed "economy minded people" and deplored efforts of the economy bloc to slash the agency's 1942 appropriations.

The FSA recently has been under attack in congress on charges of paying poll taxes for southern farmers, loaning $799,000 to "farmers" in the District of Columbia for "agricultural purposes," and spending exorbitant sums for official traveling expenses.

Planned Collectivization.

C. B. Baldwin, FSA administrator, who recently admitted that officials in his agency had prepared a long range program to collectivize agriculture in a fashion said to resemble that of communist Russia, has defended the practice of paying poll taxes in the south out of FSA funds. This encourages the right of citizens to vote, he told the joint congressional committee investigating nonessential expenditures.

Probate Judge Robert K. Greene of Hale county, Alabama, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, told the same committee that paying poll taxes with government funds was an illegal attempt to buy votes.

Rep. Paul Shafer [R., Mich.], who has made a personal investigation of several FSA activities, told the house last week that budget figures indicate FSA employés last year traveled 132,858,120 miles, or more than 8,300 times around the world, at taxpayers' expense. This is an average of 6,600 miles for each of the agency's 20,184 field employés. Shafer has demanded a list and explanation of farm loans in the District of Columbia.

Envisions More Food.

"The greatest increase in food production can be made by our group of low income farmers," Mrs. Roosevelt said, referring to the recent government request that farms produce one-fifth more than their average yearly output in the 1930s. "These farmers, who have lacked the capital and often the knowledge to make efficient use of their own labor and farm resources, represent a great reservoir of untapped production and man power."

Mrs. Roosevelt said 4 million FSA rehabilitation borrowers increased their net income 35 per cent, or 75 million dollars, by utilizing the FSA marketing program in 1940. She asserted that many of the persons now attacking FSA appropriations were economy minded in days gone by on preparations for defense and have only now become aware that we need war materials.

"That kind of economy has been proved short-sighted, to say the least," the President's wife said, "and the economy they now advocate will prove to be vastly wasteful in the future."

SLAYER OF NEGRO ESCAPES.

Friend of the Yanks

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

Supplementing the defense activities of the Illinois Reserve militia, discussed in a recent article, is the recently organized Illinois Reserve Militia Air corps. This service, composed of civilian pilots flying their own planes, can be used to transport militiamen in time of need, for courier service, and for air patrols.

The corps is patterned after the army air corps. It has its flying officers, communcations men, observers, photographers, mechanics, and other ground crew men. Men, between 18 and 55 years old, possessing at least a private pilot's license and their own planes, are eligible for enlistment as flying officers.

Members other than flying officers go in as enlisted men. They must have experience in the branch of service in which they wish to enlist. At present there are only a limited number of openings in the middle air corps.

In the Chicago area the corps is comprised of the 1st and 2d groups, with headquarters at the Municipal airport. Members hold drill nights twice a month and fly together each Sunday.

Men who believe they are qualified for enlistment can obtain information from Majors John A Casey and J. C. Keogh, who may be found at the militia hangar at the Municipal airport on Saturday afternoons.

[Tomorrow: Aviation Cadet Refresher Courses.]

QUESTIONS.

G. N. writes: "I suffer from narcolepsy, and am under treatment by a physician. Can you tell me what draft classification I will be given?"

ANSWER: When you are notified by your local draft board to appear for your preliminary physical examination, take with you an affidavit from your physician attesting that you are suffering from this ailment. If you otherwise are fit, your local board will place you in class 1-A and attach the affidavit to your physical report. When you receive your final examination by the army, the attached affidavit will be studied. If the army examining board agrees that you are suffering from narcolepsy, your draft board will be notified to place you in 4-F [physically unfit for military service].

R. R. writes: "I have a nephew who had a serious mastoid infection, necessitating removal of the entire mastoid bone. Would this bar him from military service?"

ANSWER: Unless he now suffers from loss of hearing, or unless there is a discharge from the ear, he would not be barred from military service.

M. J. M. writes: "I would like to know if it is compulsory for army men to wear their uniforms while they are on furlough."

ANSWER: The war department recently issued an order making it compulsory for army officers and enlisted men to wear their uniforms in public at all times.

B. J. J. writes: "I am 37 years old, with a 3-A draft classification. Would like to know where I can apply for the army quartermaster corps? Also, can I insure serving only in the United States?"

ANSWER: Unless you are an ex-service man, your age would bar you from actual enlistment. However, you could enter the army as a selective service volunteer by presenting yourself for induction at your local draft board. It would be impossible for you, however, to enlist directly into the quartermaster corps. You would have to enlist in the army for general duty, and then request assignment to the branch of your choice. It would be impossible for you to be sure you would serve only in the United States.

CITY EMPLOYES' WORK AT FLYNN'S HOME EXPLAINED

Called a 'Vacation' Job with N. Y. Trucks.

New York, March 8 (AP).—A hot political controversy developed today over charges that 27 city workmen had built an "antique Belgian courtyard" on the Lake Mahopac estate of Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn at a cost to the city of more than $2,000.

District Attorney Samuel J. Foley.

The charges were made last night in a statement issued by Paul J. Kern, ousted last Feb. 6 as president of the Municipal Civil Service commission by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia after a bitter quarrel.

Breaking an official silence on the Kern charges, Bronx District Attorney Samuel J. Foley said investigation showed that city employés "on vacation" had used some municipal materials to build a courtyard on Flynn's Putnam county estate last November.

Moved in City Trucks.

Kern asserted that the city workers were transported in city-owned trucks 54 miles to Flynn's country home and built the courtyard with 9,000 city-owned granite paving blocks also hauled to the site in city-owned trucks.

District Attorney Foley, complaining that Kern's public statement had hampered a "secret" investigation already under way by him and Commissioner of Investigation William B. Herlands, said only nine or ten city employés had worked on the courtyard.

These men, Foley said, were marked on city records as "on vacation" at the time as a result of accumulated overtime and decided to spend their time off working for Flynn, who in addition to his national party post is also head of the Bronx county Democratic organization.

Says Flynn Paid Men.

Foley said the men were taken to the political leader's country home in "two station wagons which were city owned." He added that the paving blocks, taken from vacant lots used by the city, had been transported by private trucks.

Flynn paid the workmen, Foley said, "at the same rate they would have received doing similar work for the city.

"Since this work was done, Mr. Flynn has bought and replaced the same quantity of paving block which was used on his property."

Kern said that he had made a full report on the case to Mayor La Guardia before his recent ouster and that "the mayor has had this information for nearly four months."

MAIL 1,680,000 1941 TAX BILLS, 150,000 REFUNDS

John Toman, county treasurer, announced yesterday that more than 1,680,000 real estate and personal property tax bills for 1941 have been mailed to taxpayers. The penalty date for the first instalment is May 1. About 150,000 of the taxpayers will receive tax refund certificates together with their bills, Toman said. These certificates may be used only for the payment of tax on the parcels of property mentioned in the documents. If the taxpayer has sold the property, he may sell the certificate to the purchaser.

He was seized on the complaint of Joseph J. Brindisi of 662 North May street, a Legionnaire.

THIS MAP SHOWS WHY YOU MUST BUDGET YOUR TIRE MILES

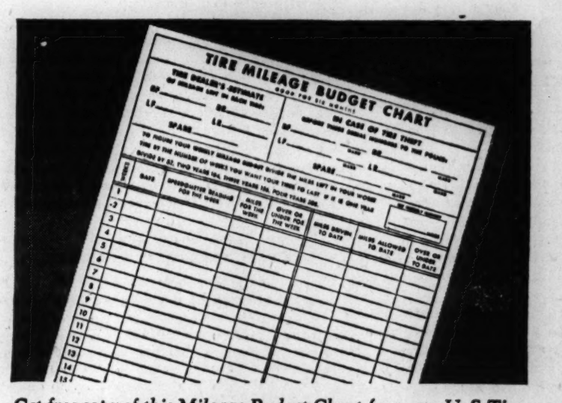
NOW you see the real urgency of the rubber situation. As a patriotic American you must make your present tires last as long as possible.

Suppose our 29,000,000 cars were taken off the road. The nation's efficiency and war effort would be crippled. Immediate demand for more buses, trucks, trains and trolleys would divert our precious supply of steel, rubber and man-power from vital war production.

You have been wanting to do something for America. Today you can. There is a simple, practical way to make your tires last to the utmost limit. Drive to a responsible tire dealer. Find out the mileage left in your tires. Then budget this precious mileage to last as long as possible for necessary driving.

Cut your driving down to absolute essentials. Pool your car with those of your neighbors, in driving to work, to market, etc. Use one car instead of half a dozen.

Patriotism does not demand that you lay up your car. Just the opposite. Real conservation requires that you keep your car in service for the duration of war as part of America's essential transportation system. Don't think of it as a "pleasure car". It's a war car now.



Get free copy of this Mileage Budget Chart from any U. S. Tire Dealer—or write to United States Rubber Co. Get your dealer's expert advice on how to make your tires last as long as possible.

THE WAR TODAY.

Java for purposes of effective defense may be considered as lost. We may expect a final chapter of gallantry from the white forces that have retired to the mountains, but hardly more than that. The news of the last week does not change the fundamental situation, for it was forecast at Pearl Harbor and made a certainty at Singapore. Accordingly, it does not alter the obvious strategy that necessity dictates to the United States and our associates.

England faces Germany across the channel and the North sea. History may finally record that the threat of invasion was a successful hoax which fixed the British mind on the defensive. But it is as unsafe as it is unfair to adopt that verdict until the threat has been removed. Britain is quite naturally conserving her strength for that theater in which her survival as a nation depends. Her strategic necessities demand that the great strength she has mustered in the British Isles be used outside the islands only under circumstances in which they would still remain as a bar to invasion.

Russia is fighting the greatest war of all time on the eastern front. The result of that war cannot now be predicted. Winter has given the Red armies an advantage that they seized magnificently. They have hurt but by no means routed the Nazi forces, and it still remains to be seen whether the injuries they have inflicted have been great enough to deter Hitler from resuming with warm weather the hammer blows that carried him within sight of Moscow.

It may be noted, however, that the only nation that has successfully opposed the German might has fought this war purely on the principle of what is best for Russia. Russia used time and the disasters of western Europe to prepare for the onslaught. She has not allowed happenings on other fronts to distract her attention from the obvious fact that Hitler is her most dangerous enemy and the one against whom she must concentrate all her might so long as that is possible.

Thus Russia is not fighting the Japanese, altho of all the powers who are associated with her in the war against Hitler she is the best situated to strike at the Japanese homeland. The time may come when she will turn upon Japan. If so—and this is said without derogation—it may be depended upon that she will attack Japan primarily to serve Russian interests and not those of any other power.

Japan has cleaned up the British and Dutch possessions in the western Pacific. She stands at a cross-roads from which she can turn against Australia—where she would meet the bitterest sort of going—or against India. India might fall to her like an overripe plum, but the taking of it would leave her lines exposed to attack from an unconquered Australia. More important, she is in a position to decline either of these hazards and to devote her entire great strength against us, who are obviously her greatest enemy.

We cannot attack Germany in any effective way. In western Europe we can do no more than the British themselves are able to do, and in the Mediterranean and Asia Minor we face to even a more exaggerated degree the British difficulties of transport that have for two years barred her from any successful offensive. But we can attack Japan. The difficulties are great and do not arise from distance alone. Even so, they are lesser difficulties than those that bar the way to any effective, large scale American effort on any other field.

World strategy demands that Russia be given every aid to keep her in the war against Hitler. What she needs is munitions and probably food as well. She has plenty of man power. Of the three roads available to Russia, the one by Murmansk is threatened by German air and naval strength, and the one across Iran is of little importance because of vast distances by sea and mountainous barriers on land. The other road is closed by Japan. By beating Japan we can see that supplies for Russia again move over the trans-Siberian railroad.

The situation demands that we concentrate our strength against the Japanese. We have not only to beat her but to see that she does not defeat us—as she can do if we fritter our forces away all over the world. Japan recognizes the United States as her greatest and most powerful enemy and may be depended upon to act accordingly. It will be fatal folly if we fail to recognize that at this time she is our most dangerous enemy and the one by whose defeat we can contribute most to the eventual victory of our associates all over the world.

WRITING A LETTER FOR MR. GREEN.

From New York 254 sandhogs, men who do the highly dangerous and skilled work in tunnels and other deep excavations, have sent a letter to President Green of the AFL asking him to do something about the racketeers that control the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' union. The president of this union is Joseph Moreschi, who was an intimate and tool of the notorious Mike Carrozzo during the latter's lifetime.

The union did not hold a national convention for 30 years and when finally forced to do so by public opinion staged a steam roller affair that confirmed Moreschi and his disreputable associates in their offices for five years. The sandhogs tell Mr. Green that their union is the "most notorious in the AFL" and that racketeers are running its locals as dues collecting rackets and are accepting kickbacks and bribes from contractors to whom they sell out their men in wage negotiations, all on a scale that makes the take of such labor criminals as Scalise, Browne, and Bioff seem insignificant by comparison.

Mr. Green clearly owes the oppressed sandhogs a reply. In case he does not get around to writing it, the following draft is suggested:

"Dear Sirs and Brothers:

"I challenge those who condemn the American Federation of Labor to point out where there is any racketeering in the American Federation of Labor.

"Our national and international unions are autonomous bodies, chartered by the American Federation of Labor, governed by their own laws, and administered by the officers of state organizations. We respect the right of the membership of these unions to administer their own affairs. We have never assumed and never will assume dictatorial policies toward national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. But with all the power we possess we appeal to the membership of every international union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to keep their movement clean and maintain it on a high plane, and if there is any attempt on the part of racketeers to seek to secure control of their movement to deal with them vigorously and at once.

"I want to say to you that many of the charges made against us are unfounded and untrue, unjustifiable from every point of view, and I resent it in your name as the representative of the American Federation of Labor.

"Fraternally yours,
[Signed] "William Green."

Such a letter will not help the oppressed sandhogs in throwing off the racketeers who are preying on them and the words may not exactly make sense to the public, but they did not make any more sense when Mr. Green first used them. That was at the AFL convention in 1940, in New Orleans. He was speaking in praise of a committee report which emasculated David Dubinsky's resolution to give the AFL summary power to remove an officer of any international union who used his official position for personal gains. If the Dubinsky proposal had not been killed, Mr. Green could do something for the sandhogs.

THE SALUTE.

The army order restoring the salute between officers and men at all times and places will help to develop better soldiers. When use of the salute off military reservations was abolished two years ago, the army mistakenly subscribed to the theory that the salute is an onerous obligation, instead of recognizing, as the good soldier does, that it is an honor and a reward.

At that time the army was being filled with conscripts, and the order restricting the salute indicated an indifference if not a disinclination to develop a good army. A soldier, to be an effective fighting man, must be conscious that he is one in a great comradeship of arms and that the uniform that he and his comrades wear is entitled to his own respect and the respect of others. The salute then becomes a recognition of the comradeship and of the measure of respect that the uniform should command.

When a civilian comes into the army he has to undergo mental readjustments while he finds out what it is to be a good soldier. In his progress toward becoming a good soldier, he will learn that there is nothing in army life but the necessity of doing a duty and taking pride in it. There are no money rewards, the life is unpleasant, there is discomfort and the danger of disease, and there is the hazard of death. The only enduring reward is victory.

There must be intelligent leadership to create the atmosphere in which a soldier can arrive at this understanding. Once he does, he will find an extraordinary richness in the fulfilment of his duty. This development of devotion to duty is promoted thru the salute exchanged between officers and men, for it serves to recognize the interdependence of the man in command and the man in the ranks. It is perhaps not customary for a truck driver to go up and say hello to the president of his corporation, but the salute enables a soldier to exchange naturally an equivalent greeting with his general.

In the German army soldiers salute not only officers but other soldiers, and our army should be persuaded of the attractiveness of the custom. The salute between common soldiers is an extension of the kind of comradeship that exists among young men on a college campus. It is a sign of friendship as well as of respect, and as such it can surely not be out of place among the men of the most democratic nation.

THE PARTY LINE.

The communist party line since the outbreak of the war in 1939 has reversed direction with almost as many hairpin turns as the Burma road. The British minister of home security, Herbert Morrison, states that there is no assurance that the party line, which has now straightened out, will not make further sudden changes of direction in the future. As a consequence, he does not feel that the time is ripe for permitting the Daily Worker, organ of the British communists, to resume publication.

When the Worker was banned early in 1941, it was shouting that Britain was engaged in an imperialistic war. Stalin was sitting on the sidelines then, but when events pushed him into the fray, he found himself going in the same direction as the British imperialists. The British communists and the Daily Worker necessarily went with him. For these reasons Mr. Morrison speaks more in sorrow than in anger of the "past readiness of the communist party to make a sudden change of front and to exploit any changes in the situation for its own purposes, without regard to national interest."

What Mr. Morrison is saying is that the British communists are working, not for Britain, but for Russia, and that they trim their sails to winds from the comintern in Moscow. If he wanted an apt description of how the communists outside Russia faithfully respond to orders by changing form every other moment, he might call to mind that American characterization of a certain politician as "the India rubber man, who can reverse himself in his own integument so that you can't tell whether he is coming or going."

A REAL AMERICAN ICE BREAKER.

[Springfield (Mass.) Republican.]

At a cost of $8,000,000, this country for the first time is to have a real ice breaker. The flow of iron ore down the Great Lakes, which last year rose to record heights, represents a vital war need. But it is annually stopped for three or four months by ice. This has induced the federal government . . . to compete with the Russians in the production of an ice breaker scientifically designed on the Russian theory of crushing the ice by the weight of the ship's hull, as its armored bow is forced up and on to the ice floe.

When the ice begins to form on the Great Lakes next November or December, and the need of ore is probably even more urgent than today, this new ship should be ready to go into action. With a reported displacement of 5,000 tons, she will not be as large as the Russian ice breakers, the latest of which are reported to run as high as 12,000 tons. But the ice on the Great Lakes is apparently not as thick as that with which the Russians have to contend. . . .

The details of this first American ice breaker of serious proportions . . . are distinguished, by her great beam in proportion to her length, 70 feet to 280, and her 10,000 horse power. . . .

WAR AMONG THE ISLANDS.

Multitudinous islands of the vast Pacific; necklaced islands of the Spanish Main; volcanic islands of the northern seas where Bering cruised; islands, islands everywhere, and none of them safe from the airplane and the submarine. Let us glance at some of these oceanic freckles that were famous in the tales and legends of a happier age, when a lonely island dreaming under the tropic sun was every one's dream of peace.

* * *

The island of "Swiss Family Robinson": Altho this salubrious romance for children is a geographical fantasy, one may state with assurance that it is now under the menace of the Rising Sun. It is located somewhere between north central Australia and New Guinea. Our evidence for this assertion is the fact that a Russian sea captain's discovery of a Swiss clergyman and his family on an island in that region inspired the tale. See James O'Donnell Bennett's "Much Loved Books," page 191.

* * *

The island of Barrie's Play, "The Admirable Crichton": The author had no notion of its latitude and longitude, but we will place it for him. It was in the Marianas, the Japanese mandate which also contains Guam. The castaways in "The Admirable Crichton" kill a deer for food, and the only place in Micronesia or Polynesia where a deer might be found is the Marianas.

* * *

The islands of cartoonists' cannibals, preparing missionary stew: Undoubtedly the Solomon Islands, southeast of the Bismarck archipelago, which in many works of fiction are densely populated with anthropophagi.

* * *

Thursday Island: A reader asks us to locate it after failing to find it on the war maps. Off the tip of Cape York peninsula, Australia's finger pointing northward, and on the main-traveled sea lane of Torres Strait. Headquarters for pearl fishermen and background of many South Seas tales.

HOUSEWIFE'S DAY BOOK.

This book is old, its leaves dog-eared and torn,
The penciled lines are blurred, all thumbed and worn;
Is itemized with zealous care, a housewife's chore.
In neat Spencerian lady's hand she wrote,
Listing each thing she bought and adding a brief note
Of weather, garden work and all the various things
That made the sum of her day's happenings:
"Much needed rain, the air refreshed and cool"
"Two bluejays bathing in a flagstone pool"
"The goldfinch lilting on a swaying thistle"
"While hoeing heard the bobwhite whistle"
"Dewdrops on the nasturtium leaves"
"The swallows coursing by the chamber eaves"
"Gilmans on their side porch pitting cherries"
"A double rainbow after rain" "We cut the orchard hay"
"The cool haze of the Mackinaw breaks the heat today"
She kept a strict accounting of the moneys spent
But added largess of the beauty each day lent.
S'Amuser.

Going Down to the Lake in Boats.

Maine has no claim on having the nation's best fisherfolk as long as Chicago's 450 commercial fishing boats sink their nets somewhere in Lake Michigan. These people are a hardy lot, who like their beer both to drink and to cook in. They have their tragic tradition of the sea, too; each family has lost at least one man in the lake, and women who marry into these families resign themselves to this fate.

Their catches consist of herring and perch, lake trout and whitefish, sturgeon and eels, and perhaps smelt and others in season. What is the favorite dish of these men? Why, whitefish livers fried in butter, of course, accompanied by a beaker of beer and a song.

Their homes are almost as nautical as their boats, what with steering wheels, and swinging lights, and compasses for ornaments. One even has his home built in the form of a fish, with the front porch like a fish's mouth propped open.

The names of their boats are peculiar—Adamandra II., Bella M., Dora S., Genevieve V., Tillie H., Marie F., Laura W., Honey B., and sometimes attempts at humor such as Gas Pains and Mattress.

The fisherfolk of Chicago are always at work—mending their nets, keeping their boats in trim, smoking some of the catch, and fighting rough water to place their nets. They take time out only for whitefish livers, fried, a beaker of beer, and a lusty song. Chet Swital.

SPEAKERS' TABLE FEVER.

If I am asked to stand and speak
Unto a group,
The blood deserts my ruddy cheek
And turns to soup.

Confusion I just can't disguise;
I long to flee.
(O, that I were two other guys
Instead of me!)

I can't think of a single word.
(I want to sneeze.)
The only sound from me that's heard
Is knocking knees.

But when I'm seated my heart sings;
I'm free from dread;
And then I think of brilliant things
I could have said.

BRONCHITIS, A PERSISTENT DISTURBER.

AMONG our older friends, many will be afflicted with bronchial trouble during the colder season. We all have acquaintances who exhibit daily paroxysms of "barking." In certain cases symptoms will persist until spring is well advanced.

At times the choking seizures will disturb sleep. From the standpoint of general wellbeing, every cough places some strain upon the air cells. Should this condition recur year after year the delicate tissues will become overstretched [emphysema], which accounts for much of our wheezing.

There is always a first attack. As a rule the initial episode will follow a cold which hangs on. Particularly will this be observed if the sufferer is portly and inclined to overeat. Many of us have become abdominal rather than chest breathers. Posture has been neglected and there is a tendency to slouch when sitting or standing. In consequence, the capacity of the lungs has been reduced so that the slightest exertion will occasion shortness of breath.

With such a picture, allow a cold to become chronic and cure will present a real problem. What has happened? The bacterial advance has proceeded downward along the bronchial tree, inflaming the mucous tissues. Considerable phlegm is thus produced which must be expelled if we are to keep the channels open. This explains the machinegunlike explosions which occur in rapid succession. A minor stimulus—perhaps using the voice—may start one of these paroxysms. The face, which at first is flushed, becomes deeply congested. After a time respiration will sound noisy—whistling and bubbling.

If a temperature is present the patient should be in bed. A semireclining position is advised. Sedatives are helpful, and a cough mixture, designed to thin secretions, offers relief. When the episode is past, activity may be resumed gradually. Walking should not be hurried, as any unusual effort is sure to bring on "woofing."

The chronic sufferer must be placed upon a strictly hygienic regimen—with plenty of fresh air, some exercise, and a light diet. Regardless of the weight of the patient small meals should be the rule. If the victim is undernourished, increase the number of feedings rather than the amounts. If vomiting follows a meal the sufferer should eat again a half hour later.

Despite the fact that vaccines have not been strikingly successful, marked improvement has been reported. Manufactured from the organisms found growing in the airways, they should be administered by injection, starting with a minute dose.

A steam kettle will add much to comfort. Automatic devices are available, eliminating the danger that the apparatus will burn dry. Compound tincture of benzoin or menthol crystals may be added to the water.

An important curative measure should not be forgotten—that of breathing exercises. Holding the abdominal muscles contracted, inhale and exhale three or four times. This is followed by relaxation for an equal interval. At first, when this is attempted, the patient will be breathless, but with practice portions of the lungs that have not been used for months will again be brought into play.

Of course, if it is possible to sojourn in a warmer climate, while these same precautions may be needed, symptoms will disappear more rapidly.

TYPHOID.

L. A. F. writes: Would it be possible to have positive stools for typhoid if one has never had the disease?

REPLY.

You may be a carrier, having experienced a mild infection years ago. These germs may linger within the gall bladder—their favorite hiding spot—for a decade or more.

C. E. D. writes: Of what disease is a breath smelling like country sausage a symptom?

REPLY.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

LABOR SHORTAGE.

Chicago, March 5.—One day this week there appeared in the Voice of the People a letter deploring the fact that certain of our far sighted legislators [and they are all too few] should dare propose repealing the 40-hour week and dispense with extra compensation on the basis of time and a half for overtime. Such utter ignorance of existing labor conditions is tragic. I am employed by a large manufacturing corporation, engaged principally in war production work. Our labor problem is becoming more acute each week. It isn't that my company objects to a 40-hour week and time and a half for overtime. The difficulty lies in finding enough men to do the work. It was stated that we have, at present, over two million unemployed. For a country of 130 million people, I consider that a very low percentage inasmuch as this country has always operated on the theory that in any and every year there will be a certain per cent of unemployed. Undoubtedly most of these are unemployable because of health or age. We are desperately trying to arm ourselves and give our soldiers and sailors a fighting chance. It would seem only fair to them that selfishness on our part, as workers, should vanish completely.

I for one am willing to work any amount of hours, with no overtime. It is highly preferable to patroling sub infested seas or lying in a fox hole in Bataan waiting for bombers from home.

M. PEDERSEN,

PROTECTION OF THE SOO LOCKS.

Houghton, Mich., March 4.—May I suggest that it would be foresighted to check into the protection of the Soo locks and the possibilities of their being bombed? Every one recognizes the value of the locks, since 85 per cent of all our iron ore clears thru them. I have been told that there isn't one anti-aircraft gun on the Great Lakes, neither are there any fighter planes which could break up bomber formations. In other words, just no protection.

I may be wrong, but I honestly believe the locks to be the most important and valuable military objective in all North America, if not in the world. One well chosen or directed bomb and the whole series of locks would be gone, not to be rebuilt for probably a year or two. It would not be such a difficult achievement for an enemy aircraft carrier to get into Hudson bay without being detected and then turn loose bombers. Or if Japan should get a foothold in Alaska, couldn't they then send bombers to the Soo?

J. W. BERRY.

URGES USE OF HONEY.

Chicago, March 5.—What is the first thing the doctor eliminates from one's diet? Sugar, of course. Housewives can do without sugar by using honey and sirup. Try honey in your coffee, on grapefruit, and everything else in place of sugar. I have a family of five and have not used any sugar for two months and don't think I ever will again.

MAUREEN V. BROWN.

TAXATION WITHOUT TRANSPORTATION.

Chicago, March 5.—Will we have to secure drivers' licenses this year? If our tires are to be taken away, how can we drive. And how about that $5 tax in June for the car we cannot use, and the vehicle and state tax we have paid? Will these be refunded? AD. N. FINITUM.

SHADES OF HENRY GEORGE.

Wichita, Kas., March 3.—Inflation of the worst kind is that which we have had for a very long time without knowing it. The inflation of land values is the parent of the twin evils—land speculation and land monopoly. Land is a gift of nature to man and should be as free as is fresh air and sunshine. Possession of land to the individual must be secure and this is accomplished by the payment of taxes upon it. But with justice to all men and in order to prevent land value inflation the full value of land rent should be paid by taxation excepting, of course, the cost of collection. This will automatically restrict the ownership of land to areas that can be profitably used and will effectually prevent the holding of land out of use for speculation. With the selling price of land practically eliminated building lots and vast areas of agricultural land now monopolized by individuals or corporations will be made available for use to those who want it. Fully 50 per cent, of all city land is now said to be held out of use in vacant lots. The advantage to the householder, the manufacturer, and the farmer in not having to pay highly inflated prices for land on which to build or to cultivate would result in an immense saving which then could be used in legitimate production. The interest on all farm loans, excepting upon improvements, would save agriculture many millions of dollars annually and this saving would reduce the cost of all products grown on mortgaged land. Another saving would be prevention of the immense losses now caused by speculating at inflated prices which subsequently drop. When land value inflation is eliminated the cost of building and all rents will be greatly lessened. The 100 per cent ground-rent tax will do it. HENRY WARE ALLEN.

APPEAL FROM A SOLDIER.

Chicago, March 5.—Recently I received a letter from a young man in the army:

"We in the army sure would like a chance to 'speak' to the strikers we read about. If we get an order to do something that we don't think is fair to us, we DO IT FIRST, and argue about it later. Why couldn't the strikers do that? Either they aren't very patriotic, or they have allowed fifth columnists to get into their organizations and pull the wool over their eyes. It certainly is not good for army morale to read of all these strikes [especially considering the pay they are getting compared with ours.] It looks as if the people were not behind us, and as if they don't give a damn whether we get weapons, equipment, or clothing. What good are your raises going to do you if you lay down on the job and lose the war? I. L.

HOW ABOUT BEATING THEM FIRST?

Chicago, March 5.—I am tired and sick of listening over the radio and reading in the papers and magazines about how nicely our enemies would be treated after we have won the war. The inhabitants of our enemy nations are following their leaders and would give us no mercy if victorious. They should and must receive full punishment when we force them to unconditional surrender. Only this method will prevent this type of enemy from trying to repeat their dastardly war for world conquest.

FRANK M. MCKEY.

DEFENSE RACKET?

Hazel Crest, Ill., March 6.—We should squawk long and loud when our own village fathers start picking our pockets for dubious war defense purposes. One village board has its trustees busily selling books of tickets for civilian defense at $1 a book. You are unpatriotic if you don't buy a book. The tickets mean nothing, but you may win a prize. Questioning a trustee brought the information that no decisions had been reached as to a defense program or as to how the money was to be spent. These books are selling like hotcakes among a group which, under pressure, could raise only 10 cents a head for Red Cross funds.

MARTHA.

SERVICE ATHLETICS.

Seneca, Ill., March 5.—Who said we had to have all these big names in sport for physical instructors in the service? A sergeant with a good pair of lungs and legs can do a better job. Walk and double time and setting up exercises will put men in better shape than all the football and baseball ever played. Ask any experienced soldier, officer, or man. The Japs and Nazis are not going to take time out to play ball. Let these diamond, ring, and gridiron heroes fall in and take it with the rest, and their public will think more of them. CORNELIUS KNUTSON,
Ex-Army and Marine.

THOUGHTS ON PANTS.

Chicago, March 4.—The new rationing rule prohibits suits with two pairs of trousers. I have never believed that there is any economy in buying a suit with one pair of trousers. Trousers wear out twice as fast as a coat and vest. So when you buy a suit with two pairs of trousers, you are in reality buying two suits of clothes and you save one coat and vest. Most men who have their clothes tailor made insist on having two pair of trousers just for this purpose. So it would seem to me that instead of conserving cloth you are going to waste it.

ESTATE FEES.

Berwyn, Ill., March 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother made a will and appointed me, her daughter, as administrator to an estate which is to be sold and divided equally among two brothers and myself, and we agree that there are no other claims.

1. What are the court costs and [2] is there an initial fee and a closing fee?
3. How much expense is there?
4. It is over a year since mother died and I would like to know [5] what to expect as [6] it went thru probate.

A. F.

1. Depends on facts that are not before us.
2. Yes.
3. The attorneys' fee would be the largest item. It would depend upon the extent and quality of his services.
4. On such facts the estate should be ready for closing.
5. Your share will depend on the wording of the will.

Karakul Lamb New Pet.

March 8, 1942.

There is a new pet in the sheep barns at the farm. It is a tiny, black Karakul lamb that arrived just a few days ago. The youngster is coal black with a beautifully shaped head, small, pointed ears, and a purple tongue that flicks in and out.

The lamb is a buck, and the second born in the flock that was established at the farm last year. The farm wives have been gaping with awe at the little fellow's fur. The lamb's entire body is covered with tight, black curls that glisten in the sunlight. The fur is so perfect farm wives can't help but think of Karakul coats when they look at it.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Napoleon Leads 9 Others.

There are 10 Karakuls in the farm flock now. Old Napoleon, the big horned buck; three ewes, four yearlings, and the two lambs.

The ewe that gave birth to the new lamb was only 13 months old. The flockmaster said that caring for the Karakuls is much easier than looking after the Southdown sheep. He visited the barn at 3:30 p. m. on the day the lamb was born and the ewe gave no indication that she was going to lamb. Two hours later the lamb had arrived and was teetering around on its rubber legs, getting its fill of milk.

Karakuls seldom have twins as do Southdowns, but their single lambs are big and strong and the ewes have plenty of milk for them. This young ewe has too much milk for the new lamb and the little fellow stumbles around his pen with a stomach so full he looks as if he might burst.

The young mother has a special pen next door to the quarters occupied by the big buck. "Old Nap" has taken a great interest in his new offspring and the flockmaster has trouble keeping him out of the ewe's pen. Altho a fence almost five feet high separates the pens, "Old Nap" gives one jump and he's in with his family.

Flocks Strange to Farm.

The other Karakul ewes are not due in for a while. The flockmaster isn't quite sure when to expect more black lambs, because of field breeding. The flock was strange to the farm, and the flockmaster felt that cooping the animals up and pen breeding might add to their fright, with the result that the ewes might not conceive.

The Southdown ewes are getting close to lambing time, and the flockmaster is getting ready to start midnight vigils in the barn at any moment.

"I'm no good at figures!"

Bookkeeping is not in my line. My job is selling. I find people and markets interest me much more than just cold figures.

Now take Philadelphia. There's a market of over 3 million people. But the important thing is not the actual number. It's the fact that these people are head over heels in war work. They've got money. They're looking for the wise ways to spend it.

I know The Evening Bulletin is the favorite newspaper in Philadelphia. It has been on top longer than any other daily in the biggest markets of the country.

But more important to me than mere circulation is the fact that over 600,000 people buy The Bulletin because they want it. They don't expect prize contests, premiums, tricks and gadgets. This appeals to me because that's the way I sell.

The only figures that are important to me are the ones that help me sell that way. It's a good thing we have a calculating machine. If I want percentages and such, I can get them. For example:

CIRCULATION GAIN

Compared with the corresponding month of the preceding year—The Evening Bulletin has increased in circulation for 32 out of the last 33 months. It has gone from 439,871 to 632,413 in February—the largest daily circulation in the history of newspapers in Philadelphia. What percentage of gain is that?

42%

CONCENTRATION

Of the average total 632,413 Evening Bulletins bought every day in February—607,261 were bought right in Philadelphia and suburbs. What is the percentage of concentration inside the trading area?

96%

COVERAGE

There are 490,077 families in the Philadelphia city zone where 434,494 Bulletins are bought every day. What is the percentage of Bulletins against total families?

89%

LEADERSHIP

Media records show that national display advertisers used 2,624,531 lines of advertising in The Evening Bulletin last year against 1,389,438 lines in the second daily newspaper (excluding classifications not acceptable to The Bulletin). What is the margin of Bulletin leadership?

89%

IN PHILADELPHIA—NEARLY EVERYBODY READS THE BULLETIN

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

New Business Dept.

It takes all kinds of businesses to make a world: A widow with children to support conceived the idea of collecting box tops for people who wish to enter contests. She now has quite an imposing array of them, advertises her "cut rates" and can produce the box top for any contest quicker than you can think up a prize winner.

Girls Eat Meat.

For the sake of the Hoosier Wildcat—who states emphatically that he is "sick of seeing these anemic looking, underfed 'beauties' all day long"—the comments of a lunchroom manager for a large company are given due attention.

First, says the lady who supervises the food, girls have practically given up eating sandwiches in the lunchroom. They patronize the steam table as much as the men, and generally eat meat and vegetables and potato for their noonday meal. Second, more and more working girls are drinking milk, altho the women still outdistance the men when it comes to coffee drinking. Third, the girls eat stewed fruits usually for dessert, and in this respect the men's tastes are heartier. Men eat far more ice cream and pie. On the whole, women workers are growing more sensible in their diets due to general interest in nutrition and health. So states the lunchroom manager . . . who isn't a bit anemic looking or underfed.

Lesson.

"The most important lesson I have learned in business," says one career woman, "is not to feel sorry for myself. When I do, I'm no good for any one . . . myself . . . or the other fellow.

All in Day's Work.

Another secretary to a woman physician outlines her duties. In addition to the customary "chores" she has been performing for eight years, she—

Sends out between 1,000 and 1,500 bills each month.

Takes care of Christmas gifts for some 300 babies the doctor has delivered [and whom she has remembered at Christmas time for several years.]

Emergency.

At least one white collar girl realized the other day that there's more to the Red Cross motor corps than meets the eye. Riding along Michigan avenue the taxi driver suddenly turned around and asked: "Can you drive a car?" to which she said meekly no . . . no . . . driving was not one of her talents. Whereupon the driver answered portentously: "Too bad! Fifteen minutes ago I ate ONIONS and lady, they make me deathly sick!"

Pleas to Sally This Morning Are for Beds

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

There are six members in the R. family—four children and two adults. The father earns fifteen dollars a week, which provides food, shelter, and a limited amount of clothing, but little else.

One child, a boy, has a heart ailment. Because of it, clinic physicians have advised that he sleep alone to insure proper rest. A large size child's bed is needed for him, and we hope that any south side reader who has such a bed will donate it for this youngster.

Mr. and Mrs. N. and their six month old baby are living in a rooming house. At present the child is sleeping with his parents. They are anxious to have a separate bed for him, but the father's wages are not sufficient to permit the purchase of one. This address is on the west side of the city, but Mr. N. will be glad to call anywhere for a bed.

Mr. and Mrs. H., also on the west side of the city, need a large sized baby bed for their youngest child. Altho Mr. H. is working, his wage is too small for more than absolute necessities.

Mrs. M., who lives on the north side, has requested a child's bed for her son, who has been sleeping in his buggy. He is now well over a year old, and in need of a more comfortable bed.

Bright Spring Fashions Here Ready for Duty

BY REA SEEGER.

They're here! All the new spring fashions ready for duty. Bright colors to pick up gloomy thoughts and moods. Gay, almost frivolous hats destined for sensational spring and summer headlines. Suits divided into two definite classifications—business-like models for the busiest doers of the times and the dress up models that are superflatteries for the most festive occasions.

Witness the gay avalanche of spring dresses. There are the smoothies that look and double for suits, the softer versions of the time honored one piece daytime dresses, edged with color, cut with unusual outlines, frosted sometimes with snowy white, detailed with a definite dressmaker touch to rival any former glories imported from Paris. Inspect the high fashion affairs with a shirt, a jacket and a fake front or dickee securely attached to the band of the skirt. See the soft suits with such unusual decoration as bows of the wool or fabric of the suit. Gloat over the many varied costumes of dress and colored jacket and wool long coat. They're still the favorite of all shoppers.

New bolero concoctions are way ahead of the parade. You'll see a vivid colored bolero with a dark skirt, a bolero jacket of dark wool or fabric as contrast for a giddily colored print dress, and dashing red boleros on both black or navy blue costumes with enough white added to create the illusion of a three piece costume.

Note the necklines, new because of the frilly jabots or the softly tied bows of the same material as the blouse, the falls of crisp white organdy or embroidery, the dainty flattering contrast of lace edged sheers and chiffon seen both in the separate blouses and the jacket and coats. And check on the increasing popularity of yellow as high fashion. In another two weeks the town will shine with this cheerful color in dozens of varying tints and tones.

Elman at His Greatest Plays to Small House

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The music business is a melancholy one. A great artist can cease to be the fashion even when he is at the height of his powers and can see his army of crowding, elbowing, shouting followers dwindle to a corporal's guard. Mischa Elman played at Orchestra hall yesterday before an audience that was a mere ghost of the one he used to draw.

His work was as magnificent as ever, so that the reason for the sparse attendance must be sought in the fact that in music, as in everything else, hungry new generations are constantly treading down the established masters. The time is 20 years gone when you could grab the lapel of any stranger on the street, command him to name three violinists, and receive the immediate answer—"Kreisler, Elman and Zimbalist."

Elman can still fiddle rings around most of the youngsters. In Wieniawski's second concerto yesterday he gave what amounted to a post-graduate course in how the violin should be played.

He made it sing with an intoxicating effortlessness and sweetness, made it surmount the most hearbreaking technical difficulties with a gayety gayety and ease that denied the existence of these difficulties, and made it phrase with an authentic grandeur and power.

The audience was quick to grasp the fact that the great violinist had determined to give his very best. And even today—with all the new players who have arisen—how often can one find a better test? There was much applause, innumerable recalls, and even some cheers.

Besides the Wieniawski Elman played the Debussy sonata and Beethoven's fifth sonata with his sterling pianist, Leopold Mittman] and a variety of short transcriptions.

Anne Rudolph and her motion choir presented at the Goodman yesterday an elaborate and well staged dance production called "American Horizons." It interprets the history of our country from the days of the Indians to the present time. Miss Rudolph had the assistance of Bertha Fitzek, pianist; Marguerite Clausen, soprano; Vera Jeske, contralto, and Don Harrington, narrator.

Alice Martz, winner of the Adult Education council's 1941 piano contest and survivor of a recent recital in Orchestra hall, returned to the same auditorium Saturday night to appear as soloist with the Civic orchestra under Hans Lange's direction in Powell's "Negro Rhapsody."

Her performance impressed one as clean and crisp rather than brilliant. The orchestra overrode the piano in certain passages which the composer intended should be among the solo instrument's most effective. The piece's more lyrical episodes were attractive in the highest degree, with Miss Martz's excellent tone quality and fine feeling for rhythm constantly in evidence.

The program also held the suite from Rameau's "Dardanus" in DeLamarter's transcription, Ravel's "Alborado del Gracioso," the Beethoven fifth symphony and the prelude to Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg."

Chapel Guild of Cenacle to Present Lenten Talk

The Chapel guild of the Cenacle will present its third Lenten speaker, the Rev. Ives R. Simon, at 2:30 o'clock today at the Woman's Athletic club. His subject will be "Beyond the Crisis in the French Republic."

Stage Notes

"Papa Is All," the comedy about the Pennsylvania Dutch by Patterson Greene, begins a return engagement at the Blackstone theater tonight. Jessie Royce Landis, Carl Benton Reid, Dorothy Sands, and Celeste Holm, who headed the original cast, are still in the company. This Theater Guild production had a successful two week engagement at the Harris last December but could not extend its run at that time because of a New York booking.

The American Theater Wing War Service campaign to raise money thru the sale of "America Goes to War" starts this afternoon at 1:30 in the book department of Marshall Field & Co., where Alfred Lunt and the cast of the radio show, "First Nighter," will be on hand to autograph copies of each book that is sold. For the same purpose Arthur Treacher and Frances Williams of "Panama Hattie" will appear on Tuesday, Bobby Clark and Walter Hampden of "The Rivals" on Thursday, and the cast of "The Corn Is Green" on Friday.

Romantic News Has a Strongly Martial Flavor

BY JUDITH CASS.

AND still they pour in—engagements involving young Chicagoans, the masculine half of whom already are in the service or about to be called by the army, navy marines, or coast guard. Two of today's most interesting concern a Lake Forest girl, Marie Louise Hulburd, and a man from out of town, Ensign Eliot Wadsworth Dalton, and a Lake Forest man, G. Noyes McLennan, and a girl from out of town, Miss Margaretta FitzGerald Purves.

Mr. and Mrs. De Forest Hulburd did not give a party to announce their only daughter's betrothal to young Mr. Dalton, for he is now on active duty with the navy. Mr. McLennan also is in service, being an aviation cadet at a southern naval air base. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Roderick McLennan.

Miss Purves Is Daughter of Long Island Family.

Miss Purves is a daughter of George T. Purves of Lawrence, Long Island, N. Y., and a granddaughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Louis F. Benson of Philadelphia, Pa., and of the late Rev. and Mrs. George T. Purves of Princeton, N. J. She was graduated from Milton academy and made her debut two years ago.

Noyes McLennan was graduated from Yale university last June after preparing for college at the Hotchkiss school. At present his parents are in Palm Beach, Fla., where they have been living in their winter home since the middle of January. Theirs is an especially patriotic family, with four of their six children in the service. Donald F. McLennan Jr. and John B. Morse, who is married to the former Margaret McLennan, are with the navy. Woodbury S. Ober and his wife, the former Jane McLennan, and their children are stationed at a tropical army post. The other two children are Mrs. Keith S. Brown [Katherine McLennan] and William Lillingstone McLennan, a student at Yale. At present Mrs. Brown is visiting her parents in Palm Beach and is expected at home on Friday.

Miss Hulburd on Staff at Red Cross Offices.

Miss Hulburd was graduated from Chatham hall and then attended Erskine Junior college in Boston. She made her debut in the summer of 1939. She spent a year taking a business course and now is one of the staff assistants at Red Cross headquarters. Mr. Dalton is the son of Mrs. Philip S. Dalton and the late Mr. Dalton of Boston and New York. He was graduated from Milton academy and Harvard university, class of 1936, where he was a member of the Hasty Pudding and Porcellian clubs. He was in business in Cleveland until 1940, when he enlisted in the navy. He was stationed in California until last September when he was transferred to the Midshipman Training school at Northwestern university, where he received his commission last January. Women in War Work . . . . By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

The 100 music clubs which compose the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs have embarked on an extensive war victory program, report Mrs. Royden J. Keith, state president, and Mrs. James Allen Young, state defense chairman.

Mrs. Royden J. Keith.

"We are trying to serve thru music," Mrs. Keith said. "Mrs. Vincent Ober, our immediate past national president and now defense chairman, conferred with Washington officials and proposed that the music clubs provide phonographs and radios for all the camps, naval stations, and recreation centers. We have been accepting donations here and also are raising money to supplement this supply."

Mrs. Chloe Wright, 1st district defense chairman, is in charge of a musical program which will be presented March 29 in the La Salle hotel for the benefit of the defense fund. The clubs also are collecting band instruments, which are in demand at the camps, records not more than five years old and in good condition, and sheet music. In addition, members plan to volunteer their services for musical programs at the camps.

Mrs. Keith is coöperating with Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, chairman of the Chicago and Cook county committee on women's organizations for the defense savings staff, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, co-chairman of the committee on women's organizations for the Illinois State Council of Defense.

Still another project undertaken by the state music clubs is the salvaging of old, scratched and broken records, Mrs. Keith said. Most of the ingredients needed to make records come from India and therefore will be scarce, a representative of Lyon & Healy reports. But old records can be melted and reused. The music house is accepting records which are sold to RCA for 6 cents a pound in 100 pound lots. The money is turned over to local war relief by Lyon & Healy. Usually eight records make a pound.

Mrs. Charlotte Cole Cooper, research sociological consultant, will speak on "Mental Health Problems in War Times" at the weekly assembly at 4:30 o'clock today in the Froebel Pestalozzi school, 410 South Michigan avenue. Miss Kathleen Power, dean of students, arranged for the program.

Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel has been appointed chairman of the volunteer nurse's aide corps to succeed Mrs. Irene Sidley, who has resigned, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, has announced. Mrs. Spiegel was formerly chairman of the Red Cross volunteer hospital service committee.

She has been active with several hospital and nursing groups. Her record includes 14 years as chairman of the woman's board of Michael Reese hospital, where she is now a board member; membership on the national joint committee on Community Nursing service, and vice chairman of the Central Council of Nursing Education.

Mrs. Sidley joined the Chicago chapter in 1935 and organized its Gray Lady hospital and recreation service. Working six days a week as a volunteer, she brought 450 women into the service. When the office of civilian defense asked the Red Cross to set up the nurse's aide corps, Mrs. Sidley was selected to head this service in Chicago.

Women physicians will be invited to affiliate with the Medical and Surgical Relief Committee of America, according to a recent decision of the executive board at a meeting in the New York Academy of Medicine in New York. The committee provides emergency medical field sets for hospitals and first aid posts in America and allied nations.

Dr. Carroll L. Birch, president of Branch 2 of the American Medical Women's association, composed of 150 physicians in the Chicago area, reports that the branch is already working in this field of activity, but would be interested in enlarging its work. Branch 2 is coördinating its defense work with the activities in the Women's and Children's hospital, which is staffed by women physicians.

The two groups have set up an emergency medical field unit which is on call 24 hours a day, are conducting first aid classes for physicians, nurses and lay groups and have typed the blood of the personnel and auxiliary members. Miss Edna True is in charge of a civilian defense office in the hospital, 1600 Maypole avenue.

A committee from Bundles for Bluejackets will meet for luncheon today in the Pump room of the Ambassador East hotel to make plans for a showing of Adrian's creations at a benefit tea on March 18. Mrs. John P. Cohane, chairman of Bundles for Bluejackets, 337 North Michigan avenue, is in charge of arrangements, and Mrs. George F. Henneberry is ticket chairman.

Thomas Taken to Task for His Stolid Singing

BY CECIL SMITH.

When illness forced Lawrence Tibbett to cancel on short notice his recital scheduled for yesterday afternoon in the History and Enjoyment of Music series, the management was momentarily filled with consternation. By a stroke of luck, however, John Charles Thomas, a baritone of equal rank and popularity, was found to have an open date. Upon the promise that he could begin his recital a few minutes early, in order to catch a train for the east, he agreed to pinch hit for Mr. Tibbett.

Under these special circumstances it may be ungracious to report that the recital offered very slender rewards indeed; and, anyway, the audience welcomed Mr. Thomas eagerly and bestowed many tokens of approbation upon him during the course of the afternoon, so that I am obviously presenting a minority opinion.

At some time in his student career Mr. Thomas really learned to sing. Real singers, whose voices are schooled to uniform smoothness and ease of production, are so rare in these days of quick preparation and commercial promotion that Mr. Thomas' beautiful and natural tone is in itself a great source of pleasure. He has also learned to create a flowing legato line of melody, and his diction, especially in English, is phenomenally clear.

These praiseworthy qualities may all be noted in the first 5 or 10 minutes of one of Mr. Thomas' recitals. After these first few minutes, unfortunately, there is almost nothing new or compelling to hold the attention or to fire the imagination. He sings all lyric songs exactly alike, with a kind of rapt dolefulness and a tendency to retard at the end of each phrase. He feels no essential musical difference between a 17th century air by Marcantonio Cesti and a bit of contemporary sentimentality by Eleanor Remick Warren.

The greatest essential shortcoming in Mr. Thomas' singing is his inability to achieve more than the most infinitesimal changes in vocal color. When a song becomes dramatic, or when it contains elements of characterization, he is likely to shift to a kind of talking, in which an extremely corny elocutionary manner robs his performance of the outward aspect of sincerity. And furthermore, he is much too quick to give up all attempt to express himself musically, in the hope of achieving superficial showmanship.

I have often wondered where Mr. Thomas will find himself when his voice loses thruout its entire range the warmth it seemed yesterday to be losing in the upper register. Perhaps it is not too late for him to inquire into the purely musical reasons for the continuing success past middle age of such singers as Friedrich Schorr and Giovanni Martinelli.

Young Girl with a Horn.

Many a person has had a severe jolt at concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra this season when, listening idly or intently to the music, he has seen what appears to be a girl playing a French horn back in the wind section. He usually peers quickly and then sinks back in relief. Not a girl at all. Just a long haired musician, one with glasses and curly blond hair badly in need of cutting. Anyway, who ever heard of a girl playing horn with a major symphony?

He is wrong. A girl does. Her name is Helen Kotas, and she is young [25] for the job she holds. It's the last job she ever expected, for she studied to be a psychologist, but there she is, wearing a long black crêpe dinner dress, a touch of white at the throat, for afternoon concerts, long black velvet at night. "My legs," she says in explanation, "might be too conspicuous."

A harp is the instrument generally allotted to women in symphonies. Fragile, clinging, pluck-pluck-pluck. The New York Philharmonic and the Cleveland Symphony both have lady harpists. The Philadelphia Symphony has a lady cellist and a lady violinist as well. The Boston Symphony has no lady players at all. This leaves Miss Kotas clear title to being the only lady wind player in the orchestral big five. Not only that, but she is first horn, or soloist, with the Chicago group, which, we are told, is a pretty important thing in an orchestra which also contains 90 or so men.

Miss Kotas fell into Dr. Stock's graces by what she modestly terms an accident. She began playing with the Women's Symphony here in 1932 and more or less horned her way thru the University of Chicago. For two years she toured South America and the United States as the only girl hornist with Stokowski's All-American Youth orchestra, and a year ago began to fill in whenever Dr. Stock needed six horns rather than his customary five. Now she is the regular soloist.

The French horn is no puny instrument. Aside from being extremely difficult to play, it looks like a winding brass snail shell from the Stone age and weighs about eight pounds. As far as Miss Kotas' sex goes, it seems to have had only one effect on her horn. The interior of the bell is lined with five or six inch scratches from her diamond ring. She now wears the diamond turned in, as it sets up vibrations against the brass, but it still manages to scratch. And as for the horn's effect on Miss Kotas, it has kept lipstick from ever brightening her lips. She uses mentholatum. Lips, it seems, are a hornist's greatest asset, for mastery of its four octave capacity depends more on lip control than on lung power, and chapped lips are anathema. The horn also upsets her private life in that, living in an apartment hotel, she has to lug the instrument downtown to practice.

Miss Kotas, 5 feet 6, slender and a trifle stooped from her decade at the horn, told us all this as she sat crouched beside her two long black dresses and shining horn in her private dressing room, a cubicle 4 by 4, in the dark basement of Orchestra hall. She sat there cool and detached after an exhausting two hour rehearsal of the orchestra with Claudo Arrau, the Brazilian pianist. Rather timidly we asked whether the French horn was ever used in popular music, and she said, well, she had heard it in a recording of Frenesi and once the late Hal Kemp had an idea to use four horns to augment his band on a radio program. She lugged her horn up to the Drake to audition for it, but the program never materialized. The dancing public, she observed with analytical sorrow, seems to prefer the lowly trombone.

Personally her favorite piece is Siegfried's horn call from the Rhine Journey. She thinks it the greatest horn call of all time and plays it as she thinks a real Siegfried would have. "Most people," she explained, "play it in a slow movement, but I always think of Siegfried as a young person and play it with that in mind."

"With ardor, would you say?"

"Yes, with ardor."

DAR to Meet Here; Capital Is Too Crowded

Washington, D. C., March 8 [Special].—The Daughters of the American Revolution have moved their 51st continental congress from Washington to Chicago, it was announced tonight. The congress, which will be held during the week of April 12-19, will be the first outside Washington.

In making this announcement, which will affect 2,500 chapters and 4,000 delegates to the congress, Mrs. William H. Pouch, president general of the national society, said that the change was due to war conditions and congestion in the capital, and that Chicago has been chosen as the most convenient alternative. Headquarters in Chicago will be at the Hotel Stevens.

The program of the congress will deal with the society's coöperation in the war—its program for national defense, civilian defense, and sale of defense bonds and stamps, as well as many other activities.

National Jewish Hospital Group to Meet Tomorrow

There will be a meeting of the Chicago women's division of the National Jewish hospital at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow in the Standard club, with Mrs. Goodman Bakowen presiding. The group has a drive under way to raise money for the hospital, a nonsectarian institution for the free care of tubercular poor, in Denver, Colo. Directing this fund endeavor is Mrs. Jack Diamond. All persons interested in the work of the hospital are invited to the meeting. A program is planned, including a review of Joseph E. Davies' "Mission to Moscow," by Florence Bourke Ellis.

SYNOPSIS.

Exhausted, his saddle horse as well as his pack horse lost, Dave Wallace escapes death in the desert when a stage picks him up and takes him into Vermillion. On the same stage is Beth Hilliard returning home after two years' absence. She owns most of the Dun River Cattle company which she inherited from her father, Jess Grove owns some of it. Dave makes his entry into Vermillion by knocking down Ed Seegrist, one of the Hilliard hands, and accusing him of directing Dave to waterless tanks in the desert, because Dave inquired about the death of his friend, Tip Macy, whom Ed claimed died in a blizzard. Arnie Chance furnishes an alibi for Ed, and Sheriff Sam Kinsley scoffs at Dave's story and orders him to leave town. Dave decides to talk to Martha, Tip's widow, first, and finds she left Vermillion that day. Jess informs Beth that the hard winter killed most of their cattle and that she is now almost penniless. Encountering Beth, Dave voices suspicion of Jess, but Beth resents it. Dave boards the stage to leave town but makes up his mind he is not going to cross the desert.

INSTALMENT VII.

HOLDUP.

Dave thought of Beth Hilliard, and oddly, he remembered her hair. It was a chestnut color, like the color of the true chestnut horse, and there was a streak of lighter hair thru it. It started on the right side of her forehead and lay silvery and plain for a man to see in a certain light, as he had seen it on the gallery last night.

He knew surely that Beth Hilliard had never questioned how Tip Macy had died, would not think it strange that Martha Macy had been put on the stage for Hilliard after he arrived. He had one more question.

"Hilliard? Haven't I heard of a town named that?"

"It's back in the mountains," the driver said. "It was named for Joe Hilliard. It's headquarters for Chevron, for the company."

Afterwards, Dave was patient. He studied the stage teams now, noting the quality of each horse, finally settling his favor on a short-coupled black who was the off leader. He smoked two cigarets and looked indifferently at the desert, which he did not like.

Presently, judging it was time, his glance fell to the shotgun, its butt in the boot, its barrel leaning against the driver's leg. Reaching over for it, he lifted it by the barrel and flung it overboard. Before the surprise was fully in the driver's face, Dave pulled his own gun and held it loosely on his lap in his right hand.

The driver started to pull up and Dave said, "Go on a ways."

The driver kept looking at Dave's gun, and once he looked up and said, "The only money I got is what Arnie Chance give me."

"Pull up," Dave said.

The stage came to a stop, and the driver kicked the brake on.

"Get down," Dave ordered.

Surlily, a little frightened, too, the driver swung down. Dave climbed back, threw his saddle and bridle down to the driver, and then said, "Cut out that black in the lead and put my saddle on him."

At that moment, the stage door opened and the drummer put his foot out on the step and looked up, squinting at Dave.

Dave leveled his gun at the man and said, "Get back in there and stay there."

The drummer vanished like a trapdoor spider and Dave hunkered comfortably down on the stage top.

"Take your time," he drawled to the driver. "I got all day, and so have you."

The first edge had been worn off the stage horses, so that the black submitted docilely but curiously to the saddling. Dave could tell from the way the horse acted that it had been ridden before, but only barely.

When the driver was finished, Dave ordered him to cut out the other lead horse, tie him to the rear boot and stow the harness.

"Get going," he said. "Don't turn back for your guns. I'll be on the road, so I'll know."

He stood there until the driver had whipped his four horses into motion again, and was a good way off.

Slipping his rifle into the saddle scabbard, he tightened his small belt, lifted his six gun from its holster and rammed it tightly in the waistband of his pants, and then put a foot in the stirrup. This was a strange horse, a half broken horse, and Dave was careful.

His next move was a lightning fast attempt to get leg over and a foot in the off stirrup, at which he only partially succeeded. The half broken black was alert enough to come uncocked immediately, and for a long minute he tried desperately to unseat Dave. Presently, he gave up, Dave reined him around, checking a small nosebleed with his free hand, and put him into a walk.

He was headed for the Dun river range, which sloped brown and green-black up to the snowy reaches of the peaks.

* *

Old Ives dropped down into Hilliard about 9 this night, and when his mare crossed the rough bridge that spanned the Little Dun, she seemed to step softly, as if she had learned to copy old Ives' quiet ways. The town itself lay on the flat in the bend of the river, and hardly deserved to be called a town. Planted as it was in the widened cleft of a deep canyon in the timbered reaches of the Dun river range, it could boast of a bare dozen buildings fronting each other across a narrow, rutted street.

The buildings one side of the street were backed against the slope, and when a boulder broke loose from the rimrock above, as it occasionally did, it came to rest in the back rooms of these buildings. The buildings south of the street teetered in the edge of the river, and from this direction a man had to go thru the whole town to reach the stable and corral, built on the widest spot in town.

Privately, old Ives considered the rain-and-sun-bleached frame buildings of Hilliard a tick on the fair body of the mountain range he loved, and only necessity drew him here tonight.

On horseback, a man's head was just level with the porch of the hotel, the first building after you crossed the bridge. Ives didn't look at it, the thought of having to sleep in one of its beds already making him uncomfortable.

He passed the Olympus saloon further down on the river side of the street, and without having to look knew the brands of most of the ponies tied there, and among them would be Chevron. This was Chevron's town, founded by Joe Hilliard who, like Ives himself, so hated the desert that he couldn't abide Vermillion.

He was an old man, small, wiry, and he moved down the rutted street as noiseless as smoke, his moccasins barely whispering as he moved. In front of the Olympus, he paused among the horses tied there, stroking them absently, looking past the lower half of the windows, which were painted an opaque and peeling white, into the saloon.

The horses muzzled at his tattered pants and buckskin shirt, both of which smelled of woodsmoke, and old Ives spoke to them affectionately, while he had his look. There was a spring chill in the night's air, but Ives' shirt was open. He wore no hat, and the hair shearing which he bought once a year in the spring was only weeks old. The long clean lines of his skull were not yet hidden by the quarter-inch fuzz of pepper and salt hair that was as stiff and thick as a wire brush.

Having had his look, he snorted softly, ducked under the hitch racks and shouldered thru the doors of the Olympus. The saloon was a medium sized room well lighted by three overhead kerosene lamps. A big barrel stove, its pipe shafting straight to the ceiling, stood in its sanded box halfway down the room. The rear half of the saloon held three big tables flanked with heavy chairs, and the walls there were lined with the pictures cut from distillery calendars so old some of them were brown and curling.

The smell of tobacco smoke and beer slops and whisky affronted old Ives' nostrils as he walked up to the bar on the right.

It was a puncher playing poker at one of the rear tables who first saw Ives and whooped, "Here's the wolfer!"

There were perhaps a dozen men in the saloon, and every one of them called a greeting to Ives, grinning with pleasure and winking at each other.

Old Ives moved down the bar, shaking hands ceremoniously with three of the Hilliard crew, two of them Ed Seegrist and Pete Framm, and then moved back to the tables, where the games were abandoned to greet him.

"I never been holed up," Ives said scornfully, and added with full sarcasm, "Not like some I know." To the bartender, he called carelessly, "Set up the house."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	(final bid)

West was somewhat up against it for a good opening lead and, despite the fact that diamonds had been bid over him, doggedly opened his fourth highest card in that suit. After surveying the dummy, declarer boldly let this ride to his own 10. He realized, of course, that he was running the risk of never reaching dummy again, and that the ace and king of diamonds might "go to sleep." Nevertheless, declarer was quite correct in playing as he did. There was a three to one chance that either the heart king of the club ace was in West's hand, so that the jack of the corresponding suit would be an entry to dummy. When the diamond 10 held, declarer led a low club toward the jack; East correctly ducked, and the jack held. The ace and king of diamonds were cashed, declarer discarding a low spade and a low heart, and then West was thrown on lead with the fourth diamond, declarer discarding another spade.

West, after taking the diamond queen, was again up against it for a good return. A spade lead was patently out of the question, and West did not like to lead from his A 10 8 of clubs since he felt that by holding on to those cards he might be able to take two club tricks instead of one. Hence he shifted to the low heart. Dummy's jack was put up and East had to cover or permit the play to stay in dummy, where there were two good diamonds. South took the heart king with the ace, cashed the queen, and again exited by leading the nine spot. Poor West found himself back on lead! Now he was faced with a Hobson's choice of returning a spade or a club. Hoping that declarer had only king-queen of clubs blank at this point, West laid down the ace, but, of course, by so doing established declarer's king and queen. A spade lead from the king would have been equally acceptable to the declarer, who now could count nine sure tricks.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

of this world—at least the present world of sound and fury. In these unusually simple and barely perceptible forms we see the timidity of a supersensitive person.

In the way the letters are disconnected we have the evidence of highly developed intuition. Inspiration is strong but the impression the personality can make is nebulous and indefinite. The inner man is more important than the objective man so we have an impression of this subjective man.

Physical vigor is missing, but I have noticed in some cases, where the subjective impression is uppermost, that this does not mean the writer could not be the physical type. Very often he is, as if to confuse the issue. The real man is hard to know. His music must be the clew for thru artistic expression this personality takes on color and form.

Speaker to Explain Plans for Calendar Reform at Meeting

Miss Elizabeth Achelis, president of the World Calendar association, will speak at 10:45 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Chicago Woman's club before members and guests from educational, scientific, professional, and business organizations. Her talk, "A New Calendar for a New World," will be explanatory of the plan for a world calendar that would divide the year of 12 months into equal quarters of 91 days each with a set month pattern. Under the plan, the days of each month would fall on identical dates in succeeding years, and there would be more Monday holidays with long week-ends. Forty-one countries have indorsed the calendar plan and many more have sent official representatives to conferences called to study it.

Custard is one of the most wholesome of desserts because of its high egg and milk content. You'd have to look a long time to find a better dish for children. Custards don't require a lot of sugar, either, and may be made with a sirup as sweetener, an advantage in the face of sugar rationing.

Custards are of two types, soft and baked. The soft custard is stirred in the top of a double boiler and may be used as a dessert by itself, or as a dessert sauce. The double boiler custard also is an excellent base for ice creams and many of the refrigerator desserts which we like to make.

The baked custard is prepared in the oven, without stirring. There are numerous variations in its flavor, but the perfect baked custard has fine, even texture, is smooth and quivery when turned out, and never, never does it "weep."

A weepy custard is one which has been cooked too long or at too high a temperature. Perfect results are obtainable only when we are gentle about cooking that egg protein, for it is very sensitive to heat. The water in a double boiler beneath a soft custard should be simmering, not rapidly boiling. And an oven custard should be placed in a pan of water for protection. Oven temperature should not be allowed to rise above 325 degrees, as a rule.

Soft Custard.
[Serves four.]

2 eggs or 4 yolks
2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons white or brown sugar, or honey
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs slightly. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Add sugar and salt to eggs. Add hot milk, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler. Cook and stir constantly over hot, not boiling, water, until a clean spoon dipped into the custard will come out with a thin coating. Cool quickly and add flavoring. Serve alone as dessert or as a sauce for pudding, fresh fruit, or cake.

Baked Custard.
[Serves five or six.]

4 egg yolks or 2 whole eggs
1½ cups evaporated milk
½ cup water
¼ cup honey
¼ teaspoon salt

Beat eggs slightly with a fork. Add other ingredients and stir enough to blend. Rinse custard cups in cold water and fill two-thirds full of the custard mixture. Place in a pan of water and bake at 325 degrees. Test for doneness after 35 minutes by inserting a silver knife into the middle of one of the custards. If it comes out clean, the custards are done. If some custard clings to the knife, bake a few minutes longer.

Maple sirup, instead of honey, gives interesting flavor to this custard. Firmly packed brown sugar, the same measurement, may be used.

Lake View Musical Group to Hear Concert at Club

The Lake View Musical society will hear Harriet O'Rourke, soprano; Margaret Jean Cree, cellist, and Helen Levine, pianist, at its concert at 2 o'clock today at the Arts club. Pouring at tea after the program will be Mrs. Millicent C. Cooke, Mrs. William B. Snowhook, Mrs. Frederic Tellander, and Mrs. Gardner H. Watkins.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE.

A simple dessert with a new flavor wins today's $5 prize in Mary Meade's Recipe Contest. Mrs. Harriet G. Hurst, 406 East Washington street, Bloomington, Ill., who submitted the recipe, folds whipped cream into the pudding, but it may be omitted for family meals.

Ginger Tapioca Cream.
[Serves six.]

2 cups milk
3 strips of orange peel or 1 teaspoon grated rind
¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca
¼ cup orange juice
3 tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger
1½ tablespoons sirup from ginger
⅓ cup sugar
1 egg, separated
1 cup heavy cream, whipped with 2 tablespoons sugar [optional]

Scald milk with orange peel or rind [the peel should be cut paper thin, thru the orange colored part only]. Add tapioca and cook until thickened. Remove peel and add orange juice, ginger, sirup, and sugar. Pour small amount of mixture over slightly beaten egg yolk, stirring in well. Return to double boiler and cook 2 or 3 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Cool slightly and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill and fold half the sweetened whipped cream into tapioca, using remainder of cream as garnish. A few drops of vanilla may be added to the whipped cream used as topping and strips of candied ginger may be used as additional garnish.

Your favorite recipe may also win one of the daily $5 prizes in Mary Meade's contest. Submit any heirloom, family specialty, or original recipe, writing it up in standard form and giving complete, clear directions.

[Send in Your Favorite Recipe.]

Week-end visitors in Chicago were Miss Erminie Louise Sherman and Ralph Newberry Gardner Jr., whose engagement recently was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman of Milwaukee. Mr. Gardner, son of Ralph N. Gardner of East 48th street, is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Lobdell of Lake Shore drive, and a cousin of Sewall Gardner of Lake Forest.

Since her debut in 1936 at the University club of Milwaukee, Miss Sherman has been active in the Junior league, the Service club of Milwaukee and the Red Cross Motor corps. She was graduated from Milwaukee-Downer seminary and from the Katherine Gibbs school in Boston, Mass.

Young Mr. Gardner, whose mother is Mrs. Ruth Lobdell Boswell of Beverly Hills, Cal., was graduated from the Webb school in California and from Williams college. Since he is awaiting his call in the army, plans for a spring wedding are tentative.

Of interest in Chicago is an engagement announcement made in New York yesterday when Mrs. Patrick Welch made known that her daughter, Janet Raymer, is engaged to Wiley R. Reynolds Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds of Jackson, Mich., and Palm Beach. Miss Raymer, whose father, Paul H. Raymer, lives in Chicago and New York, is a graduate of Rosemary hall and now is a senior at Bennett Junior college. Mr. Reynolds, a graduate of the Hotchkiss school and Yale, class of 1940, is a lieutenant in the first air squadron of the Florida defense force.

At a luncheon on Saturday in the Pump room, Mrs. Norman J. Westerhold of Evanston announced the engagement of her daughter, Kathryn, to George Montgomery Shay, son of George Thomas Shay and the late Mrs. Frances Montgomery Shay of Highland Park. The luncheon ostensibly was given for Miss Kathryn's sister-in-law, Mrs. Westerhold Jr.

Miss Westerhold was graduated from the Emma Willard school and attended Northwestern university and the University of Arizona. Her fiancé, a graduate of Amherst college, is serving in the navy. The wedding is planned for June.

The marriage of Miss Cora Hendby Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Pratt, to Ensign George Forrest Gillett, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Noble Gillett of Kenilworth, took place yesterday in St. John's Episcopal church in Far Rockaway, N. Y. Mrs. Richard W. McLaren, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Thomas Gillett was best man for his brother. The bride is an alumna of La Salle Junior college and her husband was graduated from Amherst college.

Lighthouse for the Blind Abandons Charity Party.

The woman's board of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind is dispensing with its annual charity party this year and instead is sending out a plea for money in a brief letter. "Glasses will not help, but your dollars will" reads a slogan on the flap of the envelope in which the board hopes to receive contributions.

"Altho we are at war, we cannot neglect those unfortunates here at home who are dependent on our help," begins the letter, which is signed by the president of the board, Mrs. Paul M. Godehn. Some of the officers and directors of the Lighthouse, which has maintained an industrial school for the adult blind since 1910, are Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, Mrs. Harold E. Foreman, Mrs. Theodore S. Gary, Mrs. John D. Pollack, Mrs. Arthur G. Leonard Jr., and Mrs. John E. Baker Jr. Lighthouse parties in the past have been among the gayest dances of each season.

Mr. and Mrs. Jere Patterson have named their first child, born on Friday at St. Joseph's hospital, Bettina Baird, a diminutive of her mother's and grandmother's names. Young Mrs. Patterson is the former Betty Muggleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dean Muggleton of Appleton, Wis. Little Bettina, a great-daughter of Mrs. Wayne Wills, has a young cousin, Ralph Applegate Jr., who was born in January.

A daughter was born yesterday to Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Van Alyea at Henrotin hospital. Mrs. Van Alyea was formerly Betty Cameron, the daughter of Mrs. Winfield H. Cameron.

Wesley Service Club to Give Card Party.

The Wesley Service club has selected April 22 as the date of its annual card party. The benefit will be held at the Drake hotel, and the proceeds will go toward furnishings for the children's department at the new Wesley Memorial hospital. The club is giving a tea for the new doctors on the staff, their wives, and new members of the club, next Wednesday afternoon in the solarium of the hospital.

For their annual spring benefit, members of the board of Christopher house have decided to have Burton Holmes, travel lecturer, show pictures of the Dutch East Indies on the night of April 6 in Northwestern university's Scott hall. Among those on the committee are Mrs. Charles Hardin, Mrs. Daniel Stormont, Mrs. Horace Dawson, Mrs. J. H. Sheldon Lee Jr., Mrs. Clyde Horn, and Mrs. Thomas G. Murdough. William A. Marriott is president of the board, which raises money for the Presbyterian settlement.

The Evanston Junior league will elect officers at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today in the Georgian hotel, Evanston.

His subject will be "The World After the War." Four members of the choir at his temple will accompany Rabbi Shulman to sing liturgical Hebrew music.

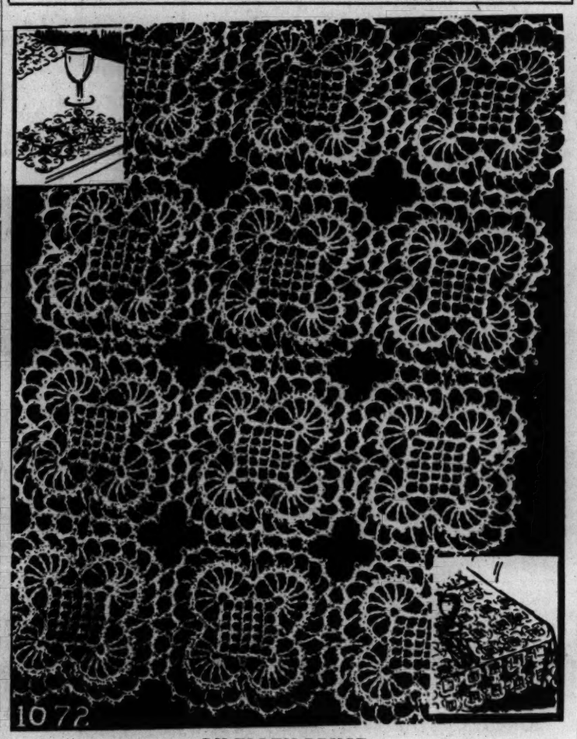
Loop and Cluster Design



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Original designs are intriguing to every crochet worker interested in the new and novel. This combined loop and cluster medallion, which is used for a luncheon doily, is such a one, and the results are most effective. The stitches are simple and one motif may be made in about 10 minutes.

For instructions in crocheting the loop and cluster design, No. 1072, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

* THRU THE LOOKING GLASS *

Even the best disciplined of us succumb to the temptation occasionally to stay up later than we should or to read far into the night. Next morning it's the weary eyes that give us away; we can conceal the weariness in our bones, but when eyes are tired they protest the treatment by looking dull and heavy lidded.

The quickest way we know of to pep them up a little, at least temporarily, is to give them alternate baths in warm and cold water. Use an eyecup. Make the first eye bath a warm one, the next a cold one and keep on alternating until they've had six little baths, three warm and three cold. Then use your favorite eye lotion or brightener. You'll be pleasantly surprised at how much brighter they'll look and how more relaxed they'll feel. It will even be easier to keep the lids from drooping!

We don't believe for one moment in any substitute for professional attention if you have even the slightest suspicion that your sight is not what it used to be. Few follies of vanity are as harmful as the fear of glasses. You're going to need those eyes for the rest of your life and to deny them good health for vanity's sweet sake is frightfully foolish. If glasses will relieve the strain and lengthen the years of eye service, by all means wear them—and don't wait until the threat of impaired vision is an actuality.

But strong eyes as well as weak ones deserve intelligent care on your part. After a dusty day give them a little cleansing treatment. If you must spend hours reading or writing, give them a rest by pausing to gaze into space occasionally. Don't focus them on anything; look at a blank wall or at a serene sky. Five or ten minutes of complete relaxation for them will ease the strain considerably.

1st Byzantine Rite Ordination in City Held for 5 Priests

The Most Rev. Constantin Bohachevsky, of Philadelphia, Pa., yesterday ordained five Basilian deacons to the Catholic priesthood of Byzantine rite, at St. Nicholas Ukrainian Greek Catholic church, Rice street and Oakley boulevard. The Byzantine ordination rite with its liturgy of St. John Chrysostom sung to Peter I. Tchaikovsky's musical setting by the bishop and the St. Nicholas choir, together with the brilliant vestments of the clergy, combined to make one of the most impressive ecclesiastical occasions of the city. It was the first Byzantine Catholic ordination ever held in Chicago.

The ordinands were the Revs. Marion Horishny, Peter Hewko, Boniface Sloboda, Bernard Dridnenky, and Polycrap Nativiy. They are all from the Basilian house at Mundare, Alberta, Canada. Assisting Bishop Bohachevsky were the Very Rev. Benjamin Baranyk, O.S.B.M., provincial of the Basilian fathers of the United States, the Very Rev. Ambrose Senyshyn, O.S.B.M., superior of the Chicago house, and the Rev. Basserion Andreychuk, O.S.B.M., of St. Nicholas church.

'Dead End Kids' Again Reveal Hearts of Gold

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The "Dead End Kids" come galloping up to reinforce Humphrey Bogart on the Garrick screen. . . . In other words, "Mr. Wise Guy" is the second feature of the Garrick's double feature program.

It's an interesting little variation of the basic "Dead End Kids" recipe. . . . The boys, as usual, are smart alecky, but pure gold at heart, and in this number they go all out to the rescue of the brother of Muggs, who, just as he's about to enter the army, is turned in for a murder committed by somebody else. . . . Of course, the kids—with some assistance—land the real villain. [Quite a surprise to find these last impersonated by Guinn Williams, Warren Hymer, and Billy Gilbert, who usually play comedy rôles. . . . Billy, you know, is the screen's champion sneezer.]

The action moves along at a lively clip, handing out quite a few laughs, by the way. . . . The kids are as ever. . . . Jack Mulhall, in a better rôle than he's had for some time, proves a credit to the casting director. . . . Joan Barclay—who reminds one of Billy Dove, is charming as the girl who loves the accused man, and Ann Doran, as a moll, looks and acts—mollish. . . . Other rôles are handled capably, and direction, sets, and the rest, click.

Easter Seal Sale for Aid of Crippled Will Open Tomorrow

The annual Easter Seal campaign conducted by the Illinois Association for the Crippled will open tomorrow and will continue until April 5. Rehabilitation of the adult seeking work in vital industries will be the main object of the association this year, as its contribution to the national war effort.

Proceeds of the seal sale will be used to carry on the present work of establishing centers for diagnostic treatment of children afflicted with spastic paralysis, preparation of a directory of all services available, and maintenance of the new craft mart at 40 East Oak street.

Workshops maintained by the association are the Good Shephard Community Center, Occupational Therapy Workshop of the Women's club and the Chicago Craft Mart. The Illinois Association is part of a national organization and the seals are sold in 40 states. George H. Williamson is state chairman.

Engagement

Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Parker Bogue of Poultney, Vt., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Ben Hoover, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Hoover of Chicago. Miss Bogue attended Northwestern university and was graduated from DePauw university. After attending the Theodora Irvine School of the Theater in New York, she joined the faculty at Green Mountain Junior college, of which her father is president.

Private Hoover was graduated from Cornell university and from the Theodora Irvine school. At present he is enrolled in an officers' training school for the marine corps. His father is pastor of Christ church here. The wedding is planned for the latter part of April.

On the House

To save the home owner space and money, and to conserve vital metals for victory use there is a new radiator on the market which requires no metal back and may be fitted more tightly to wall than any of the conventional types. . . . Because of construction and method of installation the radiator measures only 3½ inches from the wall to its face, and extends very little beyond window sill. . . . Another type extends only 5 inches from the wall to face of unit. . . . No extra cost, either, to these units which made their debut in defense housing installations in the $6,000 price range.

Looking at Hollywood

—By John Chapman—

Hollywood, Cal., March 8. Sunday—Out of the notebook: Gregory Ratoff has bought S. J. and Laura Perelman's "Winter Garden" and will make a musical out of it, with Cole Porter tunes and acting by William Gaxton and Jack Oakie. . . . Paramount has finally made it official by signing Gary Cooper to do the Jordan rôle—in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." Everybody knew it would happen all along, but the months of suspense were long. . . . The start of Ginger Rogers' "The Major and the Minor" is this: Ginger wants to go some place but hasn't enough money, so she gets herself up as a little girl and goes half-fare on a train.

Monday—In the evening to see Charlie Chaplin's reissue of "The Gold Rush" at Westwood Village. All we Chaplin fans are becoming graybeards, even tho we're still in the draft, and our opinions are colored by sentiment and reminiscence. When we say "The Gold Rush" is still a funny picture we do it a disservice by using the word "still." It's like telling your 90 year old great-aunt how young she looks. "The Gold Rush" is a funny picture and there's nothing old about it. I take with me as a seat companion a studio publicity man who has not the remotest connection with Chaplin. Experienced and wise, he is a tough audience—and he is seeing "The Gold Rush" for the first time. He opines that it's one of the best pictures he has seen in a year.

Tuesday—To Edward Small's studio, where Shirley Temple is making "Miss Annie Rooney." She's the jive-talking, jitterbug daughter of Bill Gargan—and pretty swell. Actors rarely talk about Shirley as a child; they talk about her as a fellow player, and it's a rare compliment in any kind of show business to be regarded, as she is, as an expert. Shirley will be 14 next month, and my bet is that she will be hot stuff in the movies 20 years from now, because she knows the trade. . . . From the "Rooney" stage I go to the still gallery, where two more experts are spending the day all contracts require before the 8x10 portrait camera. They are Charles Ruggles and Charles Winningar, and they are doing stills for the recently completed "Friendly Enemies."

Wednesday—Last night we went to a preview of the MacDonald-Eddy "I Married an Angel." Somewhere most of the zip the Broadway musical had has disappeared, and now it just looks plush—expensive and dull. Entertainment is a fragile creature which can be weighted down by dollars. More than once I have thought that the dollars Hollywood spends on its musicals must be made of lead.

Thursday—To 20th Century-Fox, where Henry Fonda, Don Ameche, and Lynn Bari are working in "The Magnificent Jerk." Don is the supersalesman of a "success" school, and Henry is a complete failure and dope who is being used by the school as a guinea pig. Between shots, as I listen to Fonda, I think he must be miscast—for you never heard such a pep talk as he gives about his new tractor. It's a motorized, hand-steered thing he has for his small ranch; and you should hear him tell how it will plow furrows all by itself while he's just walking alongside talking to somebody.

Friday—To Universal, where Gregory La Cava has returned from the Arizona location he chose for "Lady in a Jam." The ghost town which was built outside Phoenix has been brought from there by truck and re-erected on a big stage. A cyclorama of Superstition mountain has been painted for a background, and the effect is astoundingly real. It's cheaper to put the finishing touches on the picture this way than it would have been to keep Irene Dunne, Pat Knowles and company on location a fortnight longer. And healthier. Most of the company caught flu in Arizona.

Saturday—Lunch with Rouben Mamoulian at the Beverly Derby—and Patterson McNutt, and A. E. Thomas call me to their table to give me a quiz. First, they ask me to name the authors of the Pulitzer prize plays of the last few years. This I can do. Then they ask me who wrote the Academy award movies for the same period. I'm stumped. Maybe you will be, too. Who did the screen plays of "Zola," "You Can't Take It with You," "Gone with the Wind," "Rebecca," and "How Green was My Valley?" A writer is still a minor character in Hollywood.

Son, Too, May Like to Know You Love Him

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

As children grow older they are likely to become very reserved in expressing their affection, either in words or in other ways. In many cases this reserve grows so that boys and girls don't always realize how much loved they are. And I am sure they miss it.

But what I want to open your eyes to today is this: That you shouldn't allow the brusque boy exterior to fool you into thinking your son doesn't care about these warm, visible evidences of your love.

Boys are different about it, but affection and approval mean as much to a son as they do to a daughter. Fathers as well as mothers, take notice! Many a son has grown up not suspecting that his father really loved him. That is not fiction, but fact. I've been told it by grown men. So show your feelings sometimes instead of being always so restrained, or thinking boys like it best that way, or taking it completely for granted that they know how much you approve of them and enjoy them, for often they don't know it at all!

Her husband and older daughter being away on a trip, a mother was at home with her son of 18. She was in bed getting over a slight illness, not sick enough to need any one around, but feeling a little weak and a little forlorn at the thought of her boy being out for the third evening in succession, and no one else home. He was at the age when a week-end evening at home was considered a total loss.

At about 7:30 he wandered into his mother's room. "Gosh, mom!" he said, "I'm not going out tonight. I need a lot of sleep." "O, I'm so glad," his mother burst out spontaneously. "I wouldn't have asked you to stay in, but I'm so glad you're not going out. It's so cozy to have you around the house in the evening when I don't feel so very cozy," she said, and settled herself back in her pillows with a contented sigh. A light came into his face at that, but all he said was, "Is it, mom? Why the heck didn't you say so? I'd have stayed in," and for the two succeeding nights he stuck around, talked, played the radio, and read.

THE Kitchen Kibitzer

BY MARIAN CARTER

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

Look for food with a crust when you see "au gratin" on the menu. The topping usually consists of cheese or fine crumbs or both.

Perplexed about the lack of chocolate in your pantry for that batter you've started to mix? There's no harm in substituting cocoa (¼ cup for 1 ounce chocolate) if a teaspoon of shortening is added to the recipe.

* * *

Scramble your breakfast eggs in the top of the double boiler if you like them fluffy and moist—and that's the way they should be!

* * *

Honey is likely to crystallize if it's kept in too cool a place, but if the damage is already done, set the jar in a pan of hot water to melt the honey.

* * *

Pale pink shrimps look more appetizing than ever when they're sauced and served in genuine seashells, which you can buy especially for this purpose.

* * *

Can't blame the kiddies for frowning at that peculiar looking beverage—it's curdled! Add a little cream or evaporated milk to fruit juice next time you're combining it with whole fresh milk. They'll drink it down in a hurry.

* * *

When butter is divided into ¼ pound sections, it isn't necessary to measure it for a recipe. A quarter of a pound is equal to ½ cup, etc.

* * *

That batter belongs in the mixing bowl, not spattered in your cook book! Get an oblong piece of glass to fit over the pages, bind it with colored tape, and there'll be no more ugly spots on your valuable recipes.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks last night conducted an interesting series of preparatory exercises for the forthcoming Stanley cup playoffs by defeating the Brooklyn Americans, 6 to 1, before a crowd of 12,883 in Chicago Stadium. The victory ended the Hawks' three game losing streak and resulted in the establishment of two individual records.

The Hawks will open their portion of the National Hockey league's Stanley cup series on the Stadium ice, on March 22, presumably against the third place Boston Bruins, on whom they gained a full game last evening, leaving them only a game and a half back of the Bostonians. The first game will be played here the 22d, regardless of whether the Chicagoans finish third or fourth. If the Hawks come here fourth, the second, and, if necessary, the third game of the series will be transacted in the Boston Garden on March 24 and 26. But, if the Hawks wind up third, the third game would be played here on the 26th.

Bill Thoms of the Hawks was the hero of one of the record setting feats. William's two assists on the fourth and fifth Chicago goals gave him a total of 45 points for the season, off 15 goals and 30 assists. This surpasses the former all-time Chicago mark for a season. That 44, made up of 22 goals and as many assists, was set by Boss Thompson himself, back in the 1937-38 season when he was a working hand.

The second new line for the record books was indited by Tommy Anderson of the Americans. Tommy was a party to the goal made by Hill, and that contribution gave him a season total of 36, thereby breaking the league record for one defense man, under the new rules, made by Eddie Shore of Boston. Up until the time he broke into the scoring, however, Anderson had spent most of his time in helping his partner, Pat Egan, bounce Hawk wings around and about the rink.

Anderson Forgets His Goalie.

Tommy and Pat particularly concentrated on jostling the Hawk freshmen, Alex Kaleta and Bill Mosienko, but Alexander and William not only gave as good as they got, but also picked up a goal apiece. Anderson and Egan were flexing their knees and elbows when they should have been protecting Goalie Charley Rayner, who suffered a recurrence of a groin injury at the end of the first period, with the result that the last 19 seconds of that session were carried over to the second period.

Mariucci touched off the Hawk scoring with a rifle shot between Rayner's skates in the sixth minute of the first period. With Ken Mosdell of the Americans in the jail house for high sticking Mariucci, Cooper fired a long shot at Rayner. The latter saved, but deflected it to Mosienko, who passed neatly to Red Hamill at the goal mouth and the red head tapped it home at 15:53.

No Shutout for Sammy.

Mush March and Max Bentley set up Kaleta's goal to make it 3 to 0 in the 13th minute of the second period, and then George Allen entered with a goal. After taking passes from W. Carse and Thoms, George sailed down or the left, using Mariucci as a decoy, and scored easily.

At the outset of the third period, Mosienko, playing his first game after a spell on the injury list, fired a long shot at Rayner, and before the latter could recover himself, Bill followed up for his goal. At 7:17, Hill ruined Lo Presti's hopes of a shutout by batting the puck over the prostrate Sammy, after the latter had halted no less than four previous tries.

An Old Record Holder Congratulates the New

Paul Thompson, manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, means it when he congratulates Bill Thoms, Hawk winger, who raised his point total for the season to 45 last night by making two assists in his team's 6 to 1 victory over Brooklyn's Americans in the Stadium. This broke the former all-time club record of 44 made by Thompson in 1938. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SLOVAKS DEFEAT LINNEAS, 8 TO 1, IN STATE SOCCER

BY OFFSIDE.

The Slovaks, semi-finalists in the Western Amateur Soccer cup tournament, yesterday defeated the Linneas, 8 to 1, to enter the semi-finals of the Illinois State tournament. The losing team, playing its first game of the spring season, was unable to keep up with the fast pace set by the Slovaks, who punched great holes in the Linnea defense on speed alone and then went thru the holes to score.

Smitty Tomecek and Pete Matevich bagged all individual scoring honors for the day. Tomecek crashed thru the Linnea goalie's defense four times and Matevich scored three times. The eighth goal was scored by Emil Tomecek—a 40 yard drive which caromed off Horace James' leg into the net for the first score of the contest. Lineups:

MISSOURI PAIR GETS 1,219; LEADS IN ABC DOUBLES

Columbus, O., March 8 (AP).—Bert Stanger and Ed Westbrook of St. Louis, took the doubles lead with 1,219 today in the American Bowling Congress tournament. Stanger had 624 and Westbrook 595.

A Cudahy, Wis., pair scored 1,191 for third place. They were Elmer Budzien, with 609, and Harold Breutzmann, with 582. Breutzmann's 681 also ranked him second in the singles. He put together scores of 247, 217, and 217.

Sox Coaching Quartet Looks Back on a Good Luck Record

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 8.—It may not help them to get a base hit in the pinch or a strikeout pitch with the bases crammed, but when you stop to think of it, the White Sox have quite a famous trio of coaches. They are guys who in their heyday performed feats recorded in the books reserved for world series data. And even James Dykes, the manager responsible for assembling Mule Haas, Muddy Ruel, and Bing Miller under the Comiskey house flag, can claim similar distinction. It is a matter of record that even Dykes has some world series hits to his credit.

First, we'll take up the case of Ruel because of seniority and possibly because, physically, he wasn't what a catcher is popularly supposed to be. Well, he was one of those who caught Walter Johnson, who was rated as able to heave a cannon ball thru armor plate. But to get back to the world series track. Muddy was in the 1924 affair with the Giants. That was the one the Giants would have won if a mere child, Freddy Lindstrom, hadn't been unfortunate enough to have a batted ball bounce off a pebble just as he was about to grab. It went for a two base hit and the championship went with it.

Thanks to Hank Gowdy.

There was nothing spectacular about Ruel's 1924 series activities until the seventh and final game. He didn't get a hit in the first six games. He broke the drought by singling, eventually getting around to the plate with the tying run. This developed following possibly the most dramatic incident in series history, barring Fred Snodgrass' dropping a fly ball which cost the Giants the world title in the post-season event with Boston in 1912 or Mickey Owen's failure to stop a third strike last fall.

After the Senators had tied up the seventh game of 1924, Walter Johnson, who previously hadn't been able to check the Giants, stepped forth for his final fling. This time the old boy succeeded in pinning 'em back. Came the 12th inning and the midget Ruel. Lady Luck was astride his bat. He hoisted an easy foul back of the plate and Hank Gowdy settled himself to make the catch. At the last second Hank stepped on his mask, teetered off balance, and lost the ball. That gave Ruel another swing. He promptly doubled down the left field line for his second hit.

Lady Luck then gave Johnson a hand. He survived on Travis Jackson's momentary juggling of a smash bounced to short by Johnson's bat. The luck ran on. Earl McNeely, a youngster who had been "hot" the last half of the season, sent a grounder to Lindstrom. The helpful pebble sent the ball hopping unexpectedly over Lindstrom's head for a double. Ruel sprinted home with the winning run and the series closed.

10 Runs in One Inning.

As for Haas, he has had lots of world series fun, most of it in 1929 when the Cubs succumbed to the Athletics. That was the series with the memorable 10 run seventh inning of the fourth game which made of no value an earlier 8 to 0 Cub lead. During the turbulent seventh Haas hit a fly ball into center. Hack Wilson raced to every spot except where he belonged. The sun got in his eyes. By the time he recovered his bearings, as well as the ball, Haas had followed two other Athletics across the plate. That made it 8 to 7 and the Macks kept on. And in the fifth game the Cubs were leading until the ninth. Haas belted a two run homer over the right field wall. Another run came a few minutes later and there was no more series for that year.

Miller also got into the 1929 frolic in a big way. During the turbulent 10 run inning, he got a double as the result of Wilson being blinded by the sun, and also reached base when hit by a pitched ball. But his K. O. blow was reserved for the fifth and final game. After Haas had tied it with his homer, Al Simmons doubled and Jim Foxx was passed. Miller doubled and there was no more world series for that year.

Boot and Spur Wins Agua Race; Some Chance Fifth

Agua Caliente, Mex., March 8 (AP).—Boot and Spur won by five lengths in the six furlong Carmel handicap today before 4,500 fans at the Agua Caliente race track. Clocked in 1:11 3-5, Boot and Spur finished ahead of Milk Route and first prize. Calumet farm's Some Chance, winner of the Belmont futurity last year and one of 1941's top money winners, trailed far behind in his first test as a 3 year old, finishing fifth.

CUBS GO SOCIAL FOR AN OLD PAL, ANDY LOTSHAW

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 8.—The Cubs were excused with a light routine workout today after having played a string of five intraclub games on successive days. It was just as well the comparative relaxation had been planned, for the Cub party turned out en masse last night for an aloha fiesta tendered Trainer Andy Lotshaw, only Cub who has been here each of the 21 years this has been the team's spring training base. The entire squad was a bit dance weary today.

It is improbable the Cubs will return here for the next few years, so the fiesta was an especially noteworthy social function of more than passing significance. In addition to being the guest of honor, Dr. Lotshaw was the master of ceremonies, aided by two microphones and a megaphone.

Andy Keeps 'Em Healthy.

The condition of the Cubs after two weeks of rigorous training enhanced the happiness of the evening for good old Andy. A trainer always gets the rap when arm and leg muscles are sore after the first few days of training. It is a little bit rarer process to give him credit when all players are in tiptop shape. But Andy always is happy when his squad is in good health. What he thinks of some of them as baseball artists is something else.

Three days of practice remain on the schedule here and Thursday the squad will make an effort to reach the mainland by means yet to be announced, but probably by the same water taxis by which they came over on Feb. 20. The hour of departure also is secret, but they must get into Wilmington harbor before dark.

The Cubs' A team will open its 31 game exhibition schedule Friday against the White Sox.

Once on the mainland it is likely Cub officials will begin thinking about a few releases and possibly a trade or two. The outfield department, for instance, is long on left handed hitters, what with Bill Nicholson, Dom Dallessandro, Charley Gilbert, and Phil Cavarretta, the four top candidates for five jobs, swinging that way.

Overstaffed with Lefties.

Lou Novikoff, Harry [Peanuts] Lowrey, Barney Olsen, and Frank Jelincich are right handed hitters, but none was with the team all last year and two of them won't be present long this year. But right handedness is an asset in the Cub outfield setup and a right hander from some other team might be added to the roster some time before the opening of the National league season.

The pitching candidates also include four left-handers, all of them pretty good. But no staff needs that many lefties. Vern Olsen undoubtedly will stick. Russ Meers may go into military service. Ken Raffensberger is popular, but will have to hustle to earn a spot and the same may be said of the less experienced Johnny Schmitz.

Devlin took the event, which was awarded on a form basis, with two leaps of 220 feet each while Tokle, representing the Norway Ski club, scored 217 and 223 feet.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE good neighbor policy didn't originate with the New Deal. . . . It had its inception in the fading days of President Cleveland's administration in 1896. . . . Football was the medium. . . . It centered on the University of Missouri's famous 'lost' gridiron team of 1896, which risked expulsion to introduce the new American game of football to old Mexico. . . . After its traditional contest with Kansas, Missouri invaded Texas for a game with the state university squad. . . . Without asking permission of the Missouri faculty the young athletes arranged a barnstorming trip thru Texas which included stops at San Antonio and Laredo. . . . At Laredo an enterprising railroad promoter induced the team to make a trip into Mexico. . . . It took only one look at tourist literature emphasizing the warmth and beauty of Mexico City to convince the football ambassadors that an extension of their southern trip was much more desirable than a return to Missouri's ice and snow. . . . A team from the University of Texas provided the opposition and the first game was played in Monterey. . . . The Tigers were too strong for the Texans and for the rest of the tour the two squads were combined and then divided into two teams to make more interesting competition. . . . Back home university authorities tried vainly to get in communication with their long overdue players. . . . Telephone calls were unanswered and telegrams were returned marked 'refused.' . . . Missouri's team was lost in the heart of Mexico. After two games in Mexico City, President Diaz sent a letter to Missouri university executives complimenting them on the caliber of men representing the school on the gridiron. . . . When the squad finally arrived in Columbia late in January the coach, F. M. Patterson, found himself unemployed and the players were suspended from the university. . . . Most of the athletes later were reinstated, but Missouri had a new coach in 1897.

Nine Cubs fired on one wild boar at Catalina the other day. . . . More than 50 shots were turned loose on the beast and only two took effect. . . . A Catalina wild pig is larger than a Jap. . . . Records prove it is difficult to hit a home run off a knuckle ball. . . . Ted Lyons, an expert on this subject, credits Pete Fox, who was with Detroit at the time, with hitting the longest he has seen. . . . Fox planted a Lyons' knuckler in the extreme end of the left field wing in Comiskey park. . . . Phil Handler, the Chicago Cardinals' assistant coach and former player, is afraid his boss, Jim Conzelman, meant it when he told him to get in shape for possible gridiron duty next season.

Kokomo Sue.

Sue was broke and feeling down
When a big shot came to town
And invited her to join the OCD:
There was nothing Sue could do
But a little dance or two,
But for this the U. S. paid her handsomely.

Everybody liked her dance
Which suggested young romance,
But a congressman whose intellect was dense
Told the house he couldn't see
How this dancing girl could be
A real asset to the national defense.

So they put the skids to Sue,
And they canned the big shot who
Had acquainted Susie with this civic graft;
Sue felt hurt and softly cried,
And the big shot groaned and sighed,
But the congress and the public only laughed.

You who read will understand
This is just a fable, and
We have changed the names of all the racketeers;
For it seemed to us discreet
Not to show up the élite
Who should have acquired wisdom with their years.

Love is not only a fancy flame

But a ceaseless swell two hearts must help

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 8.—Jimmie Dykes today had the pleasure of directing what, for simplicity, was termed a major league all-star team and he really experienced a most pleasant afternoon. His assortment of talent, representing five major league clubs, defeated a five club Pacific coast league delegation, 3 to 2, before 6,000.

Dykes' merriment was heightened by the fact that his own White Sox boys had a big hand in the victory. Taft Wright of the Sox outfield department knocked a homer over the right field wall just after Lou Novikoff, the widely advertised but light producing Cub, had singled. The major leaguers' other run was strictly a matter between Novikoff and Lou Stringer, but Dykes didn't object to the Cubs sneaking in on some of the glory. Including Wright's homer, the American league made eight of the eleven hits and Dykes figured this was a fair proportion.

Ruffing Yields a Run.

For the first time in his life Dykes had the fun of bossing an athlete garbed in a New York Yankee uniform. He was Charles Ruffing, whose last previous appearance on the mound was his six hit winning job over the Dodgers in the opener of the 1941 world series. Ruffing, a holdout, showed up with a glove, a uniform, and a desire to work. He was accommodated for the first two innings, in one of which the Coast leaguers counted their first run.

Six big league pitchers saw action. Ken Heintzelman of the Pirates yielding the other run. Luke Hamlin, also of the Pirates, pitched hitless innings at the close. Proceeds of the game went to funds for crippled children and bats and balls for the armed forces.

Dick Barrett was pitching for the Coast leaguers when Novikoff opened the second inning by bouncing a single off the pitcher's glove. Wright immediately hit his homer over the right field wall. Kreevich then walked and Kennedy singled, but the pudgy Barrett permitted no liberties by the next three batters. The third of these was Don Kolloway, who fanned. In the home half Ruffing walked Eddie Mayo and it became a run on a pair of singles.

Novikoff Hits Again.

Stringer led off in the third with a looper into short left and Steve Mesner let it drop but in the interests of charitable scoring it was regarded as a double. Further indication of Novikoff's preference for Coast league pitching over the major league brand came in the shape of a single to center, Stringer scoring. Wright walked, but Kreevich hit into a double play.

The Coast league's half of the inning netted hits by Jo Jo White, ex-Tiger, and Debs Garms, National league batting king of 1940, but no runs off Hiram Bithorn, one of the Cubs' hopefuls.

After being tied in a knot in the fourth by Jack Knott of the Athletics, the Coast leaguers made a run in the fifth. The National league delegates were responsible for this incident. Ken Heintzelman of the Pirates began his one inning of toil by walking White. Garms bounced a double play ball to Stringer at short, but the overeager Cub fumbled. Mesner sacrificed and a pass to Bob Kahle loaded the bases. White scored on Ham Schulte's fly to Peanuts Lowrey.

New York, March 8 (AP).—Jim Henry, rookie goalie, finally got his first National Hockey league shutout tonight as the New York Rangers defeated the second place Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 0, before 15,263 in Madison Square Garden.

The victory, coming after the Leafs had defeated the Rangers in Toronto, 4 to 2, Saturday night, restored the New Yorkers' lead of 3 points and greatly improved their chances of finishing on top of the league standing.

With their point total 58 to 55 for the Leafs, the Rangers have only two games to play while the Leafs have three and still are an outside possibility to crowd the New Yorkers out of the top spot.

Patrick Gets No. 30.

When Lynn Patrick, Rangers' left winger, scored a goal he became the first player in seven years to net 30 a season. A feat regarded as about on a par with batting .400 in major league baseball, Patrick attained his mark by tipping in a pass from Phil Watson in the first period. The last player to get 30 or more was Charlie Conacher, then right winger with the Toronto Maple Leafs, who scored 36 in 1934-'35 and 32 in 1933-'34. Lineups:

Resume Drill Today in Free 10 Pin School

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The Chicago Tribune free bowling school, which last week held sessions in which more than 60,000 either took part or witnessed, will continue in the Lawrence bowl today. Thereafter instructions will be resumed in one loop and two south side establishments on succeeding days.

Andy Varipapa, the teacher, and his assistant, 6 year old Twinkie Watts—who demonstrates the delivery Andy teaches—will go to work at the 1820 Lawrence avenue center at 4 o'clock this afternoon, remain for from two to three hours, and return at 11 o'clock tonight. Andy's practice of his trick shots, ordinarily the day's closing number, will be followed by additional instruction tonight—rather than at 1 a. m. tomorrow morning. The reason is the desire for instruction by members of a defense workers' league at the bowl. The workers finish their shift at midnight, hurry over to the bowl and start shooting their matches by 1 o'clock.

Keep Fit America!

Varipapa is eager to help, as a contribution to the Hale America program whose emblem he wears. The Hale America sponsors are urging bowling not only as a means of keeping fit, but also to get defense workers' minds off the grim job in which they are playing a part.

The Tribune school sessions have been carried on at Lawrence Bowl during hours when the demand for alleys is slight. Friday it taxed the capacity of the house, Harold Wessel, operator of the center, estimated that more than 6,000 saw the afternoon and evening shows. Andy's lecture and a game in which Twinkie was matched against the Bowl's instructress, Tess Morris, nearly filled the house again at 6 p. m. Saturday, ordinarily a dull hour.

Evergreen Towers Tomorrow.

In his program at Lawrence Bowl, Andy has stressed the need for instruction, thereby placing added emphasis on the Bowl's teaching program. Lawrence Bowl is regarded as the nation's most advanced bowling establishment so far as instruction is concerned. Mrs. Morris has taught more than 2,000 women there in the last two seasons.

Tomorrow Andy and Twinkie will be at Ray Schalk's Evergreen Towers on 95th street just west of Western avenue. Their program will carry on thru most of the afternoon and again late at night. Schalk anticipates full houses for the two sessions. On Wednesday the school will be conducted in Congress Recreation Center, 31 East Congress street, and on Thursday in Dome De Vito's Park Manor, 100 East 75th street.

MINNESOTA WILL PLAY 2 SERVICE FOOTBALL TEAMS

Minneapolis, Minn., March 8 (AP).—Football probabilities that should have the fans going around talking to themselves next fall were announced today for Minnesota's 1942 gridiron squad by Lou Keller, acting Gopher athletic director.

Keller said Minnesota's game with Illinois, scheduled for Oct. 10 at Champaign, would be changed to Nov. 28 and the October date offered to the Great Lakes Naval Training station team.

Then, on Oct. 3 Keller has offered a game to Maj. Bernard W. Bierman, who will serve as athletic director and head football coach of the navy's training base for aviation cadets at Iowa City. Bierman, former Gopher coach, expects to put a navy team on the field that will "play some pretty fair football."

Thus the fans have in prospect one game in which the man who coached Minnesota teams to the football heights for 10 years—Bierman—will be coaching against the Gophers while on the next Saturday the Great Lakes squad may line up with four Gophers who did a lot to make the 1941 Minnesota team the mythical national champion—Bruce Smith, Bob Sweiger, Urban Odson, and Bob Fitch.

Dick Shaughnessy Retains Mid-Atlantic Skeet Title

Stratford, Conn., March 8 (AP).—Dick Shaughnessy of Dedham, Mass., ran 100 straight birds in the all-bore event at the Remington Gun club range here today to bring his high overall score of 287x300 and retain his middle Atlantic skeet crown.

Kelly and Russell Win Ward Starrett Badminton

Ed Kelly and Fred Russell of the Evanston Badminton club won the Ward Starrett invitational badminton tournament Saturday night in the New Trier High school gymnasium, defeating Lyle Shartz and Harry Conlan, 12-15, 17-14, 18-16.

Alsab Still Is in Derby Race; Rest Probable

Louisville, Ky., March 8 (AP).—Reports that Alsab, the faltering favorite, would pass up the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, May 2, for later stakes engagements, were scotched today.

Track Superintendent Tom Young received a telegram from Alsab's trainer, Sarge Swenke, that the 1941 juvenile champion soon would be shipped direct from Hialeah to the Downs.

"Have stalls ready for me any day now. I'm shipping direct to the Downs," Swenke wired to Young from Florida.

Runs Fifth in Widener.

Alsab finished fifth in the Widener Handicap at Hialeah yesterday, a length back of Woodvale farm's Our Boots, who pounded in behind The Rhymer, Best Seller, and Olympus.

Previously it had been indicated that Alsab, the shortest priced Derby winter book favorite in history until his Hialeah setbacks, might compete in preliminary Kentucky races at the Keeneland course near Lexington. But the tone of Swenke's message led to belief here that Alsab might not be raced until Derby day.

A Smart Move, Perhaps.

Considering Alsab's showing to date, horsemen generally figure this would be a smart move. Acclimatization and "feel of the track" mean much where the Derby is concerned, especially with horses campaigned during the winter months, and under such a plan many express the opinion it would of a certainty be a vastly improved Alsab which would parade May 2.

There still is the possibility that Swenke, his charge rounding into form, might elect to ship him to Lexington for an overnight airing. But then, if he would complete at least one race before the Derby, there always is the Derby Trial stakes, scheduled for Tuesday of Derby week.

REVOLTA SINKS 40 FOOT PUTT; OUSTS SNEAD, GULDAHL

Miami, Fla., March 8 (AP).—Johnny Revolta, paired with Ky Laffoon, sank a 40 foot putt on the 36th green this afternoon for a 1 up victory over Sammy Snead and Ralph Guldahl, last year's finalists, in the first round of the Miami Biltmore's International four ball tournament. The Revolta-Laffoon team scored a 134, 8 under par.

It was a day of upsets. Chandler Harper and Herman Keiser beat Craig Wood and Billy Burke, 5 and 4; Ben Loving and Jack Grout put out Lawson Little and Jimmy Demaret, 1 up; Dutch Harrison and Denny Shute whipped Clayton Heafner and Lloyd Mangrum, 3 and 2; Herman Barron and Tony Penna trounced Jimmy Thomson and Harry Cooper, 3 and 2.

Two favorites came thru. Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen beat Johnny Farrell and Henry Ransom, 1 up; Byron Nelson and Henry Picard whipped Chick Halbert and Sam Byrd, 3 and 1.

Tomorrow's quarter-final round 36 hole pairings:

Hogan and Sarazen vs. Barron and Penna; Harper and Keiser vs. Picard and Nelson; Laffoon and Revolta vs. Loving and Grout; Hines and Goggin vs. Harrison and Shute.

Walking Ad for Navy—That's Apostoli of '42

New York, March 8 (AP).—As a walking advertisment for Uncle Sam's navy and what it can do for a young fellow, Fred Apostoli is presented as today's best window display.

The ex-middleweight king, who was rated only four years ago as the best fighter in the world for his weight and inches at that time, is on the way back again with a fair chance of making the grade. And he credits the life of a sailor boy with the biggest responsibility for switching him from a washed up warrior to that of a guy heading up the comeback trail with a lot of hope.

A Far Different Apostoli.

He's a far different Apostoli than the beaten battler who had his title and his ears knocked off by Ceferino Garcia; who barely lasted against Mello Bettina more than a year ago. Always quiet, keeping to himself, he fairly sparkles now when he tells you how he feels—stronger than at any time in three years, able to hit harder and think faster.

"And the navy did it," he said today as he headed back to the Norfolk base after polishing off Augie Arellano in just under five rounds last night—the first time Arellano ever was stopped and the fourth straight K. O. in the comeback campaign.

"Since I enlisted, this sailor life has put me back in shape. The environment is perfect for a young fellow—it makes him feel right at home. There's nothing like it."

Not Yet Ready for Zale.

This is not to say that Freddy is ready to climb into the ring right now with Tony Zale, the current boss of the 160 pounders. The soft-spoken San Francisco flailer is a lot smarter than that. Knowing more than one-and-one about such things, he realizes he needs considerable more work before he goes to the post in the big event.

"But I can get that in two or three more fights like last night's, depending, of course, that they don't interfere with my being a sailor," he explained. "Those fights should be spread over a few months. Along about July I'll be ready to go with the big fellows again. After all, I'm only 29 and I figure I have two more good years left."

Still Has Coördination.

In outlining these plans, Freddy gives you a sharper picture of the setup than if you'd taken one with a camera. Last night's affair was strictly no contest. After the first round, Apostoli punched Arellano all over the place.

But in making his first start since October, when he suffered a broken left hand, he did show that he still has his reflexes and coördination.

EDDIE LANDER, CASTIGLIONE TO BATTLE TONIGHT

Rivals Fought Draw Two Years Ago.

Eddie Lander and Nick Castiglione, who battled eight rounds to a draw in Chicago Stadium two years ago, will renew their rivalry in a 10 round return bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. The stipulated weight is 138 pounds, the mark Castiglione carried while beating Julie Kogon and Leo Rodak, also in the Stadium, last year.

Nickie weighed 140 pounds in his most recent start, a seventh round technical knockout of Frankie Gilmore in Midway arena on Feb. 6.

Tonight's participants will be rewarded with matches in Madison Square Garden Friday, Castiglione against Maxie Shapiro and Lander against Carlos Malacara. Altho both have appeared in New York before, neither ever has fought in the Garden. Nickie conquered Tony Grey and Lou Schwartz in Manhattan in 1939. Lander recently scored two victories and one draw fight in three appearances there. One of Eddie's victims was Terry Young, recent conqueror of Jackie Wilson, feather

CARDS' ROOKIES STOP YANKEES IN 4 TO 2 BATTLE

Dodgers Lose Series to Cuban All-Stars.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8 (AP).—The New York Yankees had a look at some high class pitching today and were defeated by the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 2. The world champions' two scores were unearned.

Howard Pollet, St. Louis' southpaw rookie, was touched for only one hit in his three-inning turn on the mound and fanned four Yanks in a row. Al Jurisich, New Orleans' rookie, also blanked the Yanks for three innings.

With the bases loaded in the third and two men out, Enos Slaughter singled to drive in two St. Louis runs and Johnny Hopp followed with another hit for the third run. The fourth was added in the sixth. Score:

St. Louis	003	001	00*	4	8 2

DODGERS, CUBANS SPLIT.

HAVANA, Cuba, March 8 (AP).—Brooklyn and the Cuban All-Stars divided a double-header today. The National league champions won the first, 6 to 3, and the Cubans took the second, 3 to 0, behind the seven hit pitching of Rodolfo Fernandez. Three of the hits were made by Johnny Rizzo. The Cubans won three of the five games in the series.

Altho their club was out in front, the spectators hurled several hundred seat cushions and pop bottles on the field to show their disapproval of an umpire's decision when he called a Cuban out while trying to steal second in the ninth inning of the second game.

Peewee Reese of the Dodgers suffered a sprained ankle and will be sidelined for four days. The attendance was 12,418. Scores:

Brooklyn	100	320	000	6	10 0
Cuban All-Stars	300	000	000	3	7 4

300 on Hike

Despite unfavorable weather, 300 persons participated in the first mass hike of the Hale America program of the physical fitness division of the 6th civilian defense region yesterday in the wooded regions west of Winnetka.

The party, divided into three groups of 100 each under the leadership of Carl Stockholm, John Sheridan and Lloyd Faxon, started from the Winnetka Village hall and followed wood trails paralleling Dundee, Waukegan and Deerfield roads, ending the hike at the Orphans of the Storm shelter in Deerfield.

Falling snow failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the hikers, who made periodic stops for refreshments and entertainment. Hale America authorities, well satisfied with the results of the mass event, said attendance might have been doubled had the weather been favorable.

Coöperation in holding the hike was extended by the Fort Dearborn Hiking club, the Chicago Park District Outing club, the Prairie club and the North Shore Hiking club.

MINNESOTA WILL DEFEND BIG TEN WRESTLING TITLE

But Purdue Is Favored in Meet at Chicago.

Minnesota's wrestling team is the defending champion in the Big Ten meet which will be held in Bartlett gymnasium at the University of Chicago Friday and Saturday, but Purdue is favored to win the 1942 title.

The Gophers' chances depreciated last week when Butch Levy, unbeaten heavyweight who was runner-up in last year's meet, broke his foot. It appears now that Purdue's strongest opposition will come from Iowa, Michigan and Illinois.

Iowa Has Power.

Purdue has five undefeated men on its team: Malcolm MacDonald, 121 pounds; Casey Fredericks, 128; Warren Gregory, 145; Jim Paratore, 155, and Frank Ruggeri, heavyweight.

Iowa's power is concentrated in the lower weights, particularly at 128 pounds where Roy Julius will defend his title. Roy Pickett [121], Ed Kemp [135], and the Geppert brothers, Ralph [165] and Dick [155], are capable workmen.

Jim Galles, defending 175 pound champion, will lead the Michigan threat. Bill Courtright [185] and Herb Barnett [135] were third place winners last year.

Roberts Defends Title.

The meet will open Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Quarter-finals are scheduled for Friday night at 8:30; semi-finals Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5, and finals Saturday night at 8:30.

ENTRIES TO CLOSE SATURDAY.

Entries for the eighth annual South End Open basketball tournament, which will be conducted March 19 to April 2, in the 111th street Y, will close Saturday.

TIGHTEN CREDIT BUYING RULES IN INFLATION FIGHT

Bigger 1st Payments Are Required.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—New restrictions to curb instalment buying and act as a guard gainst inflation were announced tonight by the federal reserve board, effective March 23.

The tighter restrictions were in the form of amendments to the original regulations issued by the reserve board late last summer. The new curbs followed closely on the heels of a commerce department estimate yesterday that the national income this year would reach the unprecedented figure of 113 billion dollars, compared with 94½ billion dollars in 1941, which also established a new high.

Principal Rule Changes.

The principal changes in the regulations are:

1. The standard maturity for instalment credits will be reduced from 18 to 15 months except accounts applying to residential modernization, plumbing, furnaces, water heaters, water pumps, and pianos, to which the 18-month limit will continue to apply.

2. Required down payments will be increased from 20 to 33⅓ per cent on purchases of refrigerators, washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners, electric dishwashers, room unit air conditioners, radios, phonographs, and musical instruments. Most of these industries already have been curtailed in production to save materials for war items. Officials also consider them luxury items which civilians can do without until after the war.

Other Payments Boosted.

3. For home air conditioning systems and attic ventilating fans, required down payments will be raised from 15 to 33⅓ per cent.

4. On furnaces, water heaters, water pumps, and plumbing, the down payments will be increased from 15 to 20 per cent.

5. The board added to the list of articles requiring a 33⅓ per cent down payment the following: bicycles, lawn mowers, silverware, and photographic equipment. Added to the list of commodities requiring a 20 per cent down payment were: clocks, watches, and floor coverings.

The board announced that after April 1, the credit value of used automobiles instead of being based solely upon the purchase price will be based on either the purchase price or upon the average retail value stated in official appraisal guides, whichever is lower.

The main purpose of the new regulations is to discourage purchase of the items affected, and postpone spending until after the war to avert threats of depression.

TRUCK RATIONING REGULATIONS ARE EFFECTIVE TODAY

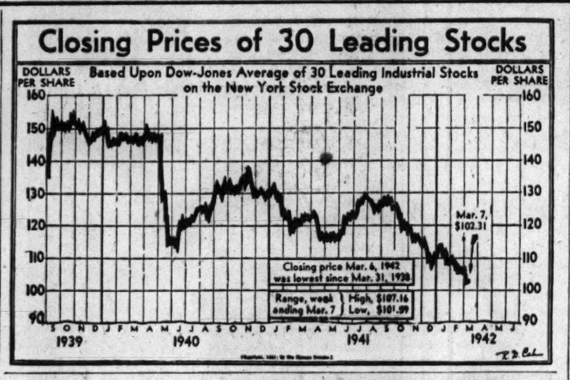
Washington, D. C., March 8 [Special].—Rationing of all types of new trucks, truck trators and trailers to be administered thru the joint facilities of the War Production board and the Office of Defense Transportation became effective today.

Stocks of trucks have been frozen since the beginning of the year. Rationing will enable dealers to release gradually to government and essential civilian users of these stocks. It is estimated that approximately 100,000 vehicles will be available for rationing during the remainder of the year.

New Priority Application Form Effective March 15

Washington, D. C., March 8 [Special].—Business men who have been obtaining priority materials by use of PD-1 applications are warned to change over by March 15 to the new PD-1A form. The shift to the new and simpler system is mandatory.

Closing Prices of 30 Leading Stocks



Seeks to Avoid Forced Sales of Utility Units

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Rep. George A. Paddock [R., Ill.] said today that he would introduce a bill to authorize the Securities and Exchange commission to suspend during the wartime emergency the so-called death sentence provisions, which, if rigidly enforced, would require public sale of numerous utility operating companies under the present adverse conditions.

"Such sales would necessarily be at distress prices, resulting in excessive and unjust losses to the many thousands of investors, including large numbers of persons of small means, who own stock in the holding companies now owning these properties," he asserted. "There is no good reason for congress to cause such losses.

Other Stocks Suffer.

"Another strong argument against compelling these sales of operating company stocks at bargain counter prices is the resultant damage to market values of other operating company stocks. Whenever a stock of a well known company is marked down excessively, the stocks of similar companies inevitably suffer.

"A third and equally strong argument against forcing the immediate sale of these operating company stocks is that public funds would be absorbed which could find much better employment in government bonds or other investments really needed in our war activities.

Expects Help from SEC.

"I believe that this authorization to the Securities and Exchange commission will enable that body to act wisely and helpfully in the existing emergency."

Paddock said that the legislation he proposes would merely authorize, without compelling, suspension of the death sentence provisions, which, he said, eliminates possibility of harmful effects.

CONSUMER STEEL SHIPMENTS FROM MILLS NEAR END

Cleveland, O., March 8 (AP).—Shipment of steel for civilian use has practically ended, the magazine Steel reported today.

"Fabricators whose normal lines of production have been suspended are canceling contracts with mills," the publication said. "At the same time they are being allocated tonnage for use in their converted production for war purposes, in some instances larger supply than they had used for their regular lines.

"Plate consumption is at a record rate. Some ship building delay has been caused by slow plate shipments to manufacturers of propulsion equipment and other fittings. This condition is being corrected by allocations."

Schedule Meetings to Aid Search for Needed Metals

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes announced today a series of five meetings will be held in western states this month to speed the mobilization of domestic mineral resources. Special attention will be given in the meetings to increasing explorations for such strategic metals as copper, zinc, lead, vanadium, and tungsten, and for additional bauxite, alunite, and aluminum clays.

TRACTORS AND TRUCKS.

I would appreciate a report on International Harvester. I read the other day that the company's sales and earnings are at record levels so I'm thinking about a common stock investment.—J. A. L.

Answer: International Harvester company, with total assets of more than $484,000,000, is the largest manufacturer of farm machinery and equipment and farm tractors. In recent years the company has become a major manufacturer of motor trucks. Other products include industrial tractors and gasoline and Diesel engines. The present company was incorporated in 1918 but the original International Harvester was founded in 1902 as the consolidation of companies established many years previously. General offices and important manufacturing units are in Chicago.

By mid-February this year, war orders exceeded $400,000,000, with army tanks the largest single project. Tractors, trucks, shells, and gun carriages also are being produced.

Capitalization is 816,724 outstanding shares of 7 per cent preferred stock, $100 par, and 4,245,721 shares of no par common. The stocks are listed on the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges. There is no funded debt.

Dividends have been paid regularly since incorporation. Common stock dividends amounted to $3 a share in 1941, compared with $2.40 in 1940, $1.60 in 1939, $2.15 in 1938 and $4 in 1937. A 50 cent distribution was made Jan. 15 this year, and the same amount will be paid April 15.

International Harvester's net profit for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1941 was the largest since 1937, while sales were the largest on record. The company reported that demand for agricultural machinery and trucks was at record levels.

	Net sales.	Net income.	shr. Per com
1941	$364,635,058	$30,634,588	$5.87
1940	274,682,399	26,161,110	4.11

*1937	351,927,768	32,492,763	6.31

NONRESIDENT ALIEN.

Answer: A nonresident alien is an individual who is not a citizen of the United States and has no residence here. Aliens who actually reside in the United States are considered residents for income tax purposes and are taxed on the same basis as American citizens. Nonresident aliens are taxed at special rates only on income derived from United States sources.

Winter Wheat Crop Condition Reported Good

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Arrival of planting time in the south and the approach of spring in this area have caused Chicago grain men to pay stricter attention to crop reports.

Altho wartime restrictions have eliminated reports on the weather conditions in the wheat belt the last three months, grain men said yesterday that the fall sown wheat crop appeared to have passed thru the winter in good condition.

Highly Favorable in Kansas.

"If any change in Kansas wheat prospects has occurred during the last 30 days, it has been for the better," crop observers for the Santa Fe railroad reported. "The outlook remains highly favorable. Despite a reduction in acreage, opinion prevails that Kansas is well on the way to one of its record crops."

Similar reports on good crop conditions have come from many parts of the wheat belt. Altho much of the belt had the driest January in its history, observers say that subsoil moisture conditions are excellent and a minimum of rainfall on the growing crop could bring it along to a bountiful harvest.

Plantings Are Reduced.

Federal agricultural authorities are permitting farmers to plant only 55 million acres of wheat this year, the smallest acreage in modern times. Plantings last year were about 62½ million acres.

Prices moved weakly in an extremely light trade on the Chicago Board of Trade last week, bulk of the interest centering in the corn market. Traders awaited decision of congress on a law that would prohibit sale of government owned farm products at less than parity prices.

CIO President Assails Henderson Wage Policy

New York, March 8 (AP).—Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, asserted today that a recent statement by Price Administrator Leon Henderson that the general wage level should remain static "is highly unfair and grows out of fallacious economic reasoning."

Borden Sales Rise; Profit Gain Moderate

A large increase in sales and a moderate rise in profit for 1941 were reported yesterday by Borden company, which distributes fluid milk to consumers and manufactures and markets milk products and vitamin concentrates. Results for the year were reviewed in the annual report, signed by Theodore G. Montague, president.

At the same time, C. L. Dressel, president of the company's Borden-Wieland division, which handles the fluid milk sales in Chicago, announced that the division lost .46 of a cent on each dollar it received last year, compared with 5.3 cents on each sales dollar in 1940.

Nets $1.88 Per Share.

Borden company and its subsidiaries had net income last year of $8,270,572, equal to $1.88 a share, compared with profit of $7,582,617, or $1.72 a share, in 1940. Sales were $259,128,514, against $216,795,850.

"The improvement in sales can be ascribed to the acceleration of business activity, increased sales of new products, higher prices, and our direct participation in the defense effort," Montague said. "Large quantities of dairy products were required by the federal government for the army and navy and for the lend-lease program."

Montague, commenting on fluid milk operations in the United States and Canada, said sales have held to a satisfactory level or improved in smaller communities, but have been unsatisfactory in terms of volume and profits in the larger cities, including Chicago and New York.

United Aircraft Gains.

Shipments by United Aircraft corporation, East Hartford, Conn., increased 143 per cent last year to reach a record high of 307 million dollars, President Eugene W. Wilson and Chairman Frederick B. Rentschler disclosed in their annual report to stockholders. The 1940 total was 126 million dollars.

Net earnings of the corporation, maker of Pratt & Whitney engines, Vought-Sikorsky airplanes, and Hamilton standard propellers, were $16,721,380, equal to $6.29 a share, against profit of $15,443,057, or $5.81 a share, in the preceding year.

The officials said the company was determined to avoid excessive earnings from accelerated war production and had "stabilized profits" at prewar levels. They reported "important savings" had been passed on to the government by cutting prices on navy contracts.

Oil Company Earns More.

Phillips Petroleum company, Bartlesville, Okla., announced 1941 earnings were $17,436,977, equal to $3.92 a share, against $11,590,318, or $2.61 a share in 1940.

Celanese Corporation of America, New York, reported net income for 1941 was $7,105,685, equal to $3.43 a share of common stock, compared with 1940 net income of $6,376,896, which was equal to $2.90 a share on 1941 capitalization, or $3.38 a share on the 1,112,768 shares outstanding at the end of 1940.

ALL-OUT EFFORT AT ONCE URGED ON INDUSTRIES

'Save Nation Now,' Plea of Witherow.

New York, March 8 (AP).—William P. Witherow, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, today urged every manufacturer to "save the nation now and fight like troopers afterward for what you believe the nation should be." Calling on the members of his organization to turn the tide of war "in these next 10 short months," he said:

"I'd rather be without plant, private enterprise, or wealth than take my orders from Tokio. The war news isn't good. The specter of defeat very definitely shows itself in each communique. I think we might just as well give our all in personal energy, plant production, and taxes now as to lose all eventually.

Materials of War Real Need.

"All the heroic MacArthurs in the world can't win the war without guns, planes, and ships. Only we manufacturers can make those materials of war.

"Ours is not only the responsibility of protecting our homes, but the responsibility for the human lives that stand between us and defeat. Let's not await another Pearl Harbor before hard-headed realism causes us to see that this is the supreme test of the nation—a test no American ever expected to face.

"Manufacturers have responded in this crisis, but the purport of my appeal, as your president, is to say that it is not enough.

All-Out Effort Demanded.

"Every vestige of business in the ordinary sense must fade before this demand. Every machine must make its maximum daily output in constant operation. Every plant that can make anything for war must convert now, or neither plant nor country will survive.

"Whatever the handicaps, let it never be said that management caused them. Some day the efforts of this moment will be tried in all their nakedness before the supreme jury of the people; let not the verdict of anything 'less than our best' soil the reputation of manufacturers' patriotism.

"Complacency born of wealth and a peace-minded people is today our greatest single enemy."

CONVICT THREE ON SECURITIES FRAUD CHARGES

New York, March 8 (AP).—A federal court jury completed a six month trial today by convicting three men and acquitting a fourth on charges of mail fraud or conspiracy, or both, in a 10 million dollar oil securities swindle.

Those convicted were Joseph Cohen of New York, president of Underwriters' Group, Inc., six counts; Bertram Wachtel of Boston, 10 counts; Mandel Raffe of New York, president of Surety Investment and Finance company, 2 counts. Acquitted was Anton Homsey of Boston, an official of du Pont Homsey & Co., a brokerage concern.

Assistant United States Attorney Richard Delafield said the fraud involved hundreds of victims living in Illinois, New York, New England, New Jersey, and Delaware. The defendants, he said, sold investment trust certificates in series sponsored by the Surety Investment and Finance company and Underwriters Group, Inc.

BANKS SET NEW PEAKS IN ASSET, DEPOSIT TOTALS

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—The nation's banks reached new peaks in assets and deposits on Dec. 31, Preston Delano, controler of the currency, announced today.

Reports from 5,123 banks covered in the call for condition statements on that date showed total assets of $43,538,000,000, an increase of $3,804,000,000 during 1941, and total deposits of $39,555,000,000, a gain of $3,702,000,000.

Loans and discounts amounted to $11,752,000,000, an increase of $282,000,000 during the final quarter of 1941 and $1,724,000,000 for the full year.

Safety Awards to Be Given 13 Chicago Area Companies

Safety awards will be given next month by the Greater Chicago Safety council to 13 companies whose trucks covered 7 million miles from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1941, with a total of 138 accidents, C. S. Craigmile, president of the council, announced yesterday.

WPB INDUSTRY BUREAU IS REORGANIZED; SET UP 24 NEW BRANCHES

Ben Alexander.

Washington, D. C., March 8 (AP).—The War Production board today announced reorganization of its bureau of industry operations and establishment of 24 industry branches. Chiefs of each branch have been charged with responsibility for effecting "maximum use of existing industrial capacity for production of war materials and products for essential civilian use."

Each chief will serve as "the official point of contact between the WPB and all committees and subcommittees" of the industry assigned him, the announcement said.

The bureau is headed by Philip D. Reed. Named to assist him were ranking executives of nationally known business and industrial establishments. Among special assistants is Ben Alexander, president of the Masonite corporation, Chicago.
